Pennsy groundhogs see things both ways

Weather oracles at odds!!

The Slumbering Groundhog Lodge of Quarryville, Pa., takes one approach to weather forecasting.

At the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club — a more formal approach.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (AP) — In tune with tradition and despite heavy overcast and a little rain, famed Punxsutawney Phil saw his shadow at 6:45 a.m. today, forecasting six more weeks of winter weather.

All went according to schedule as a hardy troop of disciples climbed Gobblers Knob just outside of town and watched the furry weather oracle, as the legend goes, climb out of his burrow and fulfill his prediction.

Almost always it is that a shadow-sighting will be made, thus foretelling another six weeks of winter.

Meanwhile in Lancaster County, the Quarryville groundhog saw things differently this morning.

Robert W. Herr, hibernating governor of the Quarryville Lodge of Slumbering Groundhogs, reported their groundhog did not see his shadow, meaning spring is around the corner.

According to tradition, if Punxsutawney Phil—the name bestowed upon the groundhog each year—sees his shadow upon emerging from his burrow Feb. 2, there will be at least six more weeks of winter. Conversely, if he fails to see his shadow, spring supposedly is just around the corner.

The legend was born in 1882, the creation of some card-playing men sitting around a keg of beer frying a groundhog in butter. The idea was fanned by a newspaper editor and since has grown to such proportions that Punxsutawney and its groundhogs are renowned worldwide.

Jupiter Pluvius and the groundhog fought it out at dawn in Fayette County and Jupe was hands-down winner in a deluge. Woody woodchuck returned to his underground haven, in a nasty mood, and went back to sleep, "for at least six weeks", he muttered.

The groundhog's forecast—a spoof of course—is determined weeks in advance every year by the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club.

Almost always it is that a shadow-sighting will be made, thus foretelling another six weeks of winter. This year is no exception.

The 22 members of the club's so-called Inner Circle—local businessmen and civic leaders all—traditionally garb themselves in tails and tophats and clumb to the top of the bill known as Gobbler's Knob just before sunup to witness the groundhog's supposed prediction.

The star of the hour is carried along in a cage, doubleleashed to keep him from scampering for company more to his liking. He is stuffed gingerly into a hollowed-out tree stump that substitutes for a burrow, then summoned forth as the sun comes up for the great moment of fiction.

Most years the groundhog is so frightened and cold that once inside the stump, he has to be forced out. That requires a tricky combination of leash-

Penn Central needs cash: $600 million

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The financially troubled Penn Central railroad says it must get $600 million in federal subsidies over the next four years to get out of the red.

The company, America's biggest railroad, has filed for reorganization under federal bankruptcy statutes.

Without the federal money, the railroad's court-appointed trustees said Thursday, the only way to reach financial stability would be to cut the trackage almost in half.

The three trustees told U.S. District Court Judge John P. Fullam, who is supervising the reorganization, that the $600 million is based on operating a 15,000-mile system.

Penn Central currently has a 20,000-mile system, but has consistently said it could not return to the black by the 1976 deadline unless track reductions were approved.

The report filed with Fullam said expenditures through the years 1973-76 would total $1.624 billion for upgrading the line's plant and services. Penn Central said it expected to generate more than $1 billion of the required funds through freight and passenger business.

The trustees said the infusion of the public funds into the line would "insure the continuation of essential operations." Alternately, the report said of the requested $600 million, "A failure of the federal government to make this investment or to take other adequate actions can only result in a closing of Penn Central's railroad."

British soldier latest victim of Irish violence

BELFAST (AP) — A sniper killed a British soldier in Strabane Thursday night as bombs and rioting shook Belfast.

Sgt. William Boardley, 30, was the first soldier to die this year and the 698th confirmed death in three and a half years of Roman Catholic-Protestant warfare in Northern Ireland.

Boardley was shot as he set up a checkpoint against the assassins who have killed four Catholics and a Protestant this week.

In Belfast, a man identified only as a Protestant was critically wounded by gunfire, and authorities attributed the shooting to an assassination gang.

British troops in the capital rounded up about 10 Protestants for questioning about the bombing of a bus Thursday morning that killed a Catholic workman and injured others. The army's search brought Protestant mobs into the streets of East Belfast, setting cars and buses on fire to block the patrols. The troops smashed through with armored bulldozers.

Bombs went off in four Belfast buildings, causing heavy damage but no casualties.

Anonymous telephone callers told local newspapers the Ulster Volunteer Force, an outlawed Protestant vigilante force, was responsible for the bus bombing. But the organization later denied this.

Jobless rate dips in January

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped slightly last month to 5 per cent of the work force, lowest in 2½ years, the Labor Department reported today.

The actual number of Americans out of work rose 560,000, but since it normally climbs more than that in January, the Bureau of Labor Statistics figured it as a decline on a seasonally adjusted basis.

The 5 per cent jobless rate, down from 5.1 per cent in December, had been the Nixon administration's goal for reducing joblessness by the end of last year. The January report means the administration missed its target by only one month.

POW list shockingly small

Up to 1,400 GIs 'Lost'

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials, unwilling to accept North Vietnam's latest prisoner list as final, are pressing Communist diplomats for more names than those of seven American servicemen and three civilians acknowledged as captives in Laos.

Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, chief U.S. negotiator of the Vietnam cease-fire agreement and its prisoner provisions, said Thursday night that "it doesn't look to us that it could be complete."

"We are querying them" for further information and more names, Kissinger said in a CBS interview.

The new lists, provided belatedly Thursday, left unexplained the fate of 308 U.S. servicemen and four civilians who have been carried in American records as either prisoners or missing in Laos.

Pentagon and State Department officials expressed shock and disappointment that the lists handed over in Paris five days after the Vietnam ceasefire agreement was signed were so small.

North Vietnam has acknowledged 562 U.S. servicemen and 23 American civilians are in Communist captivity in North Vietnam, South Vietnam and Laos.

Beyond this, the North Vietnamese have reported 55 military men and six civilians died while in prison.

For Indochina as a whole, the North Vietnamese lists supplied since last Saturday have failed to shed any light on what has happened to some 1,300 officers and enlisted men and 22 American civilians.

One of the three civilians reported prisoner in Thursday's list is a Canadian missionary.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim refused to voice any opinion when asked whether the North Vietnamese and their Pathet Lao allies might be holding back more names because U.S. warplanes are still bombing the Ho Chi Minh trail network and other targets in Laos despite the Vietnam cease-fire.

Friedheim said he could not say more than an official Pentagon statement that "the U.S. government will continue its efforts to account for all military personnel who have been carried by the United States as captured and missing."

The total of U.S. servicemen identified as prisoners in Laos actually is nine. It has been established that two servicemen whose names appeared on a list of 555 identified by the Hanoi diplomats last Saturday as captured by the North Vietnamese had been imprisoned in Laos. Friedheim did not name the two.

Pope selects 30 Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI named 30 new cardinals today, including the archbishops of Boston, Los Angeles and San Juan, P.R.

The pontiff announced that he would elevate the new princes of the Roman Catholic church at a consistory March 5.

It will be the fourth consistory of Pope Paul's reign and will increase the College of Cardinals to 145 members, the largest it has ever been.

The new American cardinals are Humberto S. Medeiros, 57, of Boston; Timothy Manning, 63, of Los Angeles; and Luis Aponte Martinez, 50, of San Juan.

Viet peace panel making progress

SAIGON (AP) — The chief delegates of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong on a peacekeeping military commission met for the first time today to take up an agenda including arrangements for the completion of American troop withdrawals and prisoner exchanges, U.S. officials reported.

A third pressing item on the agenda, the American officials said, was to arrange security for field teams of the International Commission of Control and Supervision who are to police the cease-fire.

The observers from Canada, Poland, Hungary and Indonesia are already three days behind the schedule specified in the cease-fire agreement for setting up regional headquarters in Hue, Da Nang, Pleiku, Phan Thiet, Bien Hoa, My Tho and Can Tho.

U.S. officials termed the meeting "significant."

There were other signs that the peacekeeping commissions are getting into action.

U.S. helicopters flew 40 more Viet Cong delegates and 4,000 pounds of their supplies from their district headquarters at Loc Ninh to Saigon to join the joint military commission.

Sunday was reported to be the target for deployment of Communist representatives to the seven regional headquarters where the international supervisory teams will be based.

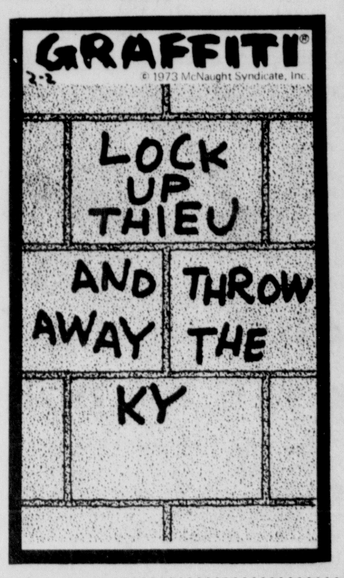
The international commission sent advance teams today to Pleiku, Da Nang and Hue to check out accommodations, transportation and communication facilities.

Col. Keith MacGregor of the Canadian delegation told newsmen at Pleiku that a full team of about 30 members should be there in two to four days.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, said there were no sustained battles anywhere in the country. But he claimed there were 200 more Communist violations of the cease-fire during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today. Many were shelling attacks.

Hien said 524 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and 37 South Vietnamese were killed during the latest reporting period. He said 185 government troops were wounded and 82 were missing.

Hien conceded that there had been an over-all decrease in fighting in the past two days. But he added that this is only one factor in having an "effective and serious cease-fire." He said teams of the peacekeeping commissions were needed in the field.



Sea-way burglary loss tops $7,000

Loss in a burglary early Thursday at the Sea-way store, CCC Highway-W, has been estimated in excess of $7,000, the Sheriff's Department reported.

Sgt. William Crooks, heading the investigation, said guns, watches, household appliances and radios were taken in the break-in which occurred sometime after 10 p.m. Wednesday.

The theft was discovered by store manager Robert Coffey when he entered the building about 8:15 a.m. Thursday. Officers reported the store's burglar alarm was under repair at the time and not in operation.

According to Crooks the building was entered through a three-foot square hole knocked in a rear concrete block wall, apparently with a sledge hammer. Crooks said the burglars then pulled a large display case, sitting outside, in front of the hole to conceal it from detection while they gathered items inside.

The merchandise was then apparently loaded onto a truck and hauled away, officers believe.

Agents from the Bureau of Criminal Identification, London, were on the scene Thursday to assist sheriff's deputies in the investigation.

A complete list of stolen merchandise was being compiled in an inventory Friday, Crooks reported.

Racial problems not yet solved, Johnson believed

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson said in his last interview that the nation's racial problems cannot be solved unless there is greater awareness that whites and blacks still are treated unequally.

"One stands in an elevated position with all the advantages this country gives him and the other stands down in the rut, neglected and overlooked," he said.

"... But unless we recognize the fact that one's on the hill and the other's in the hollow, the one's on the mountain, the other's in the ditch, we're not evaluating it properly, and if we don't evaluate the problem properly, we can't solve the problem."

Johnson's remarks were recorded 10 days before his death in an interview with CBS newsman Walter Cronkite. The television interview, taped at the LBJ Ranch in Texas, was aired Thursday night.

Political negotiations with Viet Cong set

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu announced that South Vietnam will begin political negotiations with the Viet Cong in Paris no later than Tuesday.

"I have ordered Ambassador Pham Dang Lam to meet the Viet Cong in Paris no later than Feb. 6 to solve the internal problems of South Vietnam," Thieu declared Saturday in a Tet lunar new year television address to the nation.

Watergate bonds set

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today set surety bonds of $100,000 for each of the two men convicted in the Watergate trial and took the occasion to say that he had "great doubts of whether a key prosecution witness testified truthfully."

Weather

Variable cloudiness and cooler tonight, with lows from the mid to upper 30s. Considerable cloudiness and cooler tomorrow with highs in the 40s.

Ex-Sen. Brewster gets prison term

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md. was sentenced today to two to six years in prison and fined $30,000 on charges of accepting an illegal gratuity.

His codefendant, former lobbyist Cyrus T. Anderson, was sentenced to 1½ to 4½ years in prison and fined $30,000.

U.S. District Court Judge George Hart told Brewster as he imposed sentence, "I find myself facing a man trusted by the people of Maryland ... a man who violated that trust."

He sentenced the former senator to a minimum of eight months and a maximum of two years in prison on each of the three convictions. He ordered the sentences to run consecutively.

Anderson, once a lobbyist for the mail order firm of Spiegel Inc., who was convicted of three counts of bribery, was sentenced on each count to a minimum of six months and a maximum of 18 months and the sentences also are to run consecutively.

In an 11th hour plea to the court, Brewster said, "I remain staunchly convinced that I have not violated the law."

Both men have said they will appeal their convictions by a jury last November.

The government had accused Spiegel and Anderson of bribing Brewster with more than $14,000 to influence his vote on postal rate legislation.

Throughout the trial neither Brewster nor Anderson denied the exchange of funds, but both contended the money was a legitimate campaign contribution.

Spiegel, which was indicted along with Brewster and Anderson, pleaded guilty to two charges of paying an unlawful gratuity and was fined $20,000, thus avoiding a public trial.

Brewster was elected to the Senate in 1961 but defeated for re-election in 1968.

Record-Herald offers travel tours to readers

A public service program, designed to help our readers enjoy the experience of planned travel, is being inaugurated by The Record-Herald today.

As part of the plan, The Record-Herald has joined with a dozen Ohio daily newspapers in presenting the travel schedule under the name of Newspaper Tours Ltd. Trips sponsored by Newspaper Tours Ltd. are organized and operated by the Richard Lewis Travel Service, Columbus.

Newspaper Tours Ltd. will offer travel at a pace to meet most patrons' likes and at the same time offer maximum provisions at a minimum cost. Each trip will be a well-planned, comprehensive tour of varying duration of time. The tours will provide the utmost in travel comfort, with comprehensive sightseeing throughout and at a leisurely-pace, all with confirmed overnight accommodations in top-rated hotels.

The tours program will include such trips as a Theater Tour to London, England; a visit to neighboring Mexico; an exotic cruise to the Caribbean; a Fall Foliage visit to our New England neighbors; a flying excursion to top points of interest in Western Europe, tropcal climes of Hawaii and many other inviting spots.

Each reader of The Record-Herald will be able to reserve space for the specific tour or tours, he or she desires, through this newspaper by using the coupon printed with each trip announcement. The Record-Herald will handle the initial reservation transactions as a further public service to our readers.

Also joining in this public service venture are The Madison Press, London; The Gazette, Xenia; Times-Bulletin, Van Wert; The Sentinel, Pomeroy; The Times, Greenfield; Tribune, Gallipolis; Logan Daily News, Logan; News-Journal, Wilmington; The Times, Marietta; Journal-Tribune, Marysville and The Citizen, Urbana.

In addition to the regularly scheduled trip offerings, The Record-Herald also will publish a weekly travel column "Travel Time." We believe the column will provide interesting, as well as informative, reading. The column will be written by a veteran newspaperman who has considerable experience in travel as a group escort. The column will deal with general travel news and features as well as specific trips established by Newspaper Tours Ltd.

Deaths, Funerals

GLENN TRIMMER — Services for Glenn Trimmer, 64, of 526 Campbell St., were held at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Gerstner - Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Arthur George officiating. Mr. Trimmer, a retired 43-year employe of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company, died Sunday.

Pallbearers for burial in Washington Cemetery were Warren Campbell, Howard Baughn, Michael Harrison, Jerry Newton, Rodney Ward and Robert Frazier.

Former Fayette man killed in auto accident

Relatives here have received word of the death of Hugh Jennings Swayne, 35, of Livonia, Mich., a former Fayette County resident, who was killed Friday morning while en route from Livonia to his work in Flat Rock, Mich.

He was an employe of the DT&I Railroad. There were no immediate details of the accident.

Born March 15, 1937, in Highland County, Mr. Swayne attended Wilson Elementary School and Washington High School.

He is survived by his wife, Sheila; two stepchildren, Patty and Drew, at home; his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Swayne, 819 Sycamore St.; four brothers, Paul, of Columbus, Robert and Edward, of Springfield, and John, of Greenfield; two sisters, Mrs. Betty Leslein, Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. Lena Fenner, Columbus. He was preceded in death by his father, Frank Swayne, and a brother, Leroy.

Funeral arrangements are being made in Livonia.

Jeff Council hears sewer work reports

JEFFERSONVILLE — Jeffersonville Village Council Thursday night heard reports from M.M. Schirtzinger and Associates, Chillicothe, the village's consulting engineers, on progress being made on the new sewer system.

Mayor Donald Morrow said Contract No. 1, which extends from the railroad tracks east and is being handled by Contractors Services, Inc., Cincinnati, is 80 per cent complete.

Contract No. 2, which extends from Ohio 729 to Ohio 41-N and is being handled by Coates Brothers, Dayton, is also 80 per cent complete. The two other contracts, which include the business district and treatment plant site, are 30 per cent complete, Morrow said.

Council also received a report from the village service director, Linday Sharrett, concerning complaints from citizens against the contractors.

Councilmen instructed Sharrett to attempt to solve the problems as soon as possible.

Sharrett was also instructed to arrange a meeting with DT&I railroad officials. Sharrett and Morrow will travel to Detroit as soon as the meeting is arranged to discuss a solution for repairing a storm sewer break located under the DT&I tracks.

The 1973 appropriations resolution was also approved, but Morrow reported the finance committee, the mayor and the clerk will review the appropriations at 7 p.m. Tuesday for Council's final approval Feb. 15.

Morrow also informed Council that bids for the purchase of a one-tone truck and back hoe will be opened at the Feb. 15 meeting.

President begins series of State of Union plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, already beset by congressional critics of his belt-tightening new budget, appealed directly to Congress today to work with him to achieve administration goals which he said mark "a fresh approach to government."

In the first of a series of State of the Union reports, Nixon pledged "to do my part to achieve a constructive working relationship with Congress" controlled by the opposition Democrats. He said:

"My sincere hope is that the executive and legislative branches can work together in this great undertaking in a positive spirit of mutual respect and cooperation."

This first Nixon report was long on generalities but short on specifics. In essence, he stated, then underscored two basic positions:

"In the field of foreign policy, we must remember that a strong America—an America whose word is believed and whose strength is respected—is essential to continued peace and understanding in the world."

Nixon said the Vietnam peace agreement has strengthened "basic American credibility" and added, "We must act in such a way in coming years that this credibility will remain intact, and with it the world stability of which it is so indispensable a part."

"At home, we must reject the mistaken notion—a notion that has dominated too much of the public dialogue for too long— that ever-bigger government is the answer to every problem."

The chief executive asserted, "We have learned only too well that heavy taxation and excessive government spending are not a cure-all."

Democrats in Congress, particularly, have been critical of Nixon's intention to scrap a broad variety of existing federal programs, most of them in the social welfare area. Without referring to such criticism, Nixon said:

"The policies which I will outline to the Congress in weeks ahead represent a reaffirmation, not an abdication of federal responsibility. They represent a pragmatic rededication to social compassion and national excellence, in place of the combination and good intentions and fuzzy followthrough which too often in the past was thought sufficient."

One of the few specifics Nixon cited was a list of State of the Union reports yet to come. He said these would include "economic affairs, natural resources, human resources, community development and foreign and defense policy."

The President indicated he would have still another message calling anew for congressional approval of a plan to reorganize the Cabinet structure and create new departments of natural resources, human resources and community development.

Kissinger says Nixon trips spurred peace in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's Peking and Moscow trips made the Vietnam settlement possible, according to Henry Kissinger, which in turn frees the United States to work even more actively for a new global relationship.

Kissinger also used his "theory of international linkage" to define the role expected of China and the Soviet Union in making the Vietnam peace last.

"Whether the peace is fragile or not," Kissinger said Thursday, "depends in part on the Vietnamese; it depends in part on outside countries."

The presidential adviser added during his first major broadcast interview, with CBS diplomatic correspondent Marvin Kalb, that "I don't trust the good will" of the parties.

A lasting peace depends in large part "on the actions of the Soviet Union, the Peoples Republic of China and on the sort of relationship we'll be able to establish with North Vietnam."

What this means for Moscow and Peking, Kissinger said, is for them to see what massive military aid to Hanoi means "in terms of the incentives" such shipments lend to resuming the fighting.

This also holds true for the United States, the presidential adviser acknowledged, but he pledged strict adherence to the cease-fire agreement signed Jan. 28 which limits the American military aid to Saigon.

The Communist allies of Hanoi should play such a placid role, Kissinger said, because "we're bound together by one basic fact—that none of us can survive a nuclear war."

In explaining the over-all U.S. motives, the former Harvard political scientist said Nixon "felt that we had to end the war on honorable terms so that we would be free to be taken seriously in the conduct of other events."

According to Kissinger, "When this administration came into office four years ago, Vietnam was really our national obsession. It was almost the only foreign policy that was being actively debated....

"The President held the view from the beginning that we had to change the emphasis of that concern" and this, he said, led to the Moscow and Peking summits and the arms-limitation agreements with the Soviets.

Agnew talks with Thais

BANGKOK (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew today pledged continued U.S. military and economic aid to Thailand after the Vietnam war, a Thai spokesman reported.

Agnew met for two hours with Premier Thanom Kittikachorn and other Thai officials.

The vice president arrived in Bangkok Thursday after talks in Saigon with President Nguyen Van Thieu and in Phnom Penh with President Lon Nol on postwar reconstruction of Indochina.

He is scheduled to fly to Vientiane Saturday to meet with Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma, then go on to Singapore, Jakarta and Kuala Lumpur.

In reply to a question, the spokesman said Thanom and Agnew did not discuss U.S. troops and bases in Thailand. A Bangkok newspaper said today that an expansion program is under way at the big Utapao Air Base, 90 miles south of Bangkok on the Gulf of Thailand.

GM reports record $2.163 billion profit

DETROIT (AP) — Increased sales and employment cuts gave General Motors Corp. record high earnings in 1972, but top officials of the world's largest company noted a decline in profit margins from the last record year.

In a report still subject to audit, the auto giant reported 1972 profits at $2.163 billion, topping the record of $2.13 billion set in 1965.

Dope raid staged

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Eight persons, one of them a woman, were charged today with sale of marijuana after law enforcement officers raided a Kent home Thursday night and found 15 pounds of the substance.

Police also found what they called "a large amount of suspected cocaine."

'Good night'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., remained in "very serious" condition at Walter Reed Army Medical Center today but a spokesman reported he "had a good night."

Stennis, who was shot twice Tuesday night during a robbery in front of his house in Washington, "is now awake, alert and well-oriented," the spokesman, Maj. Frank Garland, said.

Garland said Stennis "continues to show improvement. The vital signs are good."

Court ruling forces Ohio to speed up pollution cleanup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A ruling by a federal appeals court in Washington means lots of work for the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, a spokesman for the state KPA said.

The ruling was on a suit brought against the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, challenging its decision to grant two-year delays to Ohio and 17 other states for full compliance with mid-1975 clean-air standards.

The suit was filed by the Natural Resources Defense Council, a citizens' environmental group.

Three Ohio cities were affected by the two-year extension. Dayton was allowed two more years to impose transportation controls to curb smog, while Cincinnati and Toledo were allowed two more years to control of stationary pollution sources.

The ruling requires the Ohio EPA to evaluate its program and seek ways to comply with the 1975 requirements, the state spokesman said.

Federal EPA Administrator William Ruckelshause established the nationwide air quality standards under authority of the 1970 Clean Air Act. States were made responsible for implementation of the standards by May 31, 1975.

Some state plans were approved last May 31, but Ruckelshaus allowed Ohio and the 17 other states extensions to submit parts of the plan affected by the court ruling.

Transportation control plans, including the plan for Dayton, had been due the 15th of this month, but the court order allows a two-month extension for states to now review the proposals.

The court said the extensions could be reinstated under the following conditions:

—The state has submitted a plan for meeting the 1975 deadline.

—The state can show that one or more pollution sources cannot comply with the plan.

—Alternatives have been tried by the state, but the deadline still cannot be met.

—The pollution sources able to comply are held to the 1975 deadline.

—The state imposes "interim measures of control...as are reasonable under the circumstances" on the sources which cannot fully comply.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP — The National Weather Service's summary of Ohio weather:

The area of steady rain that spread across Ohio Thursday is now east of the state but occasional showers were still present in all sections of Ohio Friday morning.

Radar reports indicate a few isolated thunder showers passing through. At 6 a.m. a thundershower was reported in progress in the Marietta-Parkersburg area.

Temperatures remained nearly steady or rose slightly during the night. Readings ranged from the mid 50s in the southwest to the mid 40s in the Youngstown aream

An intense storm center over northern Illinois will move northeastward across Lower Michigan today and by late tonight will be centered just to the north of Lake Huron.

Cloudy skies will continue and occasional showers will be present through the morning hours becoming less frequent from the southwest as the day progresses. High temperatures in the low to mid 50s are expected.

Showers will end in the south by late this afternoon and over the north tonight. Lows tonight will drop into the mid 30s as colder air begins to circulate around the low pressure center into Ohio.

Mostly cloudy skies will continue over the north Saturday but some sunshine can be expected in the south as skies become partly cloudy. High temperatures Saturday will be mostly in the lower 40s.

A chance of showers Tuesday. High temperatures in the 40s. Lows from the mid 20s to low 30s.

Groundhog capers

tugging and prodding with a stick, all done very delicately lest the groundhog get angered.

Three years ago the then Punxsutawney Phil turned on Sam Light, head of the Innver Circle, as Light stooped to pull out the rodent barehanded.

"Old Sam got bit like you wouldn't believe," said Bill Carlton, managing editor of the Punxsutawney newspaper. "It took five stitches to stop the bleeding."

Light now wears heavy leather gloves when performing his part in the ritual.

That was not the only time that things have gone awry.

There was the year Punxsutawney Phil tried again to turn on his masters, frightened them, and was kicked during the confusion. He died on the spot.

"We got through the ceremoney somehow anyway," Carlton recalls.

To get around recurrent emergencies, the club now keeps a stuffed groundhog on hand as a tackup. He graces the Chamber of Commerce office downtown and is used as a standin by photographers during the "preview" of the Groundhog Day ritual atop Gobbler's Knob. Only the hardiest take in the real event at sunup.

The hilltop pilgrimage is but the kickoff to Groundhog Day festivities here that carry on into the night. There is a groundhog breakfast for starters—sausage and pancakes are served, not the honored animal—and then there is a nighttime banquet at the local country club. For young people there is a Groundhog Hop at the YMCA.

The town's newspaper traditionally runs a page-one account of the groundhog's make-believe shadow-sighting, and the local radio station says it has provided 3,000 reports describing the ritual to sister stations around the world.

Chances are, says Carlton, that the groundhog will always sight his shadow, "because any fool knows spring doesn't come in February."

But there was a year when, just for the fun of it, club members decided to try the opposite.

"That night the temperature went to 34 below," said Carlton, "and later it snowed like crazy. It was without a doubt the worst damned winter we'd ever had."

"They aren't likely to try that again," he said.

Between 1643 and 1814, a total of some 3,000 books were published in Norway.

Stock list goes lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices were broadly lower in the stock market today for the second session in a row. Trading was active.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.81 to 983.97, and losing issues outnumbered gainers by more than 2 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Big Board's most-active issue was Eastern Air Lines, off ½ to 15⅞, with blocks of 37,300 and 25,500 shares bonds of $100,000 for each of the two

On the American Stock Exchange the price-change index was off .03 to 25.63.

Oil stocks, which had been firm in recent sessions, were mostly lower, including Texaco, down 1⅜ to 39⅞; and Gulf, off ⅜ at 26⅝.

On the Amex, heavy trading continued in National General new warrants. The issue led the active list, up ¾ to 6½.

At noon the New York Stock Exchange Index was down .16 to 61.88.

Million-gallon oil spillage hits Big Sandy, Ohio rivers

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — U.S. Coast Guard officials today began the massive job of cleaning up the banks of both the Big Sandy and the Ohio Rivers in the wake of the spill Thursday of up to a million gallons of petroleum waste into the rivers.

Late Thursday night Coast Guard officials predicted the spill from Ashland Oil's refinery near Catlettsburg, Ky. into the Big Sandy River may total a million gallons.

The waste flowed into the Ohio River after a waste treatment holding pond at the Ashland Oil Petrochemical compound somehow overloaded "tremendously" at 2 a.m. Thursday. The waste was still flowing at midnight this morning.

The waste was flowing through the pond channel into the Big Sandy River about three miles from its confluence with the Ohio, Coast Guard officials said.

A four-man Coast Guard national strike force flew into Tri-State Airport here Thursday evening to supervise

Cmdr. R.H. Hanson of the strike force reported Thursday night that 40,000 gallons of waste were recovered by 10 p.m. at the spill's origin. Another 4,000 gallons had been siphoned from the Big Sandy near the Catlettsburg, Kenova and Ceredo Water Co. plant where a 290 foot long barge was positioned across the river to block waste. And 16,000 gallons were collected at the Catlettsburg-Kenova bridge about two miles below the Ashland Oil plant.

A spokesman at the Greenup Locks and Dam on the Ohio River some 30 miles from the Ashland Oil plant said personnel there were collecting as much waste as possible into the smaller of two lock chambers.

River traffic was being locked through the 1,200-foot lock chamber, he said, and no serious difficulty with navigation was anticipated.

Municipal waterworks in Ashland, Ky. and Ironton, Ohio suspended operations at the water intake piers on the Ohio River. The privately-owned Catlettsburg, Kenova and Ceredo Water Co. was able to continue intake operations.

Users of Ohio River water as far away as Cincinnati 140 miles northwest of the Ashland Oil plant were alerted.

Coast Guard officials were still investigating the cause of the spill and said they would make an analysis of what was contained in the petroleum waste.

Product safety appointees face grilling

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's appointees to the new Consumer Product Safety Commission will face stern Senate grilling to determine whether they made any secret pledges to the White House.

Members of Congress reacted angrily Thursday to an Associated Press story carrying allegations by a government source.

The official, who asked not to be named, said Republican candidates for commissioner jobs were being asked to give verbal commitments that they would clear significant actions with the Office of Management and Budget.

The White House denied the allegations.

The law creating the five-member commission requires that all budget estimates and recommendations, and legislative recommendations, comments or testimony, be submitted "concurrently" to Congress and the president.

The commission, which has not been appointed, will consist of three Republicans, including the chairman, and two Democrats.

"We will ensure that all product-safety commissioners will testify under oath at confirmation hearings so that we can determine whether or not verbal assurances were requested by the administration or agreed to by the nominees," said Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah.

Moss, a principal sponsor of the law, is chairman of the Senate Commerce consumer subcommittee.

Reformatory strike still on

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Striking inmates at the Ohio Reformatory for Women presented their complaints to state Corrections Chief Bennett Cooper Thursday, but none of the grievances was resolved.

A Corrections Department spokesman said Cooper probably would meet again with leaders of the work stoppage, involving some 95 women in two of the institution's six cottages.

Reasons for the strike remained unclear, the spokesman said. The protest was not organized, he said, and the grievances listed were ambiguous.

Official 'doesn't remember' hiding Ellsberg evidence

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pleading a bad memory, a Defense Department official has refused to confirm or deny the sworn word of a former staff member that they had orders to remove from government files reports which could exonerate Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo, the defendants in the Pentagon papers case.

Charles Hinkle, director of the Defense Department's Office of Security Review, gave these answers to most questions Thursday while testifying at the Pentagon papers trial: "I have no recollection," "I don't recall" and "I can only say I don't recollect."

Retired Air Force Lt. Col. Edward A. Miller had just finished testifying that Hinkle personally told him in 1971 that a report by Miller which would harm the government case against Ellsberg and Russo had been ordered "removed from files" in the Office of Security Review. At the time, Miller was an analyst in the office. Miller testified that Hinkle wrote a memorandum on the incident and filed it.

But Hinkle said he couldn't remember the conversation or the memo.

He also testified that he could not remember whether Miller was assigned to do a special study of the Pentagon papers, or that he read any of the study, or whether, in his 19 years in the office, he was ever ordered to suppress any papers.

His testimony, with jurors absent from court, came during the fourth day of hearings by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Matt Byrne, who is investigating whether the government violated a court order issued last spring and withheld important documents which could help the defense. He has already revealed that 13 studies surrendered by the government during the past two weeks are defense evidence.

Ellsberg, 41, and Russo, 36, are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft in connection with the release to news media in 1971 of the top secret Pentagon history of the Vietnam war. The government has been seeking to show that the release could have harmed national defense and helped an enemy.

4 persons die in auto crash

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP)— Three members of a family were among four Alliance persons killed Thursday in a two-car crash on old Ohio 173 in Mahoning County east of Alliance. Three other persons were injured.

Killed were James V. Martin, 46, his wife, Ruth, 47, their son, Jeffrey, 4, and Mary Ells, 73, who resided with the Martins.

The injured were reported in guarded condition today at Aultman Hospital in Canton. They were two Martin children-Cynthia, 16, and Darryl, 9--and Anthony Schwartzhoff, 20, of Sebring.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said Schwartzhoff was alone in one car.

Driver charged after crash

A 23-year-old Washington C. H. man was injured and charged with drunken driving when his car was involved in a collision with a parked auto on High Street early Friday.

City police said Gurney L. Haines, 23, of 528 Warren Ave., was treated at Memorial Hospital for a laceration of the chin and chest pains following the 12:47 a.m. crash. He was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and driving left of center.

Investigating officers reported Haines' car was southbound on High Street, passed through the intersection at Albin Avenue, then went left of center and collided headon with a parked car owned by Margaret Halliday, 557 Albin Ave.

Haines' 1965 foreign model compact was demolished in the collision. The 1972 model Halliday car sustained damage estimated at $1,500 to the front.

Reminders from Nature

Man likes to think of himself as the supreme being on the face of the earth, master of his environment. He is fond of observing to himself, there being no one else about to receive these confidences, that so far as the home planet is concerned he is King of the Mountain.

Now and again Nature offers a reminder that man the master of all he surveys has some unfinished business. A snow slide delicately picks off a lone skiier, natural forces pluck a great airliner out of the sky and smash it to the ground, an earthquake shakes a city to rubble. All reminders, great and small, that humankind are still much at the mercy of the elements.

It is happening again on the Icelandic island of Heymaey. There a volcano silent for a thousand years suddenly came to life in a black hour before dawn, rumbling and spewing molten lava. Some 5,000 people in the fishing town of Vestmannaeyjar fled to harbor and airfield and were evacuated; cattle, sheep and horses were slaughtered; the island was abandoned to Vulcan.

This will not be the last time that Nature tells us: You are not yet master. Notice has been served often in the past, and will be served again. Man has a long ways to go before he can boast of holding a check rein on the vast natural forces at work on this spinning ball he inhabits.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

LBJ and his compassionate war

The campus sansculottes hated him, and their dirty chant — "LBJ, LBJ. How many kids did you kill today?" — must have burned deeply into his psyche. It was a viciously unfair attack, for Lyndon Johnson had bent over backward to do the impossible. He had tried to fight a humane war.

Oh, how he had tried. Those long hours in the White House poring over the bombing objectives chart to see that no dike should be breached and no hospital should be hit. The refusal to blitz the Haiphong docks lest a British, a Soviet or a Red Chinese vessel should be sunk.

The reiterated promise that, if they would only be good little boys, the North Vietnamese could become the beneficiaries of something approximating a Marshall Plan for their part of the world.

The dreams of bestowing a Mekong Valley Authority on a neutralized Indochina.

The studied refusal to send a single American soldier, or even a South Vietnamese parachutist with dynamite to plant under a bridge, over the North Vietnam border.

Never was a war fought with such consideration for one's opponents.

OF COURSE it was all ridiculous: wars aren't brought to a conclusion by considering the feelings of an enemy. After we had committed a large expeditionary force of ground troops to Vietnam, our humorists, led by Art Buchwald, had a lot of fun for themselves by "dreaming" that Barry Goldwater, not LBJ, had won the 1964 election. There was only one flaw in the Buchwald logic: Goldwater, unlike Johnson, would have bombed the North Vietnamese dikes and flooded the country. It wouldn't have been "humane," but it might have saved 40,000 American lives. North Vietnamese would have died, but the war would have been settled.

Johnson's fault — and it is an endearing fault — is that his compassion did not stay within bounds. With his non-military mind, LBJ was fatally seduced by Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara's theory that you could use "graduated pressure" to make Hanoi's Gen. Giap and his Marxist mates sue for peace. What Johnson couldn't see was that Communists, when engaged in war or even in ordinary politics, are not permitted to know the meaning of the word compassion.

An old-fashioned Populist humanitarian, LBJ could not comprehend Lenin's cultivated hardness. Lenin would not listen to Beethoven lest the music induce pity for a humanity that included the bourgeoisie. The founder of modern Communism even worried about the mollifying effect on his psyche when he stroked a cat.

North Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh had grown up in the implacable school of Leninism, which meant that "graduated pressure" would have no effect on him as long as there were women in North Vietnam ready to give birth to new expendables for the class war.

Richard Nixon had to live with the results of LBJ's misplaced compassion. With the U.S. divided and the campuses in a state of chronic rebellion, it was too late to use an Inchon landing type of flank attack to isolate the enemy from his sources of supply. The limited surprise of Cambodia, the mining of Haiphong, and the small-scale application of mass bombing were all that Nixon could dare.

This sort of thing was more effective than anything Lyndon Johnson had done, but it remains to be seen whether the South Vietnamese, with time gained for "Vietnamization," will be able to use the limited respite to build a nation capable of "hacking it" after the U.S. is really out of the war.

EVEN UNDER Nixon, the U.S. continued to wage compassionate battle. The B-52s may have hit a dike or two by mistake, but Nixon studiously refrained from carrying the war to the North Vietnamese food-producing peasantry. There was never any saturation bombing equivalent to what we and our allies had done to Hamburg or Dresden or Tokyo in World War II.

If there had been, Hanoi and Haiphong would have been obliterated, and Joan Baez and Jane Fonda and the Rev. William Sloane Coffin would have had no place to visit or to receive released POWs.

Once the Americans have departed and the South Vietnamese have accepted responsibility for their own survival, we could be surprised by what may happen if the peace in Indochina breaks down. With our restraining hand gone, what would there be to keep a South Vietnamese mission from breaching the North Vietnamese dikes? Parachutists dropped from propeller planes could do it.

Maybe this threat is the one thing that will cause the North Vietnamese Gen. Giap to stay his evil hand.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Nixon economies to hurt cities

NEW YORK — To see what the drastic cuts in the Nixon domestic budget mean you have only to touch base in this troubled city. In a dozen different areas, from public housing and model cities to day-care centers, the cutbacks put a new burden on an already gravely overburdened community.

To say that New York is a city under siege is a slight exaggeration. Nevertheless, in certain sectors, the South Bronx for example, it is literally true. Fear and death stalk the streets, with the police seeking to hold back a tide of violence.

New York is conspicuous if only because so many news-gathering agencies are located here. But in one degree or another the same deterioration is true in almost every large city in the country. A dozen big-city mayors are meeting with New York's John V. Lindsay in early February to coordinate their efforts to persuade Congress to reverse the Nixon economies.

"We've managed to put $5 million into the South Bronx," Mayor Lindsay says. "Now that may seem like a very small sum, and it is. But at least it has done something to show that ruinously bad housing can be rehabilitated."

TO CHECK the swift deterioration, Lindsay says, the city should spend not less than $50 billion at the rate of $5 billion a year. Nothing like this sum is even remotely visible. Revenue sharing cannot come close to compensating for the sweeping cuts in the Nixon budget.

Lindsay sees this in terms of human suffering and degradation. Without the matching funds from the federal government, day-care centers will have to be restricted or closed down. This means that the small children of working mothers will be turned into the street or locked up in slum apartments. It will be a contribution to delinquency and deteriorating health.

Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy has just authorized a thousand extra tours of duty for policemen in Brownsville in Brooklyn. That will cost $90,000 in overtime pay, a miniscule sum in terms of the city's needs, yet it is a chip off the working budget.

The order followed the shooting of two policement in a running and apparently unprovoked attack in Brownsville. For New York's 30,000 police the attack has further confirmation of a black militant conspiracy bent on killing cops wherever they can be struck down. Murphy and the men at the top around him do not share this conviction, nor is there objective evidence for such a conspiracy in spite of the wild statements of some militants following the shoot-out in a Brooklyn sporting goods store. In some reports the attackers were said to be after guns to arm black militants.

NEVERTHELESS, the conviction held by virtually all the 30,000 armed policemen, according to those familiar at firsthand with the police force, is that such attacks are part of the state of siege in this beleaguered city. The force is made up largely of the ethnics — Irish Catholics, Italian-Americans — the object of a special appeal in the Nixon campaign. The police wounded in the patrol car in Brownsville were two brothers, Vincent and Carlo Imperato.

Since they are at the bottom of the economic heap, it is the blacks who will feel most directly the cuts in welfare, health, education. The deeply rooted feeling that the Nixon Administration has no regard for blacks will be accentuated. This plays into the hands of the militants, who constantly propagandize the theme that there is no recourse but violence.

It may be possible to muddle through. It may be that Congress, with the pressure of the cities turned on hard, can restore the funds denied in the Nixon budget. This last, however, is doubtful, with the concentrated power of the presidency so great.

With the further complication of a feud between Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Mayor Lindsay, who turned Democrat to run in the presidential primaries, a solution for the city seems remote. Lindsay in recent months has made progress in areas of urgent need, notably in bringing down the rate of crime in the center city and in the treatment of drug addiction. But, as the tensions increase, the rule at times must seem to be one step forward and two steps back.

"FOOD PRICES ARE ABOUT THE SAME AS LAST WEEK. WATCH OUT FOR TRICKS."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

He's pitched three strikes, so OUT!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 29-year-old woman who has been married and divorced three times in the last 10 years. You will probably say what everybody else says when you find out I married and divorced the same man all three times.

Our last divorce became final three weeks ago, and now Mike is begging me to marry him again. We have no children annd we don't want any. I really love the guy, Abby, but the only time he is good to me is when we're divorced. Mike is a wonderful lover, but he's a rotten husband. When we're man and wife he drinks, runs around, and stays out late. I never know where he is or who he's with, which drives me up a wall.

If you knew how much we've spent on lawyers you would think we were out of our minds. I know there will never be any other man for me, but I know if I marry Mike again he'll go back to his old mean, abusive ways. Can you help me?

THREE-TIME LOSER

DEAR LOSER: Three strikes and a man is OUT, no matter how good he pitches. Some men are great to date but not to mate, and Mike could be one of them.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 21, and she shares an apartment with another girl. Until she went to college she was very considerate, and since she was an only child we were a very close family.

Although she was invited, she did not spend Christmas, Thanksgiving, Mother's Day, or Father's Day with us. She sent cards, but she spent those special days with her boy friend and his parents.

Naturally, I was upset, and when I confronted her she said there are 365 days a year to love us, and why should she give up these particular days? She says times have changed and I am square. Am I?

VERY HURT

DEAR HURT: No, but don't make an issue of it. I can understand your being "hurt," but if you continue to make her feel guilty, you may see even less of her.

DEAR ABBY: My brother, Bob, was adopted by my family when he was a small baby. Bob is now over legal age, and was just informed that his real mother is an Indian living in Alaska and he is getting money from her oil rights.

Bob says it is all like a dream, because he never knew he was adopted. He is trying to make up his mind whether to go to Alaska to collect the money. He doesn't know what to say to his mother, who is still living, because he has always considered the mother who raised him his one and only mother.

Would you ask your readers how adopted children and real mothers feel after meeting each other after being separated for over 20 years? Is it a good experience or a bad one?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: I would guess it's almost always a tearful joyous reunion, but I'll ask. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: Here in Iowa the winters are pretty cold, so my sisters and I have made a habit of putting out food for the squirrels, birds and rabbits. Today, we had an expecially heavy snowfall so we put out a little extra food for the animals and birds.

Today, we saw a little squirrel who had been in our neighborhood for as long as we can remember go into a neighbor's yard and start to eat out of a bird feeder. Abby, this neighbor came out of the house with a shotgun and with one shot KILLED that little hungry squirrel while he was eating! It just made us sick.

Please print this and tell people if they don't want animals in their yard to just chase them away. You can't teach a dead animal anything. And for those of you who do help these little creatures in the winter when food is hard to come by, God bless you.

Love and peace to you, Abby. Please don't use our names, sign us,

18, 16 AND 15 IN WATERLOO

DEAR 18, 16, AND 15: And love and peace to you, too! I'm sorry you won't allow me to disclose your names. You are three beautiful sisters.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Feb. 2, the 33rd day of 1973. Today is Groundhog Day. There are 332 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1848, Mexico agreed to cede a vast territory to the United States upon payment of $15 million. The area embraced what are now the states of Arizona, California, New Mexico and Texas.

On this date:

In 1635, the Dutch incorporated New Amsterdam, now New York.

In 1870, doctors disclosed that the Cardiff giant discovered on a farm near Cardiff, N.Y., was not a petrified man after all. It was all a hoax.

In 1882, the Roman Catholic fraternal group, the Knights of Columbus, was founded in New Haven, Conn.

In 1953, the U.S. announced that it no longer would block Chinese Nationalist raids against the China mainland.

In 1961, 600 passengers aboard the hijacked Portuguese liner, Santa Maria, landed at Recife, Brazil.

Ten years ago: Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan returned to London after talks with Italian officials in Rome about France's veto of British membership in the European Common Market.

Jumping to conclusions

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: As long as money or power are thought to be the answer to human needs, love cannot be.

If you live long enough, you will see how life moves in circles rather than in a straight line. Everything that has been will be again. Few things or habits die out altogether — from beards on men to short skirts on women. They do not go away forever; their popularity simply waxes and wanes — and waxes again in a further time. Women sure are changing. How long has it been since you saw one with a clothespin in her mouth? Their mouths used to be full of clothespins one day a week. Now their mouths are full of opinions seven days a week.

Crime has to be paid one tribute: it is helping to keep the American family together. People are staying at home more of nights for fear of being mugged in the streets if they leave it.

A woman never feels more womanly than when she is washing and drying her hair; a man never feels more unmanly than when he has to wash his own sox.

A cynic is a guy who saves his box tops for fear that if he mails them away to get something free he'll wind up being stung.

An old-timer is a gaffer who gets to the office late and tells the boss it was because his wife had lost his regular shoe buttoner — and he had a hard time finding the spare one.

Wives with long hair get fewer divorces than wives with short hair. So if you want a marriage that will endure as long as you do, wed a girl whose hair hangs to her knees. She will keep so busy combing and arranging it, she won't have time to get into any other trouble. A third of the men in America would feel better at nightfall if they wore suspenders during the day instead of belts.

Any road without a bend in it will in time seem like a prison or rut. Be thankful then to Providence, for it has seen to it that women and other dangerous curves lie in every man's path, lest it become a highway to boredom.

NOTICE TO OWNER OF LAND AFFECTED BY THE PROPOSED IMPROVEMENT, OF ASSESSMENT, OF DATE OF FINAL HEARING AND OF FILING CLAIMS FOR COMPENSATION OR DAMAGES

In the Matter of the Hartman Single County Ditch No.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Illustrated BIBLE LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

A New Heart and Spirit

Scripture -- Ezekiel 36:16-32.

GOD used the invading Babylonians and resulting captivity to punish Israel for her sins and reawaken her responsibility to Him. Ezekiel 36:16-21.

GOD would rescue His people from captivity, take them to their own land, and there restore the holiness of His name. — Ezekiel 36:22-23.

BEFORE returning the faithful to their land, God would cleanse and transform them with a new heart and the Holy Spirit. — Ezekiel 36:24-27.

ISRAEL'S homeland and good relationship with God would be restored and He would care for them. — Ezekiel 36:28-32.

Common Bible finally complete

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A common Bible, the long-cherished dream of the Christian unity movement, is now complete.

To be published in the United States this spring, it has approval of Protestant, Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox leaders in this country, in Europe and Asia.

It is the result of "vast collaboration," Pope Paul VI said a few days ago when presented with a copy in Rome.

Ever since the 16th century breakup of the church, contrasting versions of the Bible have been a major cause of edginess among the separate branches of the faith, particularly among ordinary members.

"They use a different Bible," went the usual expression of the presumably impenetrable wall of division, with little awareness how slightly the Bibles really differed.

But increasingly in recent times, that wall has been breached with joint Bible research, joint commentaries and joint regional editions of Scripture, a sequence culminating now with the broad-scale issuance of the new mutually approved volume.

Its cover reads, "Revised Standard Version Common Bible."

An international ecumenical group, the RSV Bible Committee, now headed by the Rev. Dr. Herbert G. May, of Ohio's Oberlin College, has worked out the presentation and format of the new Bible.

It consists of the RSV Old Testament, a translation produced by an inter-Protestant committee in 1952, a 1971 revised edition of the RSV New Testament, and seven intermediary books, known as "Deuterocanonical" by Catholics and as the "Apocrypha" by Protestants.

Seven publishing companies have been licensed to print the volume, which came out Jan. 21 in Great Britain, and is to be issued in this country April 2.

Though the basic translating was done 20 years ago by the National Council's inter-Protestant group, it now also represents Catholic and Orthodox scholars, and the texts now have across-the-board endorsement, including seven mid-section books previously omitted in some cases.

These books, a cause of controversy as far back as the 4th century, have been a main difference about the Bible since the 16th century Protestant Reformation led by Martin Luther, although they constitute only a tiny fraction of the Bible.

While the Protestant reformers excluded the books from the "canon" of inspired Scripture, they nevertheless were included in Protestant Bibles of that era in between the 39 Old Testament books and the 27 New Testament books.

They also originally were included in the King James version of the Bible of 1611, long the principal Protestant version until production of the RSV. However, commercial publishers subsequently dropped the books from modern editions to save paper.

The books, meanwhile, remained in Catholic Bibles as parts of the Old Testament, although they had not been included in the Jewish canon of the Scripture. Catholics called the books "Dueterocanonical," meaning a secondary canon, while Protestants called them "Apocrypha," meaning "hidden" books of uncertain derivation.

In the agreed on common Bible, the books are included, as Catholics always have insisted, but they are placed in a central, separate section, as Protestants originally placed them.

The new Bible also is annotated, meaning it includes notes of historical, geographical and other explanation, a long-held Catholic practice and one frequently used by Protestants.

Something to think about

By: NED KINZER

Loyalty is something all of us cherish. You will find the person who has faith in the integrity of his fellow man, even in the face of circumstantial evidence, will be guilty of fewer errors that the one who does not have faith.

Because there are over 75 different items of service in connection with each funeral, many of which are never seen, but still are essential, you will naturally want the best reliable concern to handle the arrangements.

Nifty knits with a fresh, young look

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

WHAT'S NEW at Gino Paoli? Arthur Goldstein! Recently named President, he has already made a number of fashionwise changes. His first act was to close down the firm's Hong Kong operation.

"Because," he said, "there are not new ideas coming out of Hong Kong. Italy is where it's at for knits."

So everything the firm turns out is designed and manufactured in Gino Paoli's Milan headquarters, an operation so vast that the company actually has its own resident Italian Customs' inspector.

Goldstein is also encouraging something evolutionary for knitwear — zingy, young styling. Knits heretofore have been all too safe and too sane. Not the new Gino Paolis. They have flair — as witness the pantsuits pictured here.

"It's a young look," said Goldstein, "but it's been interpreted so that it is flattering to women of all ages."

SWEATER SET: In celadon green and black this three-piece suit in lightweight polyester acetate can be worn for day or dressed up for wear after-five.

THREE CHEERS for white blazer piped with navy paired with navy/red shirt and cuffed navy pants.

GINGHAM checks are king-sized for blazer, smaller for vest. By Gino Paoli in smashing red/white.

Day Camp patch contest announced for Girl Scouts

Fayette County Girl Scout Troop leaders and committee mothers held a meeting of Unit 9 in the Landmark Building, with Miss Mary Knapp, field representative of the Seal of Ohio GS Council, announcing news from council, which included the Area 2 Association meeting to be held March 6 at 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the L&K Restaurant in Chillicothe. It is for all area delegates and any interested leaders or committee mothers.

She announced a contest for all Cadettes and Senior Scouts who wish to enter, to design a Day Camp patch, to be given to each girl who attends Day Camp. All designs are to be in by March 1, ddressed to 1973 Day Camp Patch Contest, 170 N. High St., Columbus, Ohio 43215.

Mrs. Charles Cunningham, Fayette County cookie chairman, showed the Junior, Cadette and Senior Scout leaders the kits they will receive for the cookie sale, beginning Saturday.

It was announced that Mrs. Ronald Dean will be in charge of plans for a Juliette Lowe celebration for the county, to be held March 15 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in Mahan Building at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

A plea for help at Camp Gipiwa to clean the camp site was made. Anyone who desires to help paint, mow grass, fell and cut up dead trees is welcome. They may call Dwight Foy, 335-4729.

Present for the meeting were Miss Knapp, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. William Cales, Mrs. Ronald Dean, Mrs. Dwight Foy, Mrs. Tom Funk, Mrs. Morrison Gilbert, Mrs. Howard Hixon, Mrs. Carl Johnson, Mrs. Warren Lemke, Mrs. Donald Moore, Mrs. Byers Shaw and Mrs. Charles Webb.

Miss Hiser complimented with shower

Miss Debbie Hiser, bride-elect of David Barrett Smith was honored at a pretty bridal shower held in the home of Mrs. Jon Creamer, who was assisted by Mrs. James Lewis.

The gift table was centered with a bride holding an umbrella, with dark green and gold streamers around the table.

Games were won by Mrs. Charles Hiser, Miss Marcia Gilvens, and Miss Linda Gifford, who in turn presented them to the guest of honor.

Coffee, punch, cake, mints and nuts were served by the hostesses to Mrs. Hiser, mother of the honor guest, Mrs. Ralph B. Smith, mother of the prospective groom, Mrs. James Lucas, Mrs. Roger Garringer, Mrs. Jay Hyer, Miss Peggy Breakfield, Miss Judy Reiber, Mrs. Tim Wolfe, Mrs. Mike Quast, Mrs. Larry Garinger, Miss Penny Hardman, Mrs. Donald King, Mrs. Marvin Jones, Mrs. Robert Gilvens and daughter, Marcia, Mrs. W. A. Smith, Miss Sharon Dawes, Mrs. Russell Lewis and daughter, Linda, Mrs. Roger McCoy, the Misses Emily Rowe, Linda Gifford, Mary Ann Mossbarger, Mrs. Jeff Rude, Mrs. Jim Phillips, Mrs. Beverly S. Thompson, Mrs. Robert Tice and Krista Creamer.

Miss Hiser and Mr. Smith will be married Feb. 24 in the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church.

MISS DEBBIE CRABTREE

Circle 1 meets in church parlor

Eleven members of Circle 1, First Presbyterian Church, met in the church parlor for a coffee hour, preceding the meeting and Bible Study. Mrs. Wayne Finley was hostess.

Devotions were presented by Mrs. Albert Bryant entitled "Our Part in Our Salvation."

During the meeting conducted by Mrs. Harvey Heironimus, reports were heard. She read from the Yearbook of Prayer. Thank-you's for holiday gifts were acknowledged and many members reported ill and hospitalized. Names of shut-ins were reported also, and will be remembered with a Valentine and other cards during the year.

A kitchen towel shower for the church kitchen was announced, an Association meeting for March 8, of which Circle 1 will be hostess, and the Spring Presbyterial for April 11, in Columbus.

The Mission Interpretation report of work with the Indians was made by Mrs. James Wilson, and the 'least coin' offering was made.

Bible Study "Key to Luke", which concerned the temptations and healing of Jesus, was led by Mrs. Rollo Marchant.

Following the Mizpah benediction, members cleaned part of the kitchen.

Drivers forfeit bonds in court

Two drivers forfeited bond when they failed to appear in traffic cases called in Municipal Court Thursday afternoon by Judge Reed M. Winegardner.

James W. Baughn III, 19, Rt. 3, forfeited $25 bond for driving at speeds excessive for road conditions. He was cited by sheriff'' deputies following a minor collision on Bloomingburg - New Holland Road Jan. 28.

Frances I. Blair, 58, Rt. 3, also forfeited a $25 bond on a failure - to - yield charge filed by city police Wednesday. Mrs. Blair was cited after her car was involved in a two-car mishap at the intersection of High Street and Fairway Drive.

In the only other case heard by Judge Winegardner, Charles W. Rowland, of Jeffersonville was fined $25 and costs on a charge of failing to keep his dog confined.

The complaint was filed by Sgt. John Emrick Jan. 10. Rowland pleaded guilty.

Judge Winegardner suspended $15 of the fine pending good behavior for one year.

TV Viewing

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — The current Broadway hit, "Much Ado About Nothing," becomes captivating fun for everyone who tunes in on the CBS television network tonight at 8 p.m. EST.

Adapted with rare, imaginative artistry, the show amply justifies the extraordinary three hours of prime time allotted it. A screening for reviewers was held in advance.

The program launches a much-publicized pact of CBS with the Gotham's liveliest center of stage creativity, formally called the New York Shakespeare Festival, and familiarly known as Joseph Papp's Outfit.

During the next four years an assortment of drama specials is planned, calculated both to augment video's frail culture quotient and bridge the Papp-annoying gap between living theater and mass audience.

For home viewers of all ages, "Much Ado" shapes up as total, memorable pleasure. Even if they don't usually dote on the Bard of Avon.

The yarn about tangled romances which was set by Shakespeare in 16th century Italy takes place now in early 20th century America when soldiers wore Teddy Roosevelt campaign hats and frilly frocked lasses could only pluff a cigarette on the sly.

The time-locale transition is neatly rounded with some chipper, rickytick music by Peter Link and a performance style of gentle camp. Despite such changes, the script retains all basic, poetic validity.

The main difference between the stage and tube versions is a stunning array of evocative period-setting by Tom John in place of Ming Cho Lee's jolly high-rise abstractions that conformed to stage necessity.

To detail much of the TV production's heady diversion might detract from the pleasure of self-discovery. Do, however, watch for that fleeting, droll toast to the author of it all who proclaimed "Let wonders seem familiar."

Advice most winningly heeded in this "Much Ado."

Command Center ready for return of POWs

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — Twenty phones line up on the L-shaped desk. A wall clock is set to Hanoi time. Eight colonels sit side by side.

This is the nerve center of Operation Homecoming, the elaborate project planned for three years down to the smallest detail to bring home the American POWs in Indochina.

It is off limits because of tight security surrounding the homecoming operation. But newsmen were taken on a tour today of the building on Clark Air Base that houses the task force, officially known as the Joint Command Processing Center.

"This is the focal point of all the activity," said Air Force Col. H.A. Davis of Syracuse, N.Y., commander of the task force.

Davis had in front of him a dull-red direct telephone to Cincpac, the commander in chief Pacific.

"When we get the order to go from Cincpac, then we'll dispatch the hospital planes to Hanoi to make the pickup," he said.

Other phones will connect with the aircraft. When they begin their three-hour, 900-mile journey back to Clark from Hanoi, the base will be put on final alert. Davis said he does not know when that will be.

"We are just waiting here on a 24-hour alert," he said.

With Davis in the nerve center are colonels or the equivalent rank from all branches of the services. Watching the interests of U.S. Army POWs will be Col. James A. Murphy, San Antonio, Tex. Col. Harvey T. Jacolick of Schenectady, N.Y., represents the Air Force. Col. John W. Clayborne of McGraws, W.Va., represents the Marines, and Capt. Harold Grifith of Port Jefferson N.Y., the Navy.

Several other colonels are on the task force staff. In all, 2,000 men have gathered here to help in the release.

Large wall charts detail procedures the POWs will go through after their arrival at Clark. The name of each returnee will be written on the chart. Each stage of his processing will be checked off — medical exmination, uniform measurements, debriefing, pay.

When all items have been checked, the POW will be ready for the next stage of his journey to freedom — a ride in a C141 Starlifter from Clark to Travis Air Force Base in California.

"Some may clear in two or three days; others will be here longer to take care of their medical needs," Davis said.

One item on the charts reads "NOK call," military jargon for the next-of-kin telephone call the POWs will be permitted to make to their immediate families in the United States.

Asked about the subject of POW briefings, Davis said: "We are interested only in information the men will have on the condition of other POWs, and facts they might have learned on the dead and missing. We are reaching for a total accounting of all POWs."

Debriefing on other topics will take place in the United States, he added.

A total of 380 specially trained military escort officers have arrived at Clark. They will be assigned individually to each POW. These escorts will play the most important role in the initial phase of Operation Homecoming, debriefing the POWs, giving guidance and advice and accompanying them back to the United States.

Judge rips jury verdict as 'stupid'

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — A federal judge here became so infuriated after jurors acquitted a man charged with possession of marijuana that he told the ten men and two women on the jury they would never again serve in his court.

The case was tried in the court of U.S. District Court Judge Ben C. Connally. It involved Miguel Jimenez Orosco, a McAllen taxi driver charged with possession of 134 pounds of marijuana.

The case reached the jury Tuesday at 3:34 p.m. The jurors deliberated until 6:15 p.m. without reaching a verdict. When they resumed Wednesday at 9 a.m., it took them 30 minutes to decide Orosco was innocent.

Judge Connally told them that in 20 years on the bench he had never seen "a more stupid, illogical and ill-advised verdict."

He said there was no evidence on which the accused could have been found innocent. Orosco admitted in his own testimony "every element of the offense," the judge said.

Connally told the jurors a verdict such as the one they reached "is responsible, in my judgment, for the increasing crime rate everywhere."

Dentists discount report of high toothpaste lead

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Dental Association has challenged a report published in its own journal.

A group of Philadelphia researchers report in the February issue of the Journal of the American Dental Association that some children may be getting dangerous amounts of lead from toothpaste tubes.

"Squeezing an almost-empty tube dry can liberate toothpaste in which there is an accumulation of lead," they wrote of their study a year ago of six advertised brands.

They refused to identify the brands tested other than to say they were six leading brands. They said the names of the brands had been sent to the dental association for investigation.

"Unfortunately, the article ... does not identify the products tested nor whether they represent current production or whether they represent brands which have a major share of the market," the dental association said Wednesday in a statement issued in response to a newsman's inquiry.

"It is therefore, impossible to evaluate the extent of the problem, if one exists."

"As far as the association has been able to determine, all the major brands of toothpaste, which represent approximately 90 per cent of the products sold today, are presently packaged in either plastic, aluminum or aluminum-plastic laminated tubes."

An association spokesman said decisions about what is published in the journal are made independently by the editor.

"If he found lead in our toothpaste, he must have gotten an old tube because we've been in aluminum containers for the last 15 years," a spokesman for Pepsodent commented.

"We went to plastic tubes last summer," said a spokesman for Crest.

Company chosen to operate transit

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — ATE Management and Service Co., of Cincinnati, has been chosen to operate Cincinnati Transit, Inc., once the city buys it.

ATE was selected by the Southwestern Ohio Regional Transit Authority (SORTA) Thursday. SORTA is a regional authority set up to accept federal funds to help the city purchase the firm for $6.8 million.

WSHS Honor Roll

The Washington Senior High School honor roll for the second nine weeks of the 1972-73 school year has been announced by Principal Fred A. Jones.

To earn honor roll recognition, a student must achieve an average of "B" (3.00) A grade of "D" or "F" in any course used in computing the average disqualifies a student for honor roll consideration for that grading period.

Physical education, music, band and art are excluded when computing averages.

All students listed on the Washington Senior High School honor roll have demonstrated a high standard of school citizenship.

Burglars quickly seize advantage

NORTHFIELD, Minn. (AP) — Bob Carel is a Northfield businessman who installs burglar alarm systems and sells televisions on the side.

Monday he removed part of the alarm on his store so he could install it in a client's store.

Carel came to his shop Tuesday and found that burglars had kicked in his unprotected back door and stolen two color TV sets.

CHANDELIER CEILINGS

Chandelier ceilings are made in 12" x 12" tiles with square edges that butt snugly together. The ceiling flows from wall to wall in a smooth expanse without the "block" look of standard tile ceilings. A unique, new base material called Trilon makes these elegant ceilings possible. Trilon is a blending of man-made and natural ingredients into a material that can be cut square on all sides, eliminating the bevels that are typical of more traditional ceiling tiles. Because Trilon can be embossed with greater depth and precision, Chandelier ceilings have deeper, richer textures and a more elegant look. Trilon resists shrinkage and expansion, so ceilings stay tight and good looking.

The Trilon composition gives Chandelier ceilings a noncombustible rating. If a fire should start, Chandelier will not "feed" the flames. Like all Armstrong ceilings, Chandelier can be cleaned and will stay bright and fresh looking for years. The specially fabricated tongue-and-groove joints fit precisely together, assuring positive alignment and a smooth, level surface. They're available in acoustical and nonacoustical types.

Most of Johnson estate goes to Lynda Bird, Luci

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson's will, signed six months before he died, leaves the bulk of his estate to his two daughters and names his widow as executor.

There was nothing in the will to indicate the size of Johnson's estate.

Mrs. Johnson was left all of the former president's personal property and his interest in their household items. Seventeen relatives, friends and employes received individual bequests totaling $81,000.

Johnson's will, dated July 25, 1972, was filed for probate Thursday. He died Jan. 22.

Johnson willed to the LBJ Library at the University of Texas "all of my presidential and other papers, documents, historical materials, mementos, objects of art and other memorabilia, including but not limited to books, motion pictures, still pictures and sound records."

He left $25,000 to LBJ Ranch foreman Dale Malechek and his wife.

Next in size among the individual bequests was $10,000 to a sister, Lucia Alexander of Fort Worth.

Johnson gave about 200 acres of the LBJ ranch to the National Park Service recently for an addition to the LBJ national historic site.

Tom Johnson, no kin but a family spokesman, also issued a statement saying that 3,444 acres of the ranch holdings were sold by Johnson after he left the White House to Frates Properties, Inc., of Tulsa, Okla. The spokesman added that Mrs. Johnson would continue living at the ranch.

In the will, the former president also issued instructions that "all of the rest and residue of my estate" be divided into two equal trusts for his daughters, Lynda Robb and Luci Nugent.

Mrs. Johnson was named to serve as trustee, parceling out income from the trusts to the daughters and their children according to her "absolute and sole discretion."

Each daughter's trust terminates when she reaches age 30, and she will acquire full possession, according to the terms of the will.

4 arrested in airborne marijuana raid

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — State narcotics agents Thursday arrested four men and confiscated 400 to 500 pounds of marijuana after conducting a surveillance of a small aircraft.

Abents said two men were arrested when the plane was unloaded in an isolated area near Safford, Ariz. They were identified as Gregory Albert Sandoval, 24, of Los Angeles and Wayne Thomas Barn, 25, of Dayton, Ohio.

The aircraft was then followed to Casa Grande, Ariz., where it landed. Ralph Eerwin Dribble, 26, of Whittier, Calif. and Louis Austin O'Jibway, 26, of Mammoth Lake, Calif. were arrested at that time, officers said.

The Flagstaff, Ariz., division of the agency had received information that a Cessna aircraft located in Flagstaff allegedly was involved i8 narcotics traffic.

Heavy rains pound east; West dry

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter rains, drizzle and snow were scattered across the eastern half of the nation today while the West remained generally clear and cool.

Rain and drizzle dampened areas from the mid Mississippi Valley to the Ohio Valley. Thundershowers hit the extreme Southeast, and rain, heavy in places, soaked the south Atlantic states to Virginia. Hickory, N.C., absorbed almost 2½ inches of rain.

Flash-flood warnings were posted in the western Carolinas.

Freezing rain and snow touched areas from northwest Missouri into the northern Mississippi Valley and the northern Great Lakes region as well as the Northeast. Gale warnings were displayed over all the Great Lakes.

A heavy-snow warning remained in effect for northern Wisconsin.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 2 at Evanston, Wyo., to 76 at Palm Beach, Fla.

Some sailors grumbling over cut in choice foods

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Navy cooks in this area say their chow hasn't suffered from an order that cheaper meats be used in Navy mess halls.

But there is some grumbling in the ranks about the directive from Adm. Elmo Zumwalt Jr., chief of naval operations.

Today's lunch for 6,000 men at the Naval Training Center includes baked meat loaf and fried filet of perch, plus seconds.

The galley chief, Barkie Mcherron, claims "most of the kids prefer hamburgers, even over steaks." Standing lines to the more expensive selections are always smaller than the speed line to hamburgers, Mcherron said.

But the first two sailors questioned at the 32nd Street Naval Station voiced complaints.

"It seems to me like I'm eating stew all the time, or macaroni and cheese," said Seaman Appren. 2.C. William Hoblitt, 19, of San Luis Obispo, Calif. "I haven't seen too much meat."

Seaman Jerry Murrell, 20, of Indianapolis said he doesn't object to more hamburger — "I don't like steak anyhow, but they've cut back to two sausages instead of three for breakfast."

CWO G. V. Greeson, food service officer for the naval station, said Zumwalt's order means "we're going to cut out the frills," But there will be no cutback in nutrition.

"These guys are still eating better than at home," he said. "I can't afford to feed my own family this way." His galley dinner costs 70 cents.

"I've heard quite a few complaints at each and every meal," said Commissaryman 2.C. Robert Barnes at Miramar Naval Air Station.

"But, then, guys always complain," the 39-year-old cook and apprentice butcher from Los Angeles adds. "You know, they say, 'This isn't like what Mom puts out.'"

Ohio farmers fear Nixon abandoning price supports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Significant changes made by the Nixon administration recently in loan and subsidy programs for farmers have caused some Ohio farm officials to express concern.

The changes apparently are aimed at getting rid of artificial restraints on farm production, but some officials in the state fear it's a move to wean farmers from federal price supports.

According to officials of the U.S. Agriculture Department in Columbus, the changes are in response to the hikes in food prices. They said these boosts have raised national farm income since 1968 by 39 per cent.

Ohio State Grange official James Ross says he believes the moves are not just an administration response to inflation. He says he believes the administration will not wish to bring back the price supports being undercut now, regardless of whether there is a deterioration of the market.

Ross says "We're not completely aligned with the belief that supply and demand can protect farm income." He feels a realistic approach to quotas of some kind is necessary.

Dave Urmston, deputy state agriculture director, says he believes there is some truth to suggestions that the administration is trying to get completely out of the price support business. But he says, "I have no way to substantiate that..."

The executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau, C. William Swank, said he did not have any reason to believe the Nixon administration was getting ready to abandon the farmer.

He said he thought "they want to show the public that they're being responsive to the public demand for control of food prices."

But Swank added, if the administration trys to bring land back into production and ease off on the farm programs and "we suddenly have surplus food again, we have a right to be very unhappy about it."

Swank also said that he does not anticipate substantial changes in current farm legislation when a new bill hits Congress later this year.

He said if basically the same program is not put back "on the books...we'll be highly critical and we'll go to Washington and make as strong a case as we can."

New rules hit cheating on welfare

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state is coupling new regulations with proposed legislation for "fiscal sanctions" to force county welfare departments to crack down on welfare cheaters.

Welfare Director Charles Bates calls the new state effort a program of "aggressive helpfulness."

He told newsmen Thursday he does not think fraud is widespread throughout Ohio, and conceded that the department crackdown is intended in part to "help us do a better job and gain the confidence of the public."

Bates said a bill is being drafted that would allow the state to withhold county government funds when welfare departments do not cooperate with state efforts to ferret out cheaters.

Details have not been worked out, Bates said, but he added an effort would be made to "find sanctions that would not affect recipients' grants."

New regulations announced by Bates include a requirement for each of the 88 counties to file no later than March 1 a plan giving in detail what each is doing about welfare fraud.

Rhodes puts '74 'team' together

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former Gov. James A. Rhodes has put together his own ticket for 1974, hoping he can bring once-united Republicans back together.

But there are already some grumblings from hopeful candidates who didn't make Rhodes' All-Star team.

The Rhodes ticket would have Rhodes running for governor, Lt. Gov. John W. Brown and Secretary of State Ted W. Brown seeking re-election, former State Rep. Roger Tracy Jr. for treasurer, and State Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, for auditor.

The attorney general candidate would be picked by a screening committee.

There was no place on Rhodes' ticket for other hopefuls such as State Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-4 Middletown, or State Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati.

Lukens wants to be a candidate for governor, if he can overcome a 5-year political ban based on the charge he failed to report his campaign expenses on time.

He claims Rhodes and U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Cincinnati, are trying to end their own dispute by "giving the party away."

"It's not theirs to give," he said. "I, for one, am not going to be any part of their agreements."

Aronoff is an unannounced, but serious, contender for attorney general. He has been travelling around the state drumming up support.

Rhodes wants somebody from northeastern Ohio in the attorney general's spot.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown believes a federal court will permit State Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens to run for office despite a state law penalizing candidates who don't file expense statements within 45 days after an election.

"I think they will find the five-years provision too much of a penalty and rule it unconstitutional," Brown said.

Lukens has not yet attempted a court challenge. He contends his statement was prepared and notarized but got lost in the mails.

Youthful members of the Statehouse press corps agreed to take on Lucasville penitentiary inmates in a game of basketball. Warren Wheat of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who is president of the correspondents' association, advised members: "For cryin' out loud, don't argue with the officials, or the players, either." Arguments would have been futile in any case. The inmates won, 141-40.

Airlines industry splits on end to 'special fares'

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The airlines industry views with mixed feelings a government order eliminating such discount fares as the family plan and the youth plan, a step which the government says could lead to reductions in regular fares.

After lengthy hearings on fare structures, the Civil Aeronautics Board issued in December an order canceling family and youth rates on grounds they were discriminatory and unreasonable.

Instead of making the cancellation effective immediately, it said hearings would be conducted on the effects of the cancellation. The board's view was that when a number of discount or promotional fares have been eliminated, many of the special passengers would be paying regular fares, thereby increasing the carriers' revenues, and making possible a reduction in basic rates.

Under the family plan, the head of the family pays the regular fare; there is a discount of 25 per cent for his wife and for their children over 12 years of age, and a discount of 33 1-3 per cent for children under 12.

The "youth standby" rate — requiring a passenger to take a chance on getting a seat on a specific flight — has a discount of 33 1-3 per cent. Some lines also have a "youth reservations" rate with a discount of 20 or 25 per cent.

The family plans have been in use since 1948 and the youth plans since 1960.

These special plans are not a major source of revenue, the airlines say. Trans World Airlines estimates the family plan accounts for about 10 per cent of its revenue passenger-miles, and the youth standby plan for about 5 per cent.

TWA, American Airlines and United Air Lines have filed petitions with the CAB asking for reconsideration of the order, but for differing reasons.

TWA argues that the board was mistaken in its ruling that the costs of carrying passengers at special rates were "substantially the same" as the costs of carrying them at regular rates.

It also asserted that the board "mistakenly assumed that elimination of these discount fares would lead to lower prices for normal tickets." TWA says the CAB "erroneously argues that discount traffic is 'subsidized' by normal fare traffic."

Melvin A. Brenner, vice president of marketing and planning for TWA, says family and youth fares not only help special passengers, but also are of indirect benefit to the regular passengers.

"The cost of flying does not vary much with the number of seats occupied," he says. "Therefore if we can bring additional people aboard, a few more people — say 10 per cent — can make a big difference in economic viability."

In the industry as a whole, scheduled airlines have found the average flight has about 50 per cent of its seats empty.

American Airlines has also petitioned the board to keep family and youth plans, but United Air Lines has proposed that the board's order be placed in effect immediately.

Although United has such services for competitive reasons, a spokesman says, its long-term philosophy has been against them. United always contends that the discounts divert more traffic than they generate and might be discriminatory, as the CAB says. Youth standby age rules have been difficult to enforce, the spokesman adds.

Eastern Air Lines has generally opposed systemwide discount fares, leaning toward promotional fares designed for special markets — such as the multitude of colleges and universities in Eastern's territory.

Eastern is a North-South carrier with relatively short flights and says it faces competition from trains and buses that puts it in a different position than that of the transcontinental lines.

Eye election reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office has prepared a report on election reforms at the request of U.S. Rep. William Keating, R-Ohio calling for cutting the number of issues on ballots and passage of clear and simple election laws.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SATURDAY, FEB. 3

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Planetary influences are somewhat mixed now, so aim at steadiness. Rely upon facts intelligently sought, and upon good advice. Do not depend soley on your own ideas.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Study the factors involved in your day. Is what you planned earlier the right policy now? Maybe a change of tack would advance matters more promisingly.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Your wonderful imagination can lead you to new avenues of attainment now. Mobilize your variety of gifts for tackling a difficult or new type of job.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Some situations are changing. Don't speculate with what you haven't got. Good organization of work matters essential. Direct energies into profitable channels.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You should be highly spirited now, like the highly trained race horse who, while faster than most, is also able to heed the finest hint of direction.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Some matters will prosper, others need extraordinary care. Be a thoughtful judge, and do not mind little aggravations. Keep efficiency, standards high.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Generally you react to a situation brightly. Keep in form now. You should be sparkling with ideas, plans, new and more efficient procedures.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Never mind that you did not attain before, it is how you can accomplish NOW and for the tomorrows that matters. But let old mistakes warn against repetition.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Don't drive so furiously toward your goals that you miss the good "little" things along the way. Some care may be needed to combat antagonism, prevent miscalculations.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Study others' difficulties objectively and you will see his (or her) frustrations more clearly. Your present role is that of inspiring companion.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Exercise extreme caution in financial matters. Due to having insufficient data, there could be danger in signing contracts, especially.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Small things may try your patience, but you have the will power to overcome aggravation. Use it! Keep your mind clear so you can act at properly strategic moments.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with an extraordinarily qick mind. You see situations at a glance and as quickly come up with the right answers. Another of your outstanding characteristics is your ability to carry on, to wade through powerfully in the face of the most roublesome obstacles. In fact, your inner strength seems to gain more momentum under hardship. Aquarius is also a Sign of good fellowship and it expresses itself in your unusually outgoing personality. Yet you plan, observe and often make your wisest decisions in complete solitude. Your talents are many and you could especially excel in the fields of politics, science, music, literature, journalism and art.

Bloodshot eyes help defendant

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Keith H. Lidgerwood's eyes were bloodshot, glazed and watery when he was taken to a police station and charged with drunken driving, Sgt. George Atkins told the court in Lauceston, Tasmania, Wednesday.

"Both eyes?" Lidgerwood's attorney asked the policeman.

"Yes," said Atkins.

"Were they both the same?" the lawyer persisted.

"Yes," Atkins insisted.

Lidgerwood, 64, removed his glass right eye and placed it on the ledge of the dock.

Case dismissed.

Lions at home, MT on road tonight

Bulky schedule looms for SCOL cage teams

A bulky seven-game docket looms for the six South Central Ohio League basketball teams this weekend.

Three pivotal SCOL skirmishes appear on Friday night's worksheet while five of the six SCOL teams will be clashing with non-league teams Saturday night.

The Miami Trace-Circleville struggle will be the SCOL's headliner Friday night, while in other action, Washington C. H. entertains revived Hillsboro and Greenfield McClain visits Wilmington

MIAMI TRACE'S Panthers will be searching for their fourth straight win of the season in the 8 p.m. with the co-leading Tigers. The game will be played at Circleville's old Mill St. gym.

The Panthers, waiting in the wings of the SCOL stage only one game out of first place, will carry a 4-3 league record into the crucial showdown while Circleville will be risking its 5-2 loop chart.

Washington C. H.'s Blue Lions will be trying to preserve their tie atop the SCOL standings when unpredictable Hillsboro comes calling for the important shootout at the WSHS gym.

A Washington C. H. win, coupled with a Miami Trace victory over Circleville, would give the Lions sole ownership of the SCOL's top perch.

GREENFIELD, the defending SCOL king, will be shopping for its first league win of the campaign in tonight's bout with Wilmington, which will risk its 4-3 loop record.

Three of the SCOL teams will be on the road Saturday night as they try to improve a 21-16 record posted against outside competition this season. Only Washington C. H. is idle in Saturday's action.

Miami Trace pays a visit to Columbus Bishop Hartley, Circleville travels to neighboring Hamilton Township, Wilmington goes to Hamilton Taft and Greenfield entertains Chillicothe.

Prep computer goofed!

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A mathematical goof cost Hannibal River High School a berth in the first state football playoffs last fall, the Ohio High School Athletic Association announced Thursday.

Harold Meyer, commissioner for the OHSAA, said Uniontown Lake represented Region 7 in the Class AA semi-finals instead of Hannibal River because of the error.

The commissioner said the error penalized a team that had two or more open dates or games with out of state opponents. River played two West Virginia rivals, beating Magnolia 21-19 and Weirton Madonna 14-12 en route to a 10-0 record.

Lake, 8-2-0, played its entire schedule against Ohio opponents, then lost in the first round to Class AA state champ Akron St. Vincent, 42-6.

The ratings were based on a 10-game schedule and Meyer said, "If a team played nine games or one out of state team, the points were divided by nine and multiplied by 10.

"For schools playing eight games, or two out of state teams — as River did — the divisor of nine was used instead of the divisor of eight. The divisor should have been reduced accordingly," said Meyer.

Stan Bonar, an accountant who has computer training, discovered the error and the president of the River boosters had another computer printout run at the school's expense.

After the error, the computerized ratings showed River first with 398 points and Lake second with 375 points.

Meyer, apologizing to the school, its team and students, said the OHSAA would reimburse River the $200 it cost for the additional print-out and said the school would be presented a plaque showing it as Region 7 champion.

River's record was its best in its 16-year history and also was the last coaching season for Martin Flannery, retiring after 24 years.

BGSU faces key MAC bout

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— "This is the biggest game in the league so far," Bowling Green Coach Pat Haley says of the Falcons' Mid-American basketball date Saturday with Miami of Ohio.

"It's the rest of the league against Miami," said Haley prior to the home rematch with the Redskins. Miami won earlier at Oxford, 67-62.

If the Redskins repeat that triumph, they will be 6-1 in the league and two games up on everybody in the important loss column. However, a Miami loss would create a first-place tie between the Redskins and Bowling Green at 5-2.

"We'd be in real good shape in that case," said Haley, whose sophomore-dominated squad has its only conference road assignments left at Ohio University and Western Michigan.

"Miami has that real fine defense, its trademark," Haley said. "And (Phil) Lumpkin has given them great leadership."

Lumpkin's shooting did the Falcons in the first time. He hit 13 of 22 shots and wound up with 27 points.

Bowling Green may be without the services of Brian Scanlan, a junior forward who was decked by the flu Thursday. If Scanlan does not start, it will be Tom Scott.

"We're certainly puzzling," Haley said of his youngsters, who have lost their last three games at home and won their last three on the road.

Miami faces a bugaboo at Bowling Green. The Redskins have been in first place the last two seasons and lost both times on the Falcons' floor. It was Bowling Green's lone victory in 10 league games a year ago.

In other games, Toledo goes to Ohio University, Western Michigan to Kent State and Buffalo State to Central Michigan, all afternoon matches. The Miami-BG contest is at night.

The Toledo-Ohio game will all but eliminate the loser from the title picture. The Rockets are third at 4-3 and the Bobcats fourth at 3-3.

Elsewhere on the Ohio college scene, assistant mentor Bob Burkholder again will guide Ohio State Saturday when the Buckeyes play a Big Ten game at Wisconsin.

Head Coach Fred Taylor is winding up a week's recuperation in Florida after being hospitalized with a chest disorder two weeks ago. The Buckeyes, 2-2 in the league, need a triumph to remain a title contender.

Cincinnati tries to extend its series record over highly-regarded Houston to 13-0. The host Cougars and Bearcats haven't met since the 1963-64 season, however. Cincinnati is 11-7 this season.

Other WCH teams snap skids

Lion frosh stretch spree to six in row

Washington C. H.'s freshman basketball team stretched its winning streak to six consecutive games while the other two Blue Lion teams snapped losing skids Thursday night.

The Lion frosh hiked their season record to 10-1 with a convincing 62-45 win over Hillsboro at the junior high gym, while in other action, the Washington C. H. eighth graders snapped a two-game spin with a 38-34 win over Hillsboro and the Lion seventh graders cracked a three-game with a 31-28 victory at Hillsboro.

FORWARD CHUCK Byrd spearheaded the win for Coach Don Gibbs' Lions with a 26-point performance and pivotman Doug Phillips provided ample support with 18 counters. The Lions zoomed to a 29-6 first period lead and had stretched that bulge to 51-16 at intermission.

Coach Ken Hays' eighth grade bunch escaped with a 14-12 first period lead and then held Hillsboro scoreless in the second frame to grab a 23-12 lead at halftime.

Double figure scoring efforts from Jim Crabtree (19) and Sam McClendon (10) paced the Lion Cubs to their third win in nine outings this season. The Lions used a 6-2 scoring advantage at the free throw line since both teams had 16 field goals.

Jeff Elliott played a fine floor game in sparking Coach Carl Anders' seventh graders to their fifth win in eight games.

New Holland victor in MT loop shootout

Art Schlichter won his scoring duel with Dan Gifford, but New Holland emerged with a victory to remain atop the standings in the Miami Trace District junior high basketball league.

Schlichter popped in 40 of Madison Mills' 48 points, but New Holland, behind a 26-point spree from Gifford, posted a 52-48 win to stretch its record to 5-1.

In other action at Bloomingburg's gym Thursday night, Bloomingburg nudged Jeffersonville 43-41 in a contest in which Jeff was held scoreless in the second quarter.

MT game directions

Fans planning to attend the Miami Trace - Bishop Hartley game Saturday are advised of the following route by Miami Trace athletic director Delmar Mowery.

Travel I-71 north to the Mound St. exit and follow Mound St. to I-70-E and stay on 70-E until the James Rd. exit. Turn north onto James Rd. and follow to Livingston Ave. Travel east on Livingston one block and turn right on Zettler Ave. The school is located at the intersection of Zettler and Livingston.

Weegie's, MT Faculty register cage wins

Weegie's Town Tavern and Miami Trace's Faculty notched victories Thursday night in Washington C.H. Independent basketball league action at the junior high gym.

The Town Tavern bunch downed Bob Lewis Realty 61-45 in the opener and Miami Trace's Faculty whipped Carter Feed and Grain 87-51 in the nightcap.

FIVE PLAYERS landed double figure scoring totals for Weegie's Town Tavern, which increased its record to 4-5. Mike Wilson's 17-point effort sparked the balancing act and Peanut Smith canned 12.

Ed Summers scored 12 points to pace the scoring attack for Lewis Realty, now 3-5 on the season.

Miami Trace's Faculty received double figure scoring from five players in picking up its seventh win in eight starts. Carl Whitaker popped in 20 to ignite the attack and Steve Yambor scored 16.

Winner set as N.Y. Jets head coach

NEW YORK (AP) — Charlie Winner, who has had previous football ties with Weeb Ewbank as an assistant coach and who has off-field ties as Ewbank's son-in-law, will become head coach of the New York Jets in 1974.

"I did my homework and he's the best man for the job," Phil Iselin, president of the National Football League club, said Thursday in announcing that Winner will serve as a Ewbank assistant and then take over as head coach when the 65-year-old Ewbank becomes general manager in 1974.

Winner, who has signed a three-year contract that will make him head coach through 1976, has been an assistant to George Allen, handling the Washington Redskins' defensive secondary, since he was fired as head coach of the St. Louis Cardinals following the 1970 season and a five-year-record of 35-30-5. He was 8-5-1 in 1970.

Winner was an assistant coach at Case Tech in Cleveland, and married to Nancy Ewbank, when he left in 1954 to become a Baltimore Colts assistant after Ewbank was named as head coach.

When Ewbank was fired after a 7-7 season in 1962 and was hired by the Jets, then of the American Football League, Winner stayed with the Colts under Don Shula.

MT's frosh suffer loss

Miami Trace's freshmen basketball team dropped its seventh game of the season Thursday night as Circleville posted a 49-39 win at Circleville.

Rick Saunders hooped 19 points to spark the scoring attack for Coach Terry Richard's Panthers and Rodney Garringer provided ample backing with 13 markers.

The Panther frosh, now 4-7 on the season, will host Greenfield at 5 p.m. Monday and entertain Wilmington Thursday.

Score by Quarters:

Big George Archer takes share of Hawaiian lead

HONOLULU (AP) — Big George Archer says he's at least a month away from playing good.

"Let's just hope better days are ahead," the 6-foot-6 one-time ranch hand sighed.

But his position—a share of the lead—going into today's second round in the $200,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament, doesn't really reflect his pessimism.

"I've changed everything around, the way I'm hitting the ball off the tee," Archer said. "It was just awful. Now I'm doing the right thing. But I don't feel comfortable. It'll take time. I'm at least a month away from playing the way I want to."

He managed a four-under-par 68 in Thursday's first round to tie youthful Tom Watson and old pro Gay Brewer, who has a habit of winning away from the continental United States, for the lead in this rich event that offers a $40,000 first rize.

Tied at 69, just one stroke back and three under par on the 7,154-yard Waialae Country Club course, were Doug Sanders, Lanny Wadkins, Gibby Gilbert and Takaaki Kono, a 120-pound Japanese.

Arnold Palmer, a 43-year-old master trying to shake persistent putting troubles, defending title-holder Grier Jones and a half-dozen others were at 70.

Lee Trevino, who scorched the plush layout by the balmy beaches of the Pacific with a 61 in Wednesday's pro-am, slipped to a par 72. He had to birdie the last hole to do that.

Also in the big group at the figure was Australian veteran Bruce Crampton, already the winner of two tour titles this season.

In-service program for teachers slated

An in-service program for all teachers in both Washington C. H. and the Miami Trace School systems is planned for next Thursday at 3:15 p.m. at Washington Senior High School. Schools in the Miami Trace district only will be dismissed an hour early.

At 3:15 p.m., an introductory reading workshop in all content areas for junior and senior high school teachers will be conducted by Miss Meredith Johnson, chairman of the secondary reading program, in the Columbus public schools. She taught speech and English at Miami Trace in 1966-67, and since then has served as Title I reading consultant in Hamilton Local Schools and as a reading specialist in Columbus schools.

At 4:15 p.m. a workshop on "Reading in the Middle Grades" will be conducted by Miss Eileen Tway, assistant professor at Miami University, Oxford, who will show slides and discuss trends and issues involved in reading in middle grades. Miss Tway, a native of Fayette County, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Tway, near Greenfield. She has taught in elementary schools in Ohio and Indiana and at the University of Chicago. She taught at Ohio State University before becoming assistant professor in the Department of Education at Miami.

AT 5 P.M. James Wheeler, coordinator of primary physical education in the Dayton schools, will discuss body management, as related to reading achievement — being able to use the body in a confident manner. He feels that body management is divided into gross motor skills, form perception, hand-eye coordination and ocular pursuits and, by means of film, he will explain the areas as demonstrated by students in classrooms.

From 5:30 until 6:30 p.m. dinner will be served in the cafeteria at the high school. Mrs. Ruth Domenico will make place cards, and students in Mrs. Dorothy Rueppel's special education class at Wilson School will be in charge of table arrangements.

From 6:30 to 8 p.m. Miss Tway will conduct two workshops to offer suggestions for informal reading tests, individualized reading and other activities to improve a reading program.

At the same time, Wheeler will conduct similar workshops at which teachers will have an opportunity to learn specific body coordination activities to be used in the classroom.

The program has been planned by the Fayette County Right to Read Committee, composed of Mrs. June Slaughter, and Hugh Rea, co-chairmen; Mrs. Evelyn Reser, Mrs. Charlene Mace, Mrs. Mila Schlichter, Mrs. Domenico, Mrs. Norma Wilson and Mrs. Connie Meriweather.

Laos list brings joy to families

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Not knowing, not being sure — that was the most horrible thing during these two years," Rose Gotner said after her husband, missing in action nearly two years, was reported on a list of prisoners of war in Laos.

"But last Saturday, that was the most horrible day of our lives because we were supposed to get a complete accounting then of all the prisoners," she said in Sacramento, Calif., after being notified Thursday that her husband, Maj. Norbert Gotner, was named on a list of seven POWs held by the Communists in Laos.

"We started waiting at 5 a.m. (Saturday), and we waited all day for the telephone," she said.

"We got this champagne then," she said gesturing to a bottle that had been opened a short time before, "Finally at 8 o'clock Saturday night they came to the house and said Norm wasn't on the list.

"I didn't cry then. I cried today after the Air Force called from San Antonio. They said he was on the list of prisoners in Laos. The first thing I did was sit down and cry, I had tears flowing all down my face. I could hardly believe it was over," she said, now excited and smiling.

Mrs. Gotner, a petite, blonde mother of three, said she had heard nothing about her husband since Feb. 3, 1971 — the day his Phantom jet was shot down along the border of Laos and North Vietnam.

"But I never at any time thought he was dead," she added.

In Winlock, Wash. Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Leonard said their son, Air Force Maj. Edward W. Leonard, Jr.,34, was also on the list.

"It's a great feeling of satisfaction and relief," Leonard said. "We knew that he was alive, but we never had any contact with him."

In Centralia, Wash., Dwight Mattix said the State Department told him the name of his son, Samuel, 20, and Lloyd Oppel, of Courtenay, B.C., were on the list of civilians who were captured in Laos.

Mattix said the two were missionaries when they were taken prisoner last October.

Also on the list was Air Force Capt. Stephen Long, who had not been heard from since his plane was shot down over Laos on Feb. 28, 1969. His parents, Dan Long and Mrs. H.E. Barnhart, both of Springfield, Ore., were notified that he was alive on Thursday.

"I just got goose pimples all over," said Mrs. Barnhart. "There just isn't a word for how you feel at a time like this."

E.S. Preston joins power siting panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan announced Thursday the appointment of E.S. Preston of Columbus, former state highway director, as a member of the Power Siting Commission.

Preston, 61, a native of Portsmouth, is president of E.S. Preston Associates. He will serve on the commission at the pleasure of the governor, receiving $5,000 annually.

Most POWs said likely to continue in service

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— State and federal employment experts predict most returning prisoners of war won't need job placement help right away because they'll be staying in the service.

"The average POW has 16 years in the service," said Stan Wyman, spokesman for the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services. "That's only four years to retirement. We assume that most of them will stay in."

But those who decide to leave the military and look for jobs, will find a small army of placement experts and a vast array of special programs to help them.

"If you added up the list of programs and departments that are involved in this, it probably would be more than there are POWs," Wyman said at a news briefing Wednesday.

Returnees will have access to the same programs that have been available to all veterans, but OBES counselor Thomas Edwards said red tape and many requirements will be cut for the POWs.

Victor Smith of the U.S. Department of Labor, who was also at the briefing, said both state and federal agencies will "break our necks" to see that returning prisoners obtain the jobs they want.

Edwards said that if military and civilian government job counselors can't help a returnee, the 30,000-member National Alliance of Businesses has offered placement services.

The Labor Department is also putting up $500,000 to pay for trips by POWs to distant points for job interviews and for relocation expenses up to $1,200.

Smith said the Department of Labor has been less successful than it would like to be in finding jobs for veterans, although he said placement has picked up in the last year.

But Wyman said the returning prisoners, as a group, should be easier to place than veterans in general. He said most are officers, and many have college experience or technical skills.

OBES will be directly concerned with the 26 Ohio POWs who will be returning to Wright Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton.

Edwards said he also would help the estimated 74 other returnees to be processed through Dayton to get in touch with placement resources in Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

6-member ethics panel selected by Ohio assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A six-member legislative subcommittee was named Thursday to draft a code of ethics for members of the Ohio General Assembly.

Sen. Paul Gillmor, chairman of the newly-created Legislative Ethics Committee, announced the appointments. His committee was created by a bill passed by the legislature last Dec. 15.

The port Clinton Republican said the full committee eventually will adopt a legislative code of ethics which will affect the General Assembly without requiring its approval.

Named to the bipartisan drafting group were Reps. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina; James P. Celebrezze, D-4 Cleveland; Joseph P. Tulley, R-59 Mentor; and Sens. Anthony F. Novak, D-23 Cleveland; Robert J. Corts, R-13 Elyria, and Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron.

Old fashioned hardware store to close

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Frank P. Hall Hardware, an old-fashioned jumble just right for noon-time browsing in downtown Columbus, is closing down.

Not for lack of customers, but for lack of clerks.

"All the employes retired," said Harold Hessler, head of sporting goods.

You don't find good hardware clerks easily. It's even worse trying to find good sporting goods clerks.

Hessler, who retired last October, came back to help out in the final "After Christmas Sale" which will mark the unceremonious end of a downtown institution.

"We've all had a lot of crying over closing down," said Mrs. Charles Lewis, 62-year-old bookkeeper who started in 1936, took time out to rear a family and returned 12 years ago. "But, I'm ready to retire myself."

Of the five Hall employes, only Orville McCabe will take another job. He is a youngster with only 20 years of tenure at Hall.

Jim Hustead, 67, started at Hall Hardware in 1922, or a half century past. He has been head of the hardware department. "A lot of customers lose out," he grumbled.

Someone mentioned customers preferring airy, modern hardware stores. "They won't get the service they get here," he snapped.

A newcomer might think Hall Hardware is a jungle of disorder with its creaking floors piled with hardware and sporting goods, its walls lined with everything from hinges to fishing lures, its ceiling festooned with fan belts.

But, in 20 minutes Hessler, Hustead and McCabe found on first try a liner for a thermos bottle (model 120), a nut for a screw that holds a rug-making frame together, and a two-handed fly rod strong enough to catch tarpon.

Hessler didn't recommend the rod. "It's murder," he told the customer. "I recommend a lighter one."

Hustead said in an aside: "They couldn't get anybody to clean rods and reels like he did," he said, nodding toward Hessler.

Charles Lewis, head of the hobby shop for 43 years,had to retire. He has been hospitalized with eye trouble. Mrs. Frank P. Hall, 79, decided to close down.

Court Hall Jr., her grandson, is in charge of the store closing. He didn't want to close. At 67 he wanted to keep the store open. His children talked him out of it.

So, what hasn't been sold at 40 per cent discount by Saturday, will be auctioned off, even to the 67-year-old balance scales, bought by Frank P. Hall at the outset.

"They just don't make things like these scales any more," said Hustead. He shook his head as he looked at the contraption.

"Why, I'll bet you there's been a 100 ton of nails sold over them since 1906."

Dogcatchers in 2 cities help grab bank robbers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dogcatchers in two cities abandoned their regular work to give chase to bank robbers, in each case chasing the men in their radio-equipped trucks.

In Milton, Mass., dog officer John Lank was riding in his truck Thursday when he heard a police radio dispatch reporting a robbery in nearby Canton. He spotted the car and gave chase, radioing his location to police.

Soon the alleged getaway car had a string of police vehicles on its tail, led by Lank in his dogcatcher's truck.

The two men in the car stopped and were hauled out by Lank, who turned them over to arriving police officers. Police said the two were armed with a gun.

In Ann Arbor, Mich., dog warden Steve Hill, 20, also overheard a police report of a bank robbery Thursday. Hill spotted the car pulling out of a parking lot and gave chase, radioing his position along the way.

Police said several shots were fired at Hill, some striking his truck. He was not injured.

Patrol cars soon joined Hill's truck and the suspect car finally came to a halt. It's occupants fled on foot, but were captured by police.

Investigators said one of the captured men complained on the way to the police station:

"Someone should have given that kid in the truck a traffic citation, the way he drove!"

President firm on fund freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Nixon administration officials are telling angry senators the President has full authority to impound any funds appropriated by Congress and that any move to curb that authority will be fought.

Caspar W. Weinberger, former head of the Office of Management and Budget, faces Senate Labor Committee questioning today on impoundments and sharp cuts in domestic programs as he seeks approval of his nomination to head the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

His replacement at OMB, former defense-industry executive Roy Ash, told the Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday that passage of a bill giving Congress veto power over impoundments would lead to financial chaos.

The Senate votes today on a bill requiring approval of the OMB director, with Ash specifically included.

Meanwhile, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz told the Senate Agriculture Committee Thursday that the American farm community must share the President's effort to trim government spending and halt inflation.

Butz' department has experienced heavy cutbacks and the termination of several programs and he had been scheduled to appear also before a judiciary subcommittee probing the constitutional questions involved in impoundment.

He did not appear. But after Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., subcommittee chairman, threatened him with a subpoena, administration spokesmen said Butz would be available next week.

Agriculture Committee Chairman Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., told Butz he will resist what he called the President's effort to secure an "item veto" not allowed by the Constitution.

'Dead man' turns up on street

MIAMI (AP) — Nish Scott's ex-wife burst into tears when told by police that her children's father was killed in an auto wreck.

Then Ruby Scott cried out louder when she came face to face with Scott while on the way to the morgue Thursday to identify what she thought was his body.

Scott, whom she ran into on the street, was nursing a swollen eye and cut lip.

"It was pretty shocking," said Mrs. Scott.

Dade County Sheriff's deputies soon learned that the body removed from Scott's wrecked auto was apparently the body of a robber who had beaten Scott and then stole his vehicle.

The accident victim had been identified as Scott because, although the body had no identification on it, a traffic ticket issued to Nish Scott was in the car.

Scott told police he had picked up two hitchhikers who robbed him and took his money and car.

He was angry over the robbery but Sheriff's Det. Gerald Mingo said Scott took the news of his death "pretty gracefully."

Contract Bridge ♠♥♦♣ B. Jay Becker

Test Your Dummy Play

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North leads the six of hearts and you win South's jack with the queen. How would you play the hand?

	♠A 10 3 ♥A Q 10 ♦Q 9 8 2 ♣A 10 5
♠K J 6 ♥8 4 2 ♦K J 10 5 ♣Q J 8	N W E S

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Spades and North leads the queen of hearts. How would you play the hand?

	♠A K J 9 4 ♥7 6 2 ♦J 9 ♣A 10 2
♠Q 10 5 ♥A 8 5 ♦A K 4 2 ♣9 8 3	N W E S

1. Played correctly, the contract is certain to come home. You simply lead a spade to the king, play the queen of clubs and finesse. If the queen loses to the king, North cannot return a spade or a heart without handing you a vital trick, while if he returns a diamond or a club, you simply force out the ace of diamonds to acquire nine tricks.

If the queen of clubs wins at trick three, shift your attention to diamonds, forcing out the ace, and again you are sure of nine tricks.

If you try any other method of play, you may make the contract but cannot be certain of it. Only the suggested method is sure to bring home the bacon.

2. Win the heart and play a low diamond from dummy! If South has the queen he will almost surely play it, and this will give you three diamond tricks instead of the two you started with. The defense will probably cash two hearts and shift to a club.

Take the ace, cash the A-K of trumps and jack of diamonds, cross to dummy with a trump and discard two clubs on the A-K of diamonds. This method of play succeeds if the trumps are divided 3-2.

If South follows low on the low diamond play from dummy at trick two, you should assume he does not have the queen. Accordingly, play the nine, not the jack. If South has the ten, the nine will force the queen and again you will be on firm ground.

The contract is not certain with any method of play, but the one suggested offers by far the best chance for a tenth trick.

A Drug for Thyroid Disease

Can you give me some information about the drug cytomel which is used for thyroid disease?

Mrs. L.T., Pa.

Dear Mrs. T.:

Cytomel is a chemical and a synthetic form of the thyroid hormone. The name used by the manufacturer is the brand name for liothyronine.

Thyroid hormone is given to patients with decreased thyroid gland function. This is known as hypothyroidism.

Sometimes the thyroid hormone is tried in people who have an enlargement of the thyroid or a goiter. In some cases it is said to reduce the size of a non-toxic goiter.

There are very specific reasons for the use of this drug. There are also many reasons why the drug should not be used.

When the function of the thyroid gland is studied, this chemical substitute for the natural thyroid hormone can often be used with great success. When used, doctors carefully follow the patient to be sure that a proper balance is established between the drug and the activity of the thyroid gland.

Three members of my family have Parkinson's disease. Is it possible that this disease is inherited? Would it be important they they all work in anthracite coal mines?

Mr. J.N., W. Va.

Dear Mr. N.:

As far as I know, there is no familial or hereditary factor in the production of Parkinson's disease. Also known as paralysis agitans, or shaking palsy, this condition most commonly occurs after encephalitis or inflammation of the brain.

Sometimes it occurs in the middle-aged and in the elderly without any known reason. Much is known about the disease from the clinical point of view because the appearance of the patient is so characteristic.

Besides a tremor of the fingers, there is often a fixed facial expression. The eyes often do not blink and there is a staring attitude which quickly identifies or suggests Parkinson's disease.

Remarkable benefits have been obtained in many cases with the drug L-dopa.

The fact that those members of your family who are affected with this disease work in coal mines may be of great importance. It is well known that this condition may result from chronic exposure and poisoning with carbon monoxide. The heavy metal manganese and other related metals are known to be toxic and can also produce a condition closely resembling Parkinson's Diseases.

Here may lie the relationship. Certainly the owners of the mine and the doctors associated with it should be told of this familial problem.

Insurance firms eye 'flexibility'

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The bedrock belief on which the life insurance industry is built, the assured-fixed-precise return, has shifted. Soon you may have the option of accepting your proceeds in variable rather than fixed dollars.

The change, cleared this week by a Securities and Exchange Commission decision, introduces into life insurance the chance of actually earning money on your insurance rather than merely obtaining security and some savings.

The low-risk element is essentially still there, because a minimum return is guaranteed. But because your premiums go directly into stocks, where money should grow, you or your heirs might receive a bonus atop benefits.

At least three fundamental reasons are involved in the industry's decision to at least partially foresake its once-zealous advocacy of the fixed-dollar return:

1. Inflation, or the erosion of dollar values, have made the fixed dollar less and less acceptable.

2. The pressure of competition from equities, such as mutual funds, which tend to ride the crest of inflation — or at least not be submerged by it — make it advisable to offer a more flexible product.

3. A more affluent and educated public, to a great extent freed from insecurities by Social Security, private pensions, group health and life policies, unemployment insurance and the like desires innovative techniques for building estates.

The decision made by the SEC was that while variable life is subject to the same federal registration and information disclosure regulations that apply to securities, it is exempt from federal commission restraints.

While this decision might seem almost meaningless to the consumer, it actually is of great importance. Here's why:

If variable life commissions were federally regulated they would be restricted to not more than 8.5 or 9 per cent of the first year's premiums — a rate that would hardly appeal to insurance salesmen.

Salesmen of ordinary life now can earn commissions ranging upward from 50 per cent of the first year's premiums paid by the insured.

Study committee organized to assess MT grade program

A committee has been organized to study the elementary school program in the Miami Trace School District in view of concern by the Fayette County Board of Education and administration in relation to certain areas at the elementary level that need to be upgraded.

Superintendent Guy M. Foster welcomed the group of 35 in attendance and explained to them some of the reasons for the group's organization. First he explained that a board of education is responsible to the citizenry for evaluating the educational program in the school district.

Foster told the group they must consider such questions as:

(1) Is the curriculum offered adequate and comprehensive enough to meet the needs?

(2) Should junior high students be offered an organized physical education, industrial arts, home economics, art, and advanced math course?

(3) If special education and kindergarten programs are expanded, will there be rooms available?

(4) When do old buildings or facilities reach the stage where extensive repair is not financially wise?

(5) Could some change in organizational arrangements pull larger groups of the same grade level of students together so groupings of students and special services from librarians, counselors and others could be provided.

The study group felt a comprehensive study should be made and expressed a willingness to help, Foster said. It was suggested that other people might be invited to serve.

Foster outlined some of the general areas to be studied. They are curriculum, buildings, enrollments and finances and school organization.

Board members and the administrative staff will organize the study and ask members of the group to serve on various committees.

Dog, Kennel Club makes 'obedience school' plans

The Paint Valley Dog and Kennel Club, meeting at Anderson's Restaurant Thursday evening, discussed the obedience school, scheduled to get under way Feb. 12, and made plans for the next dog show.

To make the school worthwhile, a total of 20 owners must be signed up for the 10-week course, and to date eight have made definite commitments. The school is for dogs, pure bred or not, six months old or older, which have had distemper shots.

The course costs $20, and the first meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Feb. 12 in the Fine Arts Building at the Fayette County Fairground. If there are not 20 owners with their dogs present at that time, the school will not be held. The next obedience school will then be in the fall.

Mrs. Elmer Haymaker, who will be instructor, or Mrs. Carl Wilt can give dog-owners further information.

Assessing the club's "Pure Bred Puppy Match," held last Sunday, as a complete success, with no complaints from owners or viewers, the group began immediate plans for an outdoor "Puppy Fun Match" on June 17 at the Fairground. Robert Schneider will be superintendent of the show and Carl Wilt, co-superintendent.

In addition to the usual classes, an obedience class will be added, for subnovice exhibitors, and also, a junior handling class, to encourage young people to display their pets in competition.

Boys' Choir plans concert

The Fayette County Boys' Choir is making plans for a sacred music concert to be presented Sunday, Feb. 25, at 7 p.m. in the First Christian Church, N. North St.

The group, directed by Mrs. Robert E. Willis, its founder, will have complete charge of the service, assisted by the Rev. Don Baker. The boys will appear in black and white robes, and there will be a candlelight processional and recessional.

The public is invited, and the offering will go into a fund to pay for a spring educational trip, tentatively to the historic Charlottesville, Va., area. The choir was unable to make a trip last year because of lack of finances.

"We are preparing some attractive choral numbers for the concert," Mrs. Willis said, adding that "two thirds of the choir is new this year, and there are many excellent voices among the 24 members."

Choir officers this season are Greg Sanderson, president; Jeff Fannin, vice president; Joe Smith, secretary; Ralph Fast, sergeant - at - arms, and Jeff Overly and Steve Ford, librarians.

Trucker reports theft

Charles Sutton, Cincinnati truck driver, reported to sheriff's deputies the theft of a suitcase from the cab of his semi-rig, Thursday. Sutton said the suitcase, containing a logbook and personal items valued at $133, was taken from the unlocked cab of the truck parked on the Stop 35 lot.

DP&L layoffs caused by gas shortage

The Dayton Power and Light Co. will lay off 19 employes Saturday. Due to the shortage of gas the company can no longer extend service to new customers, and as a result gas construction has been severely curtailed.

One person locally is among those to be furloughed, George Winkle, Washington C.H. district manager said.

Last October it was determined that there were 95 surplus employes in gas construction work throughout the system. The company, through an intensive job review program, was able to assign many of these employes to other work. Others were transferred within the company, retired, or resigned.

The employes to be laid off all have two years or less seniority. It is hoped that these lay offs will be of short duration. Those laid off will be asked to come back to work when job openings occur for which they are qualified.

County Board plans grade school study

The Fayette County Board of Education will map plans for a comprehensive study to be conducted in the elementary schools in the Miami Trace School District at its meeting scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Superintendent Guy M. Foster said board members will establish committees and set procedures for the study along with several miscellaneous and routine matters.

Houseman returned to soldiers panel

Wayne L. Houseman, Jeffersonville - West Lancaster Road, has been reappointed by Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman to serve an additional term on the Fayette County Soldier's Relief Commission.

Houseman, whose term expired Dec. 5, 1972, will serve a five-year term ending Dec. 5, 1977.

TRAFFIC HEARING

Roger C. Ater, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ater, 501 Peddicord Ave., was adjudged to be a juvenile traffic offender during a hearing before Probate - Juvenile Judge Omar A. Schwart and received a 30-day license suspension. The youth was arrested Jan. 8 by the State Highway Patrol on a charge of speeding. Judge Schwart granted him permission to drive to and from school and work.

DIVORCE ASKED

Lucille Bryant, 624 Rawlings St., has filed suit for divorce in Common Pleas Court against Joseph R. Bryant, same address, on grounds of cruelty. The parties were married March 16, 1970 at Washington C. H. and have no children, according to the petition. The plaintiff asks a restraining order, that the defendant be immediately ordered to vacate the residence and a property settlement.

SUIT FILED

Agrico Chemical Co., Washington C. H., has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against J. Marvin and Judi Ann Arnold, Rt. 6, Washington C. H., seeking judgment against the defendants for $2,509.97 and interest at 6 per cent for alleged default of a promissory note entered into by the parties March 21, 1972.

CASE DISMISSED

A damage suit filed in Common Pleas Court asking $5,800 by Paul Glaze, Rt. 1, New Holland, against The Home Insurance Co., Columbus, has been dismissed on motion of the plaintiff, the case having been settled.

Union PTO to meet

Union Parent Teacher Organization will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Miami Trace High School auditorium. Following a short business meeting, a musical program will be presented by pupils in the first, third, fifth and seventh grades.

NEW STYLE CRUISERS — Police Sgt. Virgil Harris climbs into one of the city's new police cruisers which just arrived this week. Three new all-white cruisers will replace the blue and white cars presently in use. One of the old cruisers will be traded in and the other (in background) will be painted white and used as the city manager's car. The new cruisers are equipped with two 5-million-candle power strobe flashers in the rear windows in addition to the twin flashers on the roof. Police Chief Rodman Scott said the new flashers will make it easier for motorists approaching from the rear to see the stopped cruiser and avoid possible rear-end collisions.

Another good deed by Jaycees

'Red Ball' project complete

"Operation Red Ball" is another completed project of the Washington C. H. Jaycees, who were assisted by Delta Rho Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha, in covering all of the city on foot, house by house.

The fire rescue program, which is sanctioned by acting Fire Chief Maynard Denen and his department, consists of red vinyl balls, given to residents who have children or invalids in the house. A ball is placed on the door of the residence, and other balls are placed in the upper left corner of windows in rooms where a child or invalid sleeps.

Some homes required several stickers to identify all the rooms, so, that if necessary, firemen can be alerted, speeding rescue operation.

If anyone was missed in the canvass, red balls, which are free, may be obtained by writing the Jaycees, P. O. Box 411, Washington C. H. There will also be supplies in the main branches of the banks, at the Chamber of Commerce office and at the Washington Fire Department after Feb. 5.

Because it was impossible to cover the county in the project, the red balls will be supplied to all county fire departments.

Pennsy groundhogs see things both ways

Weather oracles at odds!!

The Slumbering Groundhog Lodge of Quarryville, Pa., takes one approach to weather forecasting.

At the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club — a more formal approach.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (AP) — In tune with tradition and despite heavy overcast and a little rain, famed Punxsutawney Phil saw his shadow at 6:45 a.m. today, forecasting six more weeks of winter weather.

All went according to schedule as a hardy troop of disciples climbed Gobblers Knob just outside of town and watched the furry weather oracle, as the legend goes, climb out of his burrow and fulfill his prediction.

Almost always it is that a shadow-sighting will be made, thus foretelling another six weeks of winter.

Meanwhile in Lancaster County, the Quarryville groundhog saw things differently this morning.

Robert W. Herr, hibernating governor of the Quarryville Lodge of Slumbering Groundhogs, reported their groundhog did not see his shadow, meaning spring is around the corner.

According to tradition, if Punxsutawney Phil—the name bestowed upon the groundhog each year—sees his shadow upon emerging from his burrow Feb. 2, there will be at least six more weeks of winter. Conversely, if he fails to see his shadow, spring supposedly is just around the corner.

The legend was born in 1882, the creation of some card-playing men sitting around a keg of beer frying a groundhog in butter. The idea was fanned by a newspaper editor and since has grown to such proportions that Punxsutawney and its groundhogs are renowned worldwide.

Jupiter Pluvius and the groundhog fought it out at dawn in Fayette County and Jupe was hands-down winner in a deluge. Woody woodchuck returned to his underground haven, in a nasty mood, and went back to sleep, "for at least six weeks", he muttered.

The groundhog's forecast—a spoof of course—is determined weeks in advance every year by the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club.

Almost always it is that a shadow-sighting will be made, thus foretelling another six weeks of winter. This year is no exception.

The 22 members of the club's so-called Inner Circle—local businessmen and civic leaders all—traditionally garb themselves in tails and tophats and clumb to the top of the bill known as Gobbler's Knob just before sunup to witness the groundhog's supposed prediction.

The star of the hour is carried along in a cage, doubleleashed to keep him from scampering for company more to his liking. He is stuffed gingerly into a hollowed-out tree stump that substitutes for a burrow, then summoned forth as the sun comes up for the great moment of fiction.

Most years the groundhog is so frightened and cold that once inside the stump, he has to be forced out. That requires a tricky combination of leash-

Penn Central needs cash: $600 million

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The financially troubled Penn Central railroad says it must get $600 million in federal subsidies over the next four years to get out of the red.

The company, America's biggest railroad, has filed for reorganization under federal bankruptcy statutes.

Without the federal money, the railroad's court-appointed trustees said Thursday, the only way to reach financial stability would be to cut the trackage almost in half.

The three trustees told U.S. District Court Judge John P. Fullam, who is supervising the reorganization, that the $600 million is based on operating a 15,000-mile system.

Penn Central currently has a 20,000-mile system, but has consistently said it could not return to the black by the 1976 deadline unless track reductions were approved.

The report filed with Fullam said expenditures through the years 1973-76 would total $1.624 billion for upgrading the line's plant and services. Penn Central said it expected to generate more than $1 billion of the required funds through freight and passenger business.

The trustees said the infusion of the public funds into the line would "insure the continuation of essential operations." Alternately, the report said of the requested $600 million, "A failure of the federal government to make this investment or to take other adequate actions can only result in a closing of Penn Central's railroad."

British soldier latest victim of Irish violence

BELFAST (AP) — A sniper killed a British soldier in Strabane Thursday night as bombs and rioting shook Belfast.

Sgt. William Boardley, 30, was the first soldier to die this year and the 698th confirmed death in three and a half years of Roman Catholic-Protestant warfare in Northern Ireland.

Boardley was shot as he set up a checkpoint against the assassins who have killed four Catholics and a Protestant this week.

In Belfast, a man identified only as a Protestant was critically wounded by gunfire, and authorities attributed the shooting to an assassination gang.

British troops in the capital rounded up about 10 Protestants for questioning about the bombing of a bus Thursday morning that killed a Catholic workman and injured others. The army's search brought Protestant mobs into the streets of East Belfast, setting cars and buses on fire to block the patrols. The troops smashed through with armored bulldozers.

Bombs went off in four Belfast buildings, causing heavy damage but no casualties.

Anonymous telephone callers told local newspapers the Ulster Volunteer Force, an outlawed Protestant vigilante force, was responsible for the bus bombing. But the organization later denied this.

POW list shockingly small

Up to 1,400 GIs 'Lost'

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials, unwilling to accept North Vietnam's latest prisoner list as final, are pressing Communist diplomats for more names than those of seven American servicemen and three civilians acknowledged as captives in Laos.

Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, chief U.S. negotiator of the Vietnam cease-fire agreement and its prisoner provisions, said Thursday night that "it doesn't look to us that it could be complete."

"We are querying them" for further information and more names, Kissinger said in a CBS interview.

The new lists, provided belatedly Thursday, left unexplained the fate of 308 U.S. servicemen and four civilians who have been carried in American records as either prisoners or missing in Laos.

Pentagon and State Department officials expressed shock and disappointment that the lists handed over in Paris five days after the Vietnam ceasefire agreement was signed were so small.

North Vietnam has acknowledged 562 U.S. servicemen and 23 American civilians are in Communist captivity in North Vietnam, South Vietnam and Laos.

Beyond this, the North Vietnamese have reported 55 military men and six civilians died while in prison.

For Indochina as a whole, the North Vietnamese lists supplied since last Saturday have failed to shed any light on what has happened to some 1,300 officers and enlisted men and 22 American civilians.

One of the three civilians reported prisoner in Thursday's list is a Canadian missionary.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim refused to voice any opinion when asked whether the North Vietnamese and their Pathet Lao allies might be holding back more names because U.S. warplanes are still bombing the Ho Chi Minh trail network and other targets in Laos despite the Vietnam cease-fire.

Friedheim said he could not say more than an official Pentagon statement that "the U.S. government will continue its efforts to account for all military personnel who have been carried by the United States as captured and missing."

The total of U.S. servicemen identified as prisoners in Laos actually is nine. It has been established that two servicemen whose names appeared on a list of 555 identified by the Hanoi diplomats last Saturday as captured by the North Vietnamese had been imprisoned in Laos. Friedheim did not name the two.

Pope selects 30 Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI named 30 new cardinals today, including the archbishops of Boston, Los Angeles and San Juan, P.R.

The pontiff announced that he would elevate the new princes of the Roman Catholic church at a consistory March 5.

It will be the fourth consistory of Pope Paul's reign and will increase the College of Cardinals to 145 members, the largest it has ever been.

The new American cardinals are Humberto S. Medeiros, 57, of Boston; Timothy Manning, 63, of Los Angeles; and Luis Aponte Martinez, 50, of San Juan.

Sea-way burglary loss tops $7,000

Loss in a burglary early Thursday at the Sea-way store, CCC Highway-W, has been estimated in excess of $7,000, the Sheriff's Department reported.

Sgt. William Crooks, heading the investigation, said guns, watches, household appliances and radios were taken in the break-in which occurred sometime after 10 p.m. Wednesday.

The theft was discovered by store manager Robert Coffey when he entered the building about 8:15 a.m. Thursday. Officers reported the store's burglar alarm was under repair at the time and not in operation.

According to Crooks the building was entered through a three-foot square hole knocked in a rear concrete block wall, apparently with a sledge hammer. Crooks said the burglars then pulled a large display case, sitting outside, in front of the hole to conceal it from detection while they gathered items inside.

The merchandise was then apparently loaded onto a truck and hauled away, officers believe.

Agents from the Bureau of Criminal Identification, London, were on the scene Thursday to assist sheriff's deputies in the investigation.

A complete list of stolen merchandise was being compiled in an inventory Friday, Crooks reported.

Racial problems not yet solved, Johnson believed

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson said in his last interview that the nation's racial problems cannot be solved unless there is greater awareness that whites and blacks still are treated unequally.

"One stands in an elevated position with all the advantages this country gives him and the other stands down in the rut, neglected and overlooked," he said.

"... But unless we recognize the fact that one's on the hill and the other's in the hollow, the one's on the mountain, the other's in the ditch, we're not evaluating it properly, and if we don't evaluate the problem properly, we can't solve the problem."

Johnson's remarks were recorded 10 days before his death in an interview with CBS newsman Walter Cronkite. The television interview, taped at the LBJ Ranch in Texas, was aired Thursday night.

Political negotiations with Viet Cong set

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu announced that South Vietnam will begin political negotiations with the Viet Cong in Paris no later than Tuesday.

"I have ordered Ambassador Pham Dang Lam to meet the Viet Cong in Paris no later than Feb. 6 to solve the internal problems of South Vietnam," Thieu declared Saturday in a Tet lunar new year television address to the nation.

Watergate bonds set

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today set surety bonds of $100,000 for each of the two men convicted in the Watergate trial and took the occasion to say that he had "great doubts of whether a key prosecution witness testified truthfully."

Ex-Sen. Brewster gets prison term

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md. was sentenced today to two to six years in prison and fined $30,000 on charges of accepting an illegal gratuity.

His codefendant, former lobbyist Cyrus T. Anderson, was sentenced to 1½ to 4½ years in prison and fined $30,000.

U.S. District Court Judge George Hart told Brewster as he imposed sentence, "I find myself facing a man trusted by the people of Maryland ... a man who violated that trust."

He sentenced the former senator to a minimum of eight months and a maximum of two years in prison on each of the three convictions. He ordered the sentences to run consecutively.

Anderson, once a lobbyist for the mail order firm of Spiegel Inc., who was convicted of three counts of bribery, was sentenced on each count to a minimum of six months and a maximum of 18 months and the sentences also are to run consecutively.

In an 11th hour plea to the court, Brewster said, "I remain staunchly convinced that I have not violated the law."

Both men have said they will appeal their convictions by a jury last November.

The government had accused Spiegel and Anderson of bribing Brewster with more than $14,000 to influence his vote on postal rate legislation.

Throughout the trial neither Brewster nor Anderson denied the exchange of funds, but both contended the money was a legitimate campaign contribution.

Spiegel, which was indicted along with Brewster and Anderson, pleaded guilty to two charges of paying an unlawful gratuity and was fined $20,000, thus avoiding a public trial.

Brewster was elected to the Senate in 1961 but defeated for re-election in 1968.

Jobless rate dips in January

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped slightly last month to 5 per cent of the work force, lowest in 2½ years, the Labor Department reported today.

The actual number of Americans out of work rose 560,000, but since it normally climbs more than that in January, the Bureau of Labor Statistics figured it as a decline on a seasonally adjusted basis.

The 5 per cent jobless rate, down from 5.1 per cent in December, had been the Nixon administration's goal for reducing joblessness by the end of last year. The January report means the administration missed its target by only one month.

Viet peace panel making progress

SAIGON (AP) — The chief delegates of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong on a peacekeeping military commission met for the first time today to take up an agenda including arrangements for the completion of American troop withdrawals and prisoner exchanges, U.S. officials reported.

A third pressing item on the agenda, the American officials said, was to arrange security for field teams of the International Commission of Control and Supervision who are to police the cease-fire.

The observers from Canada, Poland, Hungary and Indonesia are already three days behind the schedule specified in the cease-fire agreement for setting up regional headquarters in Hue, Da Nang, Pleiku, Phan Thiet, Bien Hoa, My Tho and Can Tho.

U.S. officials termed the meeting "significant."

There were other signs that the peacekeeping commissions are getting into action.

U.S. helicopters flew 40 more Viet Cong delegates and 4,000 pounds of their supplies from their district headquarters at Loc Ninh to Saigon to join the joint military commission.

Sunday was reported to be the target for deployment of Communist representatives to the seven regional headquarters where the international supervisory teams will be based.

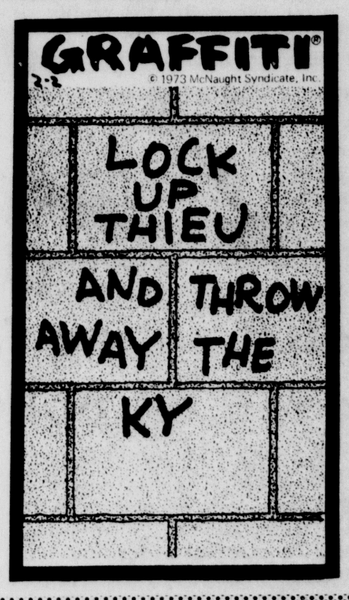
The international commission sent advance teams today to Pleiku, Da Nang and Hue to check out accommodations, transportation and communication facilities.

Col. Keith MacGregor of the Canadian delegation told newsmen at Pleiku that a full team of about 30 members should be there in two to four days.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, said there were no sustained battles anywhere in the country. But he claimed there were 200 more Communist violations of the cease-fire during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today. Many were shelling attacks.

Hien said 524 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and 37 South Vietnamese were killed during the latest reporting period. He said 185 government troops were wounded and 82 were missing.

Hien conceded that there had been an over-all decrease in fighting in the past two days. But he added that this is only one factor in having an "effective and serious cease-fire." He said teams of the peacekeeping commissions were needed in the field.



Record-Herald offers travel tours to readers

A public service program, designed to help our readers enjoy the experience of planned travel, is being inaugurated by The Record-Herald today.

As part of the plan, The Record-Herald has joined with a dozen Ohio daily newspapers in presenting the travel schedule under the name of Newspaper Tours Ltd. Trips sponsored by Newspaper Tours Ltd. are organized and operated by the Richard Lewis Travel Service, Columbus.

Newspaper Tours Ltd. will offer travel at a pace to meet most patrons' likes and at the same time offer maximum provisions at a minimum cost. Each trip will be a well-planned, comprehensive tour of varying duration of time. The tours will provide the utmost in travel comfort, with comprehensive sightseeing throughout and at a leisurely-pace, all with confirmed overnight accommodations in top-rated hotels.

The tours program will include such trips as a Theater Tour to London, England; a visit to neighboring Mexico; an exotic cruise to the Caribbean; a Fall Foliage visit to our New England neighbors; a flying excursion to top points of interest in Western Europe, tropcal climes of Hawaii and many other inviting spots.

Each reader of The Record-Herald will be able to reserve space for the specific tour or tours, he or she desires, through this newspaper by using the coupon printed with each trip announcement. The Record-Herald will handle the initial reservation transactions as a further public service to our readers.

Also joining in this public service venture are The Madison Press, London; The Gazette, Xenia; Times-Bulletin, Van Wert; The Sentinel, Pomeroy; The Times, Greenfield; Tribune, Gallipolis; Logan Daily News, Logan; News-Journal, Wilmington; The Times, Marietta; Journal-Tribune, Marysville and The Citizen, Urbana.

In addition to the regularly scheduled trip offerings, The Record-Herald also will publish a weekly travel column "Travel Time." We believe the column will provide interesting, as well as informative, reading. The column will be written by a veteran newspaperman who has considerable experience in travel as a group escort. The column will deal with general travel news and features as well as specific trips established by Newspaper Tours Ltd.

Deaths, Funerals

GLENN TRIMMER — Services for Glenn Trimmer, 64, of 526 Campbell St., were held at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Gerstner - Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Arthur George officiating. Mr. Trimmer, a retired 43-year employe of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company, died Sunday.

Pallbearers for burial in Washington Cemetery were Warren Campbell, Howard Baughn, Michael Harrison, Jerry Newton, Rodney Ward and Robert Frazier.

Former Fayette man killed in auto accident

Relatives here have received word of the death of Hugh Jennings Swayne, 35, of Livonia, Mich., a former Fayette County resident, who was killed Friday morning while en route from Livonia to his work in Flat Rock, Mich.

He was an employe of the DT&I Railroad. There were no immediate details of the accident.

Born March 15, 1937, in Highland County, Mr. Swayne attended Wilson Elementary School and Washington High School.

He is survived by his wife, Sheila; two stepchildren, Patty and Drew, at home; his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Swayne, 819 Sycamore St.; four brothers, Paul, of Columbus, Robert and Edward, of Springfield, and John, of Greenfield; two sisters, Mrs. Betty Leslein, Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. Lena Fenner, Columbus. He was preceded in death by his father, Frank Swayne, and a brother, Leroy.

Funeral arrangements are being made in Livonia.

Jeff Council hears sewer work reports

JEFFERSONVILLE — Jeffersonville Village Council Thursday night heard reports from M.M. Schirtzinger and Associates, Chillicothe, the village's consulting engineers, on progress being made on the new sewer system.

Mayor Donald Morrow said Contract No. 1, which extends from the railroad tracks east and is being handled by Contractors Services, Inc., Cincinnati, is 80 per cent complete.

Contract No. 2, which extends from Ohio 729 to Ohio 41-N and is being handled by Coates Brothers, Dayton, is also 80 per cent complete. The two other contracts, which include the business district and treatment plant site, are 30 per cent complete, Morrow said.

Council also received a report from the village service director, Linday Sharrett, concerning complaints from citizens against the contractors.

Councilmen instructed Sharrett to attempt to solve the problems as soon as possible.

Sharrett was also instructed to arrange a meeting with DT&I railroad officials. Sharrett and Morrow will travel to Detroit as soon as the meeting is arranged to discuss a solution for repairing a storm sewer break located under the DT&I tracks.

The 1973 appropriations resolution was also approved, but Morrow reported the finance committee, the mayor and the clerk will review the appropriations at 7 p.m. Tuesday for Council's final approval Feb. 15.

Morrow also informed Council that bids for the purchase of a one-tone truck and back hoe will be opened at the Feb. 15 meeting.

President begins series of State of Union plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, already beset by congressional critics of his belt-tightening new budget, appealed directly to Congress today to work with him to achieve administration goals which he said mark "a fresh approach to government."

In the first of a series of State of the Union reports, Nixon pledged "to do my part to achieve a constructive working relationship with Congress" controlled by the opposition Democrats. He said:

"My sincere hope is that the executive and legislative branches can work together in this great undertaking in a positive spirit of mutual respect and cooperation."

This first Nixon report was long on generalities but short on specifics. In essence, he stated, then underscored two basic positions:

"In the field of foreign policy, we must remember that a strong America—an America whose word is believed and whose strength is respected—is essential to continued peace and understanding in the world."

Nixon said the Vietnam peace agreement has strengthened "basic American credibility" and added, "We must act in such a way in coming years that this credibility will remain intact, and with it the world stability of which it is so indispensable a part."

"At home, we must reject the mistaken notion—a notion that has dominated too much of the public dialogue for too long— that ever-bigger government is the answer to every problem."

The chief executive asserted, "We have learned only too well that heavy taxation and excessive government spending are not a cure-all."

Democrats in Congress, particularly, have been critical of Nixon's intention to scrap a broad variety of existing federal programs, most of them in the social welfare area. Without referring to such criticism, Nixon said:

"The policies which I will outline to the Congress in weeks ahead represent a reaffirmation, not an abdication of federal responsibility. They represent a pragmatic rededication to social compassion and national excellence, in place of the combination and good intentions and fuzzy followthrough which too often in the past was thought sufficient."

One of the few specifics Nixon cited was a list of State of the Union reports yet to come. He said these would include "economic affairs, natural resources, human resources, community development and foreign and defense policy."

The President indicated he would have still another message calling anew for congressional approval of a plan to reorganize the Cabinet structure and create new departments of natural resources, human resources and community development.

Kissinger says Nixon trips spurred peace in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's Peking and Moscow trips made the Vietnam settlement possible, according to Henry Kissinger, which in turn frees the United States to work even more actively for a new global relationship.

Kissinger also used his "theory of international linkage" to define the role expected of China and the Soviet Union in making the Vietnam peace last.

"Whether the peace is fragile or not," Kissinger said Thursday, "depends in part on the Vietnamese; it depends in part on outside countries."

The presidential adviser added during his first major broadcast interview, with CBS diplomatic correspondent Marvin Kalb, that "I don't trust the good will" of the parties.

A lasting peace depends in large part "on the actions of the Soviet Union, the Peoples Republic of China and on the sort of relationship we'll be able to establish with North Vietnam."

What this means for Moscow and Peking, Kissinger said, is for them to see what massive military aid to Hanoi means "in terms of the incentives" such shipments lend to resuming the fighting.

This also holds true for the United States, the presidential adviser acknowledged, but he pledged strict adherence to the cease-fire agreement signed Jan. 28 which limits the American military aid to Saigon.

The Communist allies of Hanoi should play such a placid role, Kissinger said, because "we're bound together by one basic fact—that none of us can survive a nuclear war."

In explaining the over-all U.S. motives, the former Harvard political scientist said Nixon "felt that we had to end the war on honorable terms so that we would be free to be taken seriously in the conduct of other events."

According to Kissinger, "When this administration came into office four years ago, Vietnam was really our national obsession. It was almost the only foreign policy that was being actively debated....

"The President held the view from the beginning that we had to change the emphasis of that concern" and this, he said, led to the Moscow and Peking summits and the arms-limitation agreements with the Soviets.

Agnew talks with Thais

BANGKOK (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew today pledged continued U.S. military and economic aid to Thailand after the Vietnam war, a Thai spokesman reported.

Agnew met for two hours with Premier Thanom Kittikachorn and other Thai officials.

The vice president arrived in Bangkok Thursday after talks in Saigon with President Nguyen Van Thieu and in Phnom Penh with President Lon Nol on postwar reconstruction of Indochina.

He is scheduled to fly to Vientiane Saturday to meet with Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma, then go on to Singapore, Jakarta and Kuala Lumpur.

In reply to a question, the spokesman said Thanom and Agnew did not discuss U.S. troops and bases in Thailand. A Bangkok newspaper said today that an expansion program is under way at the big Utapao Air Base, 90 miles south of Bangkok on the Gulf of Thailand.

GM reports record $2.163 billion profit

DETROIT (AP) — Increased sales and employment cuts gave General Motors Corp. record high earnings in 1972, but top officials of the world's largest company noted a decline in profit margins from the last record year.

In a report still subject to audit, the auto giant reported 1972 profits at $2.163 billion, topping the record of $2.13 billion set in 1965.

Dope raid staged

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Eight persons, one of them a woman, were charged today with sale of marijuana after law enforcement officers raided a Kent home Thursday night and found 15 pounds of the substance.

Police also found what they called "a large amount of suspected cocaine."

'Good night'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., remained in "very serious" condition at Walter Reed Army Medical Center today but a spokesman reported he "had a good night."

Stennis, who was shot twice Tuesday night during a robbery in front of his house in Washington, "is now awake, alert and well-oriented," the spokesman, Maj. Frank Garland, said.

Garland said Stennis "continues to show improvement. The vital signs are good."

Court ruling forces Ohio to speed up pollution cleanup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A ruling by a federal appeals court in Washington means lots of work for the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, a spokesman for the state KPA said.

The ruling was on a suit brought against the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, challenging its decision to grant two-year delays to Ohio and 17 other states for full compliance with mid-1975 clean-air standards.

The suit was filed by the Natural Resources Defense Council, a citizens' environmental group.

Three Ohio cities were affected by the two-year extension. Dayton was allowed two more years to impose transportation controls to curb smog, while Cincinnati and Toledo were allowed two more years to control of stationary pollution sources.

The ruling requires the Ohio EPA to evaluate its program and seek ways to comply with the 1975 requirements, the state spokesman said.

Federal EPA Administrator William Ruckelshause established the nationwide air quality standards under authority of the 1970 Clean Air Act. States were made responsible for implementation of the standards by May 31, 1975.

Some state plans were approved last May 31, but Ruckelshaus allowed Ohio and the 17 other states extensions to submit parts of the plan affected by the court ruling.

Transportation control plans, including the plan for Dayton, had been due the 15th of this month, but the court order allows a two-month extension for states to now review the proposals.

The court said the extensions could be reinstated under the following conditions:

—The state has submitted a plan for meeting the 1975 deadline.

—The state can show that one or more pollution sources cannot comply with the plan.

—Alternatives have been tried by the state, but the deadline still cannot be met.

—The pollution sources able to comply are held to the 1975 deadline.

—The state imposes "interim measures of control...as are reasonable under the circumstances" on the sources which cannot fully comply.

Groundhog capers

tugging and prodding with a stick, all done very delicately lest the groundhog get angered.

Three years ago the then Punxsutawney Phil turned on Sam Light, head of the Innver Circle, as Light stooped to pull out the rodent barehanded.

"Old Sam got bit like you wouldn't believe," said Bill Carlton, managing editor of the Punxsutawney newspaper. "It took five stitches to stop the bleeding."

Light now wears heavy leather gloves when performing his part in the ritual.

That was not the only time that things have gone awry.

There was the year Punxsutawney Phil tried again to turn on his masters, frightened them, and was kicked during the confusion. He died on the spot.

"We got through the ceremoney somehow anyway," Carlton recalls.

To get around recurrent emergencies, the club now keeps a stuffed groundhog on hand as a tackup. He graces the Chamber of Commerce office downtown and is used as a standin by photographers during the "preview" of the Groundhog Day ritual atop Gobbler's Knob. Only the hardiest take in the real event at sunup.

The hilltop pilgrimage is but the kickoff to Groundhog Day festivities here that carry on into the night. There is a groundhog breakfast for starters—sausage and pancakes are served, not the honored animal—and then there is a nighttime banquet at the local country club. For young people there is a Groundhog Hop at the YMCA.

The town's newspaper traditionally runs a page-one account of the groundhog's make-believe shadow-sighting, and the local radio station says it has provided 3,000 reports describing the ritual to sister stations around the world.

Chances are, says Carlton, that the groundhog will always sight his shadow, "because any fool knows spring doesn't come in February."

But there was a year when, just for the fun of it, club members decided to try the opposite.

"That night the temperature went to 34 below," said Carlton, "and later it snowed like crazy. It was without a doubt the worst damned winter we'd ever had."

"They aren't likely to try that again," he said.

Between 1643 and 1814, a total of some 3,000 books were published in Norway.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP — The National Weather Service's summary of Ohio weather:

The area of steady rain that spread across Ohio Thursday is now east of the state but occasional showers were still present in all sections of Ohio Friday morning.

Radar reports indicate a few isolated thunder showers passing through. At 6 a.m. a thundershower was reported in progress in the Marietta-Parkersburg area.

Temperatures remained nearly steady or rose slightly during the night. Readings ranged from the mid 50s in the southwest to the mid 40s in the Youngstown aream

An intense storm center over northern Illinois will move northeastward across Lower Michigan today and by late tonight will be centered just to the north of Lake Huron.

Cloudy skies will continue and occasional showers will be present through the morning hours becoming less frequent from the southwest as the day progresses. High temperatures in the low to mid 50s are expected.

Showers will end in the south by late this afternoon and over the north tonight. Lows tonight will drop into the mid 30s as colder air begins to circulate around the low pressure center into Ohio.

Mostly cloudy skies will continue over the north Saturday but some sunshine can be expected in the south as skies become partly cloudy. High temperatures Saturday will be mostly in the lower 40s.

A chance of showers Tuesday. High temperatures in the 40s. Lows from the mid 20s to low 30s.

Stock list goes lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices were broadly lower in the stock market today for the second session in a row. Trading was active.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.81 to 983.97, and losing issues outnumbered gainers by more than 2 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Big Board's most-active issue was Eastern Air Lines, off ½ to 15⅞, with blocks of 37,300 and 25,500 shares bonds of $100,000 for each of the two

On the American Stock Exchange the price-change index was off .03 to 25.63.

Oil stocks, which had been firm in recent sessions, were mostly lower, including Texaco, down 1⅜ to 39⅞; and Gulf, off ⅜ at 26⅝.

On the Amex, heavy trading continued in National General new warrants. The issue led the active list, up ¾ to 6½.

At noon the New York Stock Exchange Index was down .16 to 61.88.

Million-gallon oil spillage hits Big Sandy, Ohio rivers

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — U.S. Coast Guard officials today began the massive job of cleaning up the banks of both the Big Sandy and the Ohio Rivers in the wake of the spill Thursday of up to a million gallons of petroleum waste into the rivers.

Late Thursday night Coast Guard officials predicted the spill from Ashland Oil's refinery near Catlettsburg, Ky. into the Big Sandy River may total a million gallons.

The waste flowed into the Ohio River after a waste treatment holding pond at the Ashland Oil Petrochemical compound somehow overloaded "tremendously" at 2 a.m. Thursday. The waste was still flowing at midnight this morning.

The waste was flowing through the pond channel into the Big Sandy River about three miles from its confluence with the Ohio, Coast Guard officials said.

A four-man Coast Guard national strike force flew into Tri-State Airport here Thursday evening to supervise

Cmdr. R.H. Hanson of the strike force reported Thursday night that 40,000 gallons of waste were recovered by 10 p.m. at the spill's origin. Another 4,000 gallons had been siphoned from the Big Sandy near the Catlettsburg, Kenova and Ceredo Water Co. plant where a 290 foot long barge was positioned across the river to block waste. And 16,000 gallons were collected at the Catlettsburg-Kenova bridge about two miles below the Ashland Oil plant.

A spokesman at the Greenup Locks and Dam on the Ohio River some 30 miles from the Ashland Oil plant said personnel there were collecting as much waste as possible into the smaller of two lock chambers.

River traffic was being locked through the 1,200-foot lock chamber, he said, and no serious difficulty with navigation was anticipated.

Municipal waterworks in Ashland, Ky. and Ironton, Ohio suspended operations at the water intake piers on the Ohio River. The privately-owned Catlettsburg, Kenova and Ceredo Water Co. was able to continue intake operations.

Users of Ohio River water as far away as Cincinnati 140 miles northwest of the Ashland Oil plant were alerted.

Coast Guard officials were still investigating the cause of the spill and said they would make an analysis of what was contained in the petroleum waste.

Product safety appointees face grilling

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's appointees to the new Consumer Product Safety Commission will face stern Senate grilling to determine whether they made any secret pledges to the White House.

Members of Congress reacted angrily Thursday to an Associated Press story carrying allegations by a government source.

The official, who asked not to be named, said Republican candidates for commissioner jobs were being asked to give verbal commitments that they would clear significant actions with the Office of Management and Budget.

The White House denied the allegations.

The law creating the five-member commission requires that all budget estimates and recommendations, and legislative recommendations, comments or testimony, be submitted "concurrently" to Congress and the president.

The commission, which has not been appointed, will consist of three Republicans, including the chairman, and two Democrats.

"We will ensure that all product-safety commissioners will testify under oath at confirmation hearings so that we can determine whether or not verbal assurances were requested by the administration or agreed to by the nominees," said Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah.

Moss, a principal sponsor of the law, is chairman of the Senate Commerce consumer subcommittee.

Reformatory strike still on

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Striking inmates at the Ohio Reformatory for Women presented their complaints to state Corrections Chief Bennett Cooper Thursday, but none of the grievances was resolved.

A Corrections Department spokesman said Cooper probably would meet again with leaders of the work stoppage, involving some 95 women in two of the institution's six cottages.

Reasons for the strike remained unclear, the spokesman said. The protest was not organized, he said, and the grievances listed were ambiguous.

Official 'doesn't remember' hiding Ellsberg evidence

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pleading a bad memory, a Defense Department official has refused to confirm or deny the sworn word of a former staff member that they had orders to remove from government files reports which could exonerate Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo, the defendants in the Pentagon papers case.

Charles Hinkle, director of the Defense Department's Office of Security Review, gave these answers to most questions Thursday while testifying at the Pentagon papers trial: "I have no recollection," "I don't recall" and "I can only say I don't recollect."

Retired Air Force Lt. Col. Edward A. Miller had just finished testifying that Hinkle personally told him in 1971 that a report by Miller which would harm the government case against Ellsberg and Russo had been ordered "removed from files" in the Office of Security Review. At the time, Miller was an analyst in the office. Miller testified that Hinkle wrote a memorandum on the incident and filed it.

But Hinkle said he couldn't remember the conversation or the memo.

He also testified that he could not remember whether Miller was assigned to do a special study of the Pentagon papers, or that he read any of the study, or whether, in his 19 years in the office, he was ever ordered to suppress any papers.

His testimony, with jurors absent from court, came during the fourth day of hearings by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Matt Byrne, who is investigating whether the government violated a court order issued last spring and withheld important documents which could help the defense. He has already revealed that 13 studies surrendered by the government during the past two weeks are defense evidence.

Ellsberg, 41, and Russo, 36, are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft in connection with the release to news media in 1971 of the top secret Pentagon history of the Vietnam war. The government has been seeking to show that the release could have harmed national defense and helped an enemy.

4 persons die in auto crash

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP)— Three members of a family were among four Alliance persons killed Thursday in a two-car crash on old Ohio 173 in Mahoning County east of Alliance. Three other persons were injured.

Killed were James V. Martin, 46, his wife, Ruth, 47, their son, Jeffrey, 4, and Mary Ells, 73, who resided with the Martins.

The injured were reported in guarded condition today at Aultman Hospital in Canton. They were two Martin children-Cynthia, 16, and Darryl, 9--and Anthony Schwartzhoff, 20, of Sebring.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said Schwartzhoff was alone in one car.

Driver charged after crash

A 23-year-old Washington C. H. man was injured and charged with drunken driving when his car was involved in a collision with a parked auto on High Street early Friday.

City police said Gurney L. Haines, 23, of 528 Warren Ave., was treated at Memorial Hospital for a laceration of the chin and chest pains following the 12:47 a.m. crash. He was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and driving left of center.

Investigating officers reported Haines' car was southbound on High Street, passed through the intersection at Albin Avenue, then went left of center and collided headon with a parked car owned by Margaret Halliday, 557 Albin Ave.

Haines' 1965 foreign model compact was demolished in the collision. The 1972 model Halliday car sustained damage estimated at $1,500 to the front.

Reminders from Nature

Man likes to think of himself as the supreme being on the face of the earth, master of his environment. He is fond of observing to himself, there being no one else about to receive these confidences, that so far as the home planet is concerned he is King of the Mountain.

Now and again Nature offers a reminder that man the master of all he surveys has some unfinished business. A snow slide delicately picks off a lone skiier, natural forces pluck a great airliner out of the sky and smash it to the ground, an earthquake shakes a city to rubble. All reminders, great and small, that humankind are still much at the mercy of the elements.

It is happening again on the Icelandic island of Heymaey. There a volcano silent for a thousand years suddenly came to life in a black hour before dawn, rumbling and spewing molten lava. Some 5,000 people in the fishing town of Vestmannaeyjar fled to harbor and airfield and were evacuated; cattle, sheep and horses were slaughtered; the island was abandoned to Vulcan.

This will not be the last time that Nature tells us: You are not yet master. Notice has been served often in the past, and will be served again. Man has a long ways to go before he can boast of holding a check rein on the vast natural forces at work on this spinning ball he inhabits.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

LBJ and his compassionate war

The campus sansculottes hated him, and their dirty chant — "LBJ, LBJ, How many kids did you kill today?" — must have burned deeply into his psyche. It was a viciously unfair attack, for Lyndon Johnson had bent over backward to do the impossible. He had tried to fight a humane war.

Oh, how he had tried. Those long hours in the White House poring over the bombing objectives chart to see that no dike should be breached and no hospital should be hit. The refusal to blitz the Haiphong docks lest a British, a Soviet or a Red Chinese vessel should be sunk.

The reiterated promise that, if they would only be good little boys, the North Vietnamese could become the beneficiaries of something approximating a Marshall Plan for their part of the world.

The dreams of bestowing a Mekong Valley Authority on a neutralized Indochina.

The studied refusal to send a single American soldier, or even a South Vietnamese parachutist with dynamite to plant under a bridge, over the North Vietnam border.

Never was a war fought with such consideration for one's opponents.

OF COURSE it was all ridiculous: wars aren't brought to a conclusion by considering the feelings of an enemy. After we had committed a large expeditionary force of ground troops to Vietnam, our humorists, led by Art Buchwald, had a lot of fun for themselves by "dreaming" that Barry Goldwater, not LBJ, had won the 1964 election. There was only one flaw in the Buchwald logic: Goldwater, unlike Johnson, would have bombed the North Vietnamese dikes and flooded the country. It wouldn't have been "humane," but it might have saved 40,000 American lives. North Vietnamese would have died, but the war would have been settled.

Johnson's fault — and it is an endearing fault — is that his compassion did not stay within bounds. With his non-military mind, LBJ was fatally seduced by Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara's theory that you could use "graduated pressure" to make Hanoi's Gen. Giap and his Marxist mates sue for peace. What Johnson couldn't see was that Communists, when engaged in war or even in ordinary politics, are not permitted to know the meaning of the word compassion.

An old-fashioned Populist humanitarian, LBJ could not comprehend Lenin's cultivated hardness. Lenin would not listen to Beethoven lest the music induce pity for a humanity that included the bourgeoisie. The founder of modern Communism even worried about the mollifying effect on his psyche when he stroked a cat.

North Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh had grown up in the implacable school of Leninism, which meant that "graduated pressure" would have no effect on him as long as there were women in North Vietnam ready to give birth to new expendables for the class war.

Richard Nixon had to live with the results of LBJ's misplaced compassion. With the U.S. divided and the campuses in a state of chronic rebellion, it was too late to use an Inchon landing type of flank attack to isolate the enemy from his sources of supply. The limited surprise of Cambodia, the mining of Haiphong, and the small-scale application of mass bombing were all that Nixon could dare.

This sort of thing was more effective than anything Lyndon Johnson had done, but it remains to be seen whether the South Vietnamese, with time gained for "Vietnamization," will be able to use the limited respite to build a nation capable of "hacking it" after the U.S. is really out of the war.

EVEN UNDER Nixon, the U.S. continued to wage compassionate battle. The B-52s may have hit a dike or two by mistake, but Nixon studiously refrained from carrying the war to the North Vietnamese food-producing peasantry. There was never any saturation bombing equivalent to what we and our allies had done to Hamburg or Dresden or Tokyo in World War II.

If there had been, Hanoi and Haiphong would have been obliterated, and Joan Baez and Jane Fonda and the Rev. William Sloane Coffin would have had no place to visit or to receive released POWs.

Once the Americans have departed and the South Vietnamese have accepted responsibility for their own survival, we could be surprised by what may happen if the peace in Indochina breaks down. With our restraining hand gone, what would there be to keep a South Vietnamese mission from breaching the North Vietnamese dikes? Parachutists dropped from propeller planes could do it.

Maybe this threat is the one thing that will cause the North Vietnamese Gen. Giap to stay his evil hand.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Nixon economies to hurt cities

NEW YORK — To see what the drastic cuts in the Nixon domestic budget mean you have only to touch base in this troubled city. In a dozen different areas, from public housing and model cities to day-care centers, the cutbacks put a new burden on an already gravely overburdened community.

To say that New York is a city under siege is a slight exaggeration. Nevertheless, in certain sectors, the South Bronx for example, it is literally true. Fear and death stalk the streets, with the police seeking to hold back a tide of violence.

New York is conspicuous if only because so many news-gathering agencies are located here. But in one degree or another the same deterioration is true in almost every large city in the country. A dozen big-city mayors are meeting with New York's John V. Lindsay in early February to coordinate their efforts to persuade Congress to reverse the Nixon economies.

"We've managed to put $5 million into the South Bronx," Mayor Lindsay says. "Now that may seem like a very small sum, and it is. But at least it has done something to show that ruinously bad housing can be rehabilitated."

TO CHECK the swift deterioration, Lindsay says, the city should spend not less than $50 billion at the rate of $5 billion a year. Nothing like this sum is even remotely visible. Revenue sharing cannot come close to compensating for the sweeping cuts in the Nixon budget.

Lindsay sees this in terms of human suffering and degradation. Without the matching funds from the federal government, day-care centers will have to be restricted or closed down. This means that the small children of working mothers will be turned into the street or locked up in slum apartments. It will be a contribution to delinquency and deteriorating health.

Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy has just authorized a thousand extra tours of duty for policemen in Brownsville in Brooklyn. That will cost $90,000 in overtime pay, a miniscule sum in terms of the city's needs, yet it is a chip off the working budget.

The order followed the shooting of two policement in a running and apparently unprovoked attack in Brownsville. For New York's 30,000 police the attack has further confirmation of a black militant conspiracy bent on killing cops wherever they can be struck down. Murphy and the men at the top around him do not share this conviction, nor is there objective evidence for such a conspiracy in spite of the wild statements of some militants following the shoot-out in a Brooklyn sporting goods store. In some reports the attackers were said to be after guns to arm black militants.

NEVERTHELESS, the conviction held by virtually all the 30,000 armed policemen, according to those familiar at firsthand with the police force, is that such attacks are part of the state of siege in this beleaguered city. The force is made up largely of the ethnics — Irish Catholics, Italian-Americans — the object of a special appeal in the Nixon campaign. The police wounded in the patrol car in Brownsville were two brothers, Vincent and Carlo Imperato.

Since they are at the bottom of the economic heap, it is the blacks who will feel most directly the cuts in welfare, health, education. The deeply rooted feeling that the Nixon Administration has no regard for blacks will be accentuated. This plays into the hands of the militants, who constantly propagandize the theme that there is no recourse but violence.

It may be possible to muddle through. It may be that Congress, with the pressure of the cities turned on hard, can restore the funds denied in the Nixon budget. This last, however, is doubtful, with the concentrated power of the presidency so great.

With the further complication of a feud between Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Mayor Lindsay, who turned Democrat to run in the presidential primaries, a solution for the city seems remote. Lindsay in recent months has made progress in areas of urgent need, notably in bringing down the rate of crime in the center city and in the treatment of drug addiction. But, as the tensions increase, the rule at times must seem to be one step forward and two steps back.

"FOOD PRICES ARE ABOUT THE SAME AS LAST WEEK. WATCH OUT FOR TRICKS."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

He's pitched three strikes, so OUT!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 29-year-old woman who has been married and divorced three times in the last 10 years. You will probably say what everybody else says when you find out I married and divorced the same man all three times.

Our last divorce became final three weeks ago, and now Mike is begging me to marry him again. We have no children annd we don't want any. I really love the guy, Abby, but the only time he is good to me is when we're divorced. Mike is a wonderful lover, but he's a rotten husband. When we're man and wife he drinks, runs around, and stays out late. I never know where he is or who he's with, which drives me up a wall.

If you knew how much we've spent on lawyers you would think we were out of our minds. I know there will never be any other man for me, but I know if I marry Mike again he'll go back to his old mean, abusive ways. Can you help me?

THREE-TIME LOSER

DEAR LOSER: Three strikes and a man is OUT, no matter how good he pitches. Some men are great to date but not to mate, and Mike could be one of them.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 21, and she shares an apartment with another girl. Until she went to college she was very considerate, and since she was an only child we were a very close family.

Although she was invited, she did not spend Christmas, Thanksgiving, Mother's Day, or Father's Day with us. She sent cards, but she spent those special days with her boy friend and his parents.

Naturally, I was upset, and when I confronted her she said there are 365 days a year to love us, and why should she give up these particular days? She says times have changed and I am square. Am I?

VERY HURT

DEAR HURT: No, but don't make an issue of it. I can understand your being "hurt," but if you continue to make her feel guilty, you may see even less of her.

DEAR ABBY: My brother, Bob, was adopted by my family when he was a small baby. Bob is now over legal age, and was just informed that his real mother is an Indian living in Alaska and he is getting money from her oil rights.

Bob says it is all like a dream, because he never knew he was adopted. He is trying to make up his mind whether to go to Alaska to collect the money. He doesn't know what to say to his mother, who is still living, because he has always considered the mother who raised him his one and only mother.

Would you ask your readers how adopted children and real mothers feel after meeting each other after being separated for over 20 years? Is it a good experience or a bad one?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: I would guess it's almost always a tearful joyous reunion, but I'll ask. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: Here in Iowa the winters are pretty cold, so my sisters and I have made a habit of putting out food for the squirrels, birds and rabbits. Today, we had an expecially heavy snowfall so we put out a little extra food for the animals and birds.

Today, we saw a little squirrel who had been in our neighborhood for as long as we can remember go into a neighbor's yard and start to eat out of a bird feeder. Abby, this neighbor came out of the house with a shotgun and with one shot KILLED that little hungry squirrel while he was eating! It just made us sick.

Please print this and tell people if they don't want animals in their yard to just chase them away. You can't teach a dead animal anything. And for those of you who do help these little creatures in the winter when food is hard to come by, God bless you.

Love and peace to you, Abby. Please don't use our names, sign us,

18, 16 AND 15 IN WATERLOO

DEAR 18, 16, AND 15: And love and peace to you, too! I'm sorry you won't allow me to disclose your names. You are three beautiful sisters.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Feb. 2, the 33rd day of 1973. Today is Groundhog Day. There are 332 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1848, Mexico agreed to cede a vast territory to the United States upon payment of $15 million. The area embraced what are now the states of Arizona, California, New Mexico and Texas.

On this date:

In 1635, the Dutch incorporated New Amsterdam, now New York.

In 1870, doctors disclosed that the Cardiff giant discovered on a farm near Cardiff, N.Y., was not a petrified man after all. It was all a hoax.

In 1882, the Roman Catholic fraternal group, the Knights of Columbus, was founded in New Haven, Conn.

In 1953, the U.S. announced that it no longer would block Chinese Nationalist raids against the China mainland.

In 1961, 600 passengers aboard the hijacked Portuguese liner, Santa Maria, landed at Recife, Brazil.

Ten years ago: Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan returned to London after talks with Italian officials in Rome about France's veto of British membership in the European Common Market.

Jumping to conclusions

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: As long as money or power are thought to be the answer to human needs, love cannot be.

If you live long enough, you will see how life moves in circles rather than in a straight line. Everything that has been will be again. Few things or habits die out altogether — from beards on men to short skirts on women. They do not go away forever; their popularity simply waxes and wanes — and waxes again in a further time. Women sure are changing. How long has it been since you saw one with a clothespin in her mouth? Their mouths used to be full of clothespins one day a week. Now their mouths are full of opinions seven days a week.

Crime has to be paid one tribute: it is helping to keep the American family together. People are staying at home more of nights for fear of being mugged in the streets if they leave it.

A woman never feels more womanly than when she is washing and drying her hair; a man never feels more unmanly than when he has to wash his own sox.

A cynic is a guy who saves his box tops for fear that if he mails them away to get something free he'll wind up being stung.

An old-timer is a gaffer who gets to the office late and tells the boss it was because his wife had lost his regular shoe buttoner — and he had a hard time finding the spare one.

Wives with long hair get fewer divorces than wives with short hair. So if you want a marriage that will endure as long as you do, wed a girl whose hair hangs to her knees. She will keep so busy combing and arranging it, she won't have time to get into any other trouble. A third of the men in America would feel better at nightfall if they wore suspenders during the day instead of belts.

Any road without a bend in it will in time seem like a prison or rut. Be thankful then to Providence, for it has seen to it that women and other dangerous curves lie in every man's path, lest it become a highway to boredom.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Illustrated BIBLE LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

A New Heart and Spirit

Scripture -- Ezekiel 36:16-32.

GOD used the invading Babylonians and resulting captivity to punish Israel for her sins and reawaken her responsibility to Him. Ezekiel 36:16-21.

GOD would rescue His people from captivity, take them to their own land, and there restore the holiness of His name. — Ezekiel 36:22-23.

BEFORE returning the faithful to their land, God would cleanse and transform them with a new heart and the Holy Spirit. — Ezekiel 36:24-27.

ISRAEL'S homeland and good relationship with God would be restored and He would care for them. — Ezekiel 36:28-32.

Common Bible finally complete

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A common Bible, the long-cherished dream of the Christian unity movement, is now complete.

To be published in the United States this spring, it has approval of Protestant, Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox leaders in this country, in Europe and Asia.

It is the result of "vast collaboration," Pope Paul VI said a few days ago when presented with a copy in Rome.

Ever since the 16th century breakup of the church, contrasting versions of the Bible have been a major cause of edginess among the separate branches of the faith, particularly among ordinary members.

"They use a different Bible," went the usual expression of the presumably impenetrable wall of division, with little awareness how slightly the Bibles really differed.

But increasingly in recent times, that wall has been breached with joint Bible research, joint commentaries and joint regional editions of Scripture, a sequence culminating now with the broad-scale issuance of the new mutually approved volume.

Its cover reads, "Revised Standard Version Common Bible."

An international ecumenical group, the RSV Bible Committee, now headed by the Rev. Dr. Herbert G. May, of Ohio's Oberlin College, has worked out the presentation and format of the new Bible.

It consists of the RSV Old Testament, a translation produced by an inter-Protestant committee in 1952, a 1971 revised edition of the RSV New Testament, and seven intermediary books, known as "Deuterocanonical" by Catholics and as the "Apocrypha" by Protestants.

Seven publishing companies have been licensed to print the volume, which came out Jan. 21 in Great Britain, and is to be issued in this country April 2.

Though the basic translating was done 20 years ago by the National Council's inter-Protestant group, it now also represents Catholic and Orthodox scholars, and the texts now have across-the-board endorsement, including seven mid-section books previously omitted in some cases.

These books, a cause of controversy as far back as the 4th century, have been a main difference about the Bible since the 16th century Protestant Reformation led by Martin Luther, although they constitute only a tiny fraction of the Bible.

While the Protestant reformers excluded the books from the "canon" of inspired Scripture, they nevertheless were included in Protestant Bibles of that era in between the 39 Old Testament books and the 27 New Testament books.

They also originally were included in the King James version of the Bible of 1611, long the principal Protestant version until production of the RSV. However, commercial publishers subsequently dropped the books from modern editions to save paper.

The books, meanwhile, remained in Catholic Bibles as parts of the Old Testament, although they had not been included in the Jewish canon of the Scripture. Catholics called the books "Dueterocanonical," meaning a secondary canon, while Protestants called them "Apocrypha," meaning "hidden" books of uncertain derivation.

In the agreed on common Bible, the books are included, as Catholics always have insisted, but they are placed in a central, separate section, as Protestants originally placed them.

The new Bible also is annotated, meaning it includes notes of historical, geographical and other explanation, a long-held Catholic practice and one frequently used by Protestants.

Something to think about

By: NED KINZER

Loyalty is something all of us cherish. You will find the person who has faith in the integrity of his fellow man, even in the face of circumstantial evidence, will be guilty of fewer errors that the one who does not have faith.

Because there are over 75 different items of service in connection with each funeral, many of which are never seen, but still are essential, you will naturally want the best reliable concern to handle the arrangements.

Nifty knits with a fresh, young look

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

WHAT'S NEW at Gino Paoli? Arthur Goldstein! Recently named President, he has already made a number of fashionwise changes. His first act was to close down the firm's Hong Kong operation.

"Because," he said, "there are not new ideas coming out of Hong Kong. Italy is where it's at for knits."

So everything the firm turns out is designed and manufactured in Gino Paoli's Milan headquarters, an operation so vast that the company actually has its own resident Italian Customs' inspector.

Goldstein is also encouraging something evolutionary for knitwear — zingy, young styling. Knits heretofore have been all too safe and too sane. Not the new Gino Paolis. They have flair — as witness the pantsuits pictured here.

"It's a young look," said Goldstein, "but it's been interpreted so that it is flattering to women of all ages."

SWEATER SET: In celadon green and black this three-piece suit in lightweight polyester acetate can be worn for day or dressed up for wear after-five.

THREE CHEERS for white blazer piped with navy paired with navy/red shirt and cuffed navy pants.

GINGHAM checks are king-sized for blazer, smaller for vest. By Gino Paoli in smashing red/white.

Day Camp patch contest announced for Girl Scouts

Fayette County Girl Scout Troop leaders and committee mothers held a meeting of Unit 9 in the Landmark Building, with Miss Mary Knapp, field representative of the Seal of Ohio GS Council, announcing news from council, which included the Area 2 Association meeting to be held March 6 at 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the L&K Restaurant in Chillicothe. It is for all area delegates and any interested leaders or committee mothers.

She announced a contest for all Cadettes and Senior Scouts who wish to enter, to design a Day Camp patch, to be given to each girl who attends Day Camp. All designs are to be in by March 1, ddressed to 1973 Day Camp Patch Contest, 170 N. High St., Columbus, Ohio 43215.

Mrs. Charles Cunningham, Fayette County cookie chairman, showed the Junior, Cadette and Senior Scout leaders the kits they will receive for the cookie sale, beginning Saturday.

It was announced that Mrs. Ronald Dean will be in charge of plans for a Juliette Lowe celebration for the county, to be held March 15 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in Mahan Building at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

A plea for help at Camp Gipiwa to clean the camp site was made. Anyone who desires to help paint, mow grass, fell and cut up dead trees is welcome. They may call Dwight Foy, 335-4729.

Present for the meeting were Miss Knapp, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. William Cales, Mrs. Ronald Dean, Mrs. Dwight Foy, Mrs. Tom Funk, Mrs. Morrison Gilbert, Mrs. Howard Hixon, Mrs. Carl Johnson, Mrs. Warren Lemke, Mrs. Donald Moore, Mrs. Byers Shaw and Mrs. Charles Webb.

Miss Hiser complimented with shower

Miss Debbie Hiser, bride-elect of David Barrett Smith was honored at a pretty bridal shower held in the home of Mrs. Jon Creamer, who was assisted by Mrs. James Lewis.

The gift table was centered with a bride holding an umbrella, with dark green and gold streamers around the table.

Games were won by Mrs. Charles Hiser, Miss Marcia Gilvens, and Miss Linda Gifford, who in turn presented them to the guest of honor.

Coffee, punch, cake, mints and nuts were served by the hostesses to Mrs. Hiser, mother of the honor guest, Mrs. Ralph B. Smith, mother of the prospective groom, Mrs. James Lucas, Mrs. Roger Garringer, Mrs. Jay Hyer, Miss Peggy Breakfield, Miss Judy Reiber, Mrs. Tim Wolfe, Mrs. Mike Quast, Mrs. Larry Garinger, Miss Penny Hardman, Mrs. Donald King, Mrs. Marvin Jones, Mrs. Robert Gilvens and daughter, Marcia, Mrs. W. A. Smith, Miss Sharon Dawes, Mrs. Russell Lewis and daughter, Linda, Mrs. Roger McCoy, the Misses Emily Rowe, Linda Gifford, Mary Ann Mossbarger, Mrs. Jeff Rude, Mrs. Jim Phillips, Mrs. Beverly S. Thompson, Mrs. Robert Tice and Krista Creamer.

Miss Hiser and Mr. Smith will be married Feb. 24 in the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church.

MISS DEBBIE CRABTREE

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crabtree, Rt. 2, Greenfield, announce the engagement of their daughter, Debbie, to Randy Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Robinson, 237 W. Elm St.

Miss Crabtree is a member of the 1973 graduating class of McClain High School, and her fiance is a 1971 Washington Senior High School graduate.

The wedding will be on June 9.

Circle 1 meets in church parlor

Eleven members of Circle 1, First Presbyterian Church, met in the church parlor for a coffee hour, preceding the meeting and Bible Study. Mrs. Wayne Finley was hostess.

Devotions were presented by Mrs. Albert Bryant entitled "Our Part in Our Salvation."

During the meeting conducted by Mrs. Harvey Heironimus, reports were heard. She read from the Yearbook of Prayer. Thank-you's for holiday gifts were acknowledged and many members reported ill and hospitalized. Names of shut-ins were reported also, and will be remembered with a Valentine and other cards during the year.

A kitchen towel shower for the church kitchen was announced, an Association meeting for March 8, of which Circle 1 will be hostess, and the Spring Presbyterial for April 11, in Columbus.

The Mission Interpretation report of work with the Indians was made by Mrs. James Wilson, and the 'least coin' offering was made.

Bible Study "Key to Luke", which concerned the temptations and healing of Jesus, was led by Mrs. Rollo Marchant.

Following the Mizpah benediction, members cleaned part of the kitchen.

Miss Becht guest speaker for club

Members of the Town and Country Garden Club met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Alvin Armintrout, president, who opened the meeting by reading a seasonal poem. The secretary - treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Richard Rankin.

Program books were distributed and programs for the coming year were discussed.

The Garden Club President's Council meeting will be held Feb. 5, and Mrs. Armintrout appointed Mrs. Dwight Duff, Mrs. Lee Cleland and Mrs. Eli Craig to attend the meeting with her. Plans for the County Fair Flower Show are to be discussed at that time.

The speaker for the evening, Miss Claudia Becht, Miami Trace AFS student from Aachen, Germany, was introduced by her American mother, Mrs. Duff. She showed slides of her country, described life there and pointed out differences in the German and American ways of life. Following the slide presentation, she answered many questions from the members. Mrs. Lee Cleland presented her a gift on behalf of the group.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Duff to: Mrs. Rex Bloomer, Mrs. Robert Browning, Mrs. Cleland, Mrs. Charles Duff, Mrs. John Frost, Mrs. Robert Hawk, Mrs. Charles Herman, Mrs. Rankin, Mrs. Roger Rapp, Mrs. Wilbur Rapp, Mrs. Gerald Stephenson, Mrs. John Stimpert, Mrs. Lewis Thomson, Mrs. Paul Thompson and Miss Becht.

The next meeting will be Feb. 28 at the home of Mrs. Stephenson, and will feature a program presented by Mrs. John Peterson.

TV Viewing

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — The current Broadway hit, "Much Ado About Nothing," becomes captivating fun for everyone who tunes in on the CBS television network tonight at 8 p.m. EST.

Adapted with rare, imaginative artistry, the show amply justifies the extraordinary three hours of prime time allotted it. A screening for reviewers was held in advance.

The program launches a much-publicized pact of CBS with the Gotham's liveliest center of stage creativity, formally called the New York Shakespeare Festival, and familiarly known as Joseph Papp's Outfit.

During the next four years an assortment of drama specials is planned, calculated both to augment video's frail culture quotient and bridge the Papp-annoying gap between living theater and mass audience.

For home viewers of all ages, "Much Ado" shapes up as total, memorable pleasure. Even if they don't usually dote on the Bard of Avon.

The yarn about tangled romances which was set by Shakespeare in 16th century Italy takes place now in early 20th century America when soldiers wore Teddy Roosevelt campaign hats and frilly frocked lasses could only pluff a cigarette on the sly.

The time-locale transition is neatly rounded with some chipper, rickytick music by Peter Link and a performance style of gentle camp. Despite such changes, the script retains all basic, poetic validity.

The main difference between the stage and tube versions is a stunning array of evocative period-setting by Tom John in place of Ming Cho Lee's jolly high-rise abstractions that conformed to stage necessity.

To detail much of the TV production's heady diversion might detract from the pleasure of self-discovery. Do, however, watch for that fleeting, droll toast to the author of it all who proclaimed "Let wonders seem familiar."

Advice most winningly heeded in this "Much Ado."

Secretaries from the 56 clubs in Ohio are participating in sessions keyed to improving club management and members services.

Walter A. Churchill, of Toledo, is president of the 1,130,000-plus-member state organization.

Robert A. Craig, president of the local club, and Mrs. Craig are attending a banquet this evening, concluding the conference.

Weekend revival services slated

Weekend revival services will be held Friday through Sunday at the Christian Community Holiness Church, 804 E. Paint St.

The Rev. Millard L. Downing, field representative for God's Bible School, will be preaching, Mrs. Downing will play the vibraharp and sing, and the God's Bible School Ladies' Trio will add to the service with songs.

Each evening service will begin at 7:30 p.m. and there will be a special Sunday afternoon service at 2:30 p.m. The Rev. Kenneth Bogard is pastor.

Drivers forfeit bonds in court

Two drivers forfeited bond when they failed to appear in traffic cases called in Municipal Court Thursday afternoon by Judge Reed M. Winegardner.

James W. Baughn III, 19, Rt. 3, forfeited $25 bond for driving at speeds excessive for road conditions. He was cited by sheriff" deputies following a minor collision on Bloomingburg - New Holland Road Jan. 28.

Frances I. Blair, 58, Rt. 3, also forfeited a $25 bond on a failure - to - yield charge filed by city police Wednesday. Mrs. Blair was cited after her car was involved in a two-car mishap at the intersection of High Street and Fairway Drive.

In the only other case heard by Judge Winegardner, Charles W. Rowland, of Jeffersonville was fined $25 and costs on a charge of failing to keep his dog confined.

The complaint was filed by Sgt. John Emrick Jan. 10. Rowland pleaded guilty.

Judge Winegardner suspended $15 of the fine pending good behavior for one year.

Command Center ready for return of POWs

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — Twenty phones line up on the L-shaped desk. A wall clock is set to Hanoi time. Eight colonels sit side by side.

This is the nerve center of Operation Homecoming, the elaborate project planned for three years down to the smallest detail to bring home the American POWs in Indochina.

It is off limits because of tight security surrounding the homecoming operation. But newsmen were taken on a tour today of the building on Clark Air Base that houses the task force, officially known as the Joint Command Processing Center.

'This is the focal point of all the activity," said Air Force Col. H.A. Davis of Syracuse, N.Y., commander of the task force.

Davis had in front of him a dull-red direct telephone to Cincpac, the commander in chief Pacific.

"When we get the order to go from Cincpac, then we'll dispatch the hospital planes to Hanoi to make the pickup," he said.

Other phones will connect with the aircraft. When they begin their three-hour, 900-mile journey back to Clark from Hanoi, the base will be put on final alert. Davis said he does not know when that will be.

"We are just waiting here on a 24-hour alert," he said.

With Davis in the nerve center are colonels or the equivalent rank from all branches of the services. Watching the interests of U.S. Army POWs will be Col. James A. Murphy, San Antonio, Tex. Col. Harvey T. Jacolick of Schenectady, N.Y., represents the Air Force. Col. John W. Clayborne of McGraws, W.Va., represents the Marines, and Capt. Harold Grifith of Port Jefferson N.Y., the Navy.

Several other colonels are on the task force staff. In all, 2,000 men have gathered here to help in the release.

Large wall charts detail procedures the POWs will go through after their arrival at Clark. The name of each returnee will be written on the chart. Each stage of his processing will be checked off — medical exmination, uniform measurements, debriefing, pay.

When all items have been checked, the POW will be ready for the next stage of his journey to freedom — a ride in a C141 Starlifter from Clark to Travis Air Force Base in California.

"Some may clear in two or three days; others will be here longer to take care of their medical needs," Davis said.

One item on the charts reads "NOK call," military jargon for the next-of-kin telephone call the POWs will be permitted to make to their immediate families in the United States.

Asked about the subject of POW briefings, Davis said: "We are interested only in information the men will have on the condition of other POWs, and facts they might have learned on the dead and missing. We are reaching for a total accounting of all POWs."

Debriefing on other topics will take place in the United States, he added.

A total of 380 specially trained military escort officers have arrived at Clark. They will be assigned individually to each POW. These escorts will play the most important role in the initial phase of Operation Homecoming, debriefing the POWs, giving guidance and advice and accompanying them back to the United States.

Judge rips jury verdict as 'stupid'

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — A federal judge here became so infuriated after jurors acquitted a man charged with possession of marijuana that he told the ten men and two women on the jury they would never again serve in his court.

The case was tried in the court of U.S. District Court Judge Ben C. Connally. It involved Miguel Jimenez Orosco, a McAllen taxi driver charged with possession of 134 pounds of marijuana.

The case reached the jury Tuesday at 3:34 p.m. The jurors deliberated until 6:15 p.m. without reaching a verdict. When they resumed Wednesday at 9 a.m., it took them 30 minutes to decide Orosco was innocent.

Judge Connally told them that in 20 years on the bench he had never seen "a more stupid, illogical and ill-advised verdict."

He said there was no evidence on which the accused could have been found innocent. Orosco admitted in his own testimony "every element of the offense," the judge said.

Connally told the jurors a verdict such as the one they reached "is responsible, in my judgment, for the increasing crime rate everywhere."

Dentists discount report of high toothpaste lead

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Dental Association has challenged a report published in its own journal.

A group of Philadelphia researchers report in the February issue of the Journal of the American Dental Association that some children may be getting dangerous amounts of lead from toothpaste tubes.

"Squeezing an almost-empty tube dry can liberate toothpaste in which there is an accumulation of lead," they wrote of their study a year ago of six advertised brands.

They refused to identify the brands tested other than to say they were six leading brands. They said the names of the brands had been sent to the dental association for investigation.

"Unfortunately, the article ... does not identify the products tested nor whether they represent current production or whether they represent brands which have a major share of the market," the dental association said Wednesday in a statement issued in response to a newsman's inquiry.

"It is therefore, impossible to evaluate the extent of the problem, if one exists."

"As far as the association has been able to determine, all the major brands of toothpaste, which represent approximately 90 per cent of the products sold today, are presently packaged in either plastic, aluminum or aluminum-plastic laminated tubes."

An association spokesman said decisions about what is published in the journal are made independently by the editor.

"If he found lead in our toothpaste, he must have gotten an old tube because we've been in aluminum containers for the last 15 years," a spokesman for Pepsodent commented.

"We went to plastic tubes last summer," said a spokesman for Crest.

CHANDELIER CEILINGS

Chandelier ceilings are made in 12" x 12" tiles with square edges that butt snugly together. The ceiling flows from wall to wall in a smooth expanse without the "block" look of standard tile ceilings. A unique, new base material called Trilon makes these elegant ceilings possible. Trilon is a blending of man-made and natural ingredients into a material that can be cut square on all sides, eliminating the bevels that are typical of more traditional ceiling tiles. Because Trilon can be embossed with greater depth and precision, Chandelier ceilings have deeper, richer textures and a more elegant look. Trilon resists shrinkage and expansion, so ceilings stay tight and good looking.

The Trilon composition gives Chandelier ceilings a noncombustible rating. If a fire should start, Chandelier will not "feed" the flames. Like all Armstrong ceilings, Chandelier can be cleaned and will stay bright and fresh looking for years. The specially fabricated tongue-and-groove joints fit precisely together, assuring positive alignment and a smooth, level surface. They're available in acoustical and nonacoustical types.

Most of Johnson estate goes to Lynda Bird, Luci

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson's will, signed six months before he died, leaves the bulk of his estate to his two daughters and names his widow as executor.

There was nothing in the will to indicate the size of Johnson's estate.

Mrs. Johnson was left all of the former president's personal property and his interest in their household items. Seventeen relatives, friends and employes received individual bequests totaling $81,000.

Johnson's will, dated July 25, 1972, was filed for probate Thursday. He died Jan. 22.

Johnson willed to the LBJ Library at the University of Texas "all of my presidential and other papers, documents, historical materials, mementos, objects of art and other memorabilia, including but not limited to books, motion pictures, still pictures and sound records."

He left $25,000 to LBJ Ranch foreman Dale Malechek and his wife.

Next in size among the individual bequests was $10,000 to a sister, Lucia Alexander of Fort Worth.

Johnson gave about 200 acres of the LBJ ranch to the National Park Service recently for an addition to the LBJ national historic site.

Tom Johnson, no kin but a family spokesman, also issued a statement saying that 3,444 acres of the ranch holdings were sold by Johnson after he left the White House to Frates Properties, Inc., of Tulsa, Okla. The spokesman added that Mrs. Johnson would continue living at the ranch.

In the will, the former president also issued instructions that "all of the rest and residue of my estate" be divided into two equal trusts for his daughters, Lynda Robb and Luci Nugent.

Mrs. Johnson was named to serve as trustee, parceling out income from the trusts to the daughters and their children according to her "absolute and sole discretion."

Each daughter's trust terminates when she reaches age 30, and she will acquire full possession, according to the terms of the will.

4 arrested in airborne marijuana raid

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — State narcotics agents Thursday arrested four men and confiscated 400 to 500 pounds of marijuana after conducting a surveillance of a small aircraft.

Abents said two men were arrested when the plane was unloaded in an isolated area near Safford, Ariz. They were identified as Gregory Albert Sandoval, 24, of Los Angeles and Wayne Thomas Barn, 25, of Dayton, Ohio.

The aircraft was then followed to Casa Grande, Ariz., where it landed. Ralph Eerwin Dribble, 26, of Whittier, Calif. and Louis Austin O'Jibway, 26, of Mammoth Lake, Calif. were arrested at that time, officers said.

The Flagstaff, Ariz., division of the agency had received information that a Cessna aircraft located in Flagstaff allegedly was involved i8 narcotics traffic.

Heavy rains pound east; West dry

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter rains, drizzle and snow were scattered across the eastern half of the nation today while the West remained generally clear and cool.

Rain and drizzle dampened areas from the mid Mississippi Valley to the Ohio Valley. Thundershowers hit the extreme Southeast, and rain, heavy in places, soaked the south Atlantic states to Virginia. Hickory, N.C., absorbed almost 2½ inches of rain.

Flash-flood warnings were posted in the western Carolinas.

Freezing rain and snow touched areas from northwest Missouri into the northern Mississippi Valley and the northern Great Lakes region as well as the Northeast. Gale warnings were displayed over all the Great Lakes.

A heavy-snow warning remained in effect for northern Wisconsin.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 2 at Evanston, Wyo., to 76 at Palm Beach, Fla.

Ohio farmers fear Nixon abandoning price supports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Significant changes made by the Nixon administration recently in loan and subsidy programs for farmers have caused some Ohio farm officials to express concern.

The changes apparently are aimed at getting rid of artificial restraints on farm production, but some officials in the state fear it's a move to wean farmers from federal price supports.

According to officials of the U.S. Agriculture Department in Columbus, the changes are in response to the hikes in food prices. They said these boosts have raised national farm income since 1968 by 39 per cent.

Ohio State Grange official James Ross says he believes the moves are not just an administration response to inflation. He says he believes the administration will not wish to bring back the price supports being undercut now, regardless of whether there is a deterioration of the market.

Ross says "We're not completely aligned with the belief that supply and demand can protect farm income." He feels a realistic approach to quotas of some kind is necessary.

Dave Urmston, deputy state agriculture director, says he believes there is some truth to suggestions that the administration is trying to get completely out of the price support business. But he says, "I have no way to substantiate that..."

The executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau, C. William Swank, said he did not have any reason to believe the Nixon administration was getting ready to abandon the farmer.

He said he thought "they want to show the public that they're being responsive to the public demand for control of food prices."

But Swank added, if the administration trys to bring land back into production and ease off on the farm programs and "we suddenly have surplus food again, we have a right to be very unhappy about it."

Swank also said that he does not anticipate substantial changes in current farm legislation when a new bill hits Congress later this year.

He said if basically the same program is not put back "on the books...we'll be highly critical and we'll go to Washington and make as strong a case as we can."

New rules hit cheating on welfare

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state is coupling new regulations with proposed legislation for "fiscal sanctions" to force county welfare departments to crack down on welfare cheaters.

Welfare Director Charles Bates calls the new state effort a program of "aggressive helpfulness."

He told newsmen Thursday he does not think fraud is widespread throughout Ohio, and conceded that the department crackdown is intended in part to "help us do a better job and gain the confidence of the public."

Bates said a bill is being drafted that would allow the state to withhold county government funds when welfare departments do not cooperate with state efforts to ferret out cheaters.

Details have not been worked out, Bates said, but he added an effort would be made to "find sanctions that would not affect recipients' grants."

New regulations announced by Bates include a requirement for each of the 88 counties to file no later than March 1 a plan giving in detail what each is doing about welfare fraud.

Some sailors grumbling over cut in choice foods

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Navy cooks in this area say their chow hasn't suffered from an order that cheaper meats be used in Navy mess halls.

But there is some grumbling in the ranks about the directive from Adm. Elmo Zumwalt Jr., chief of naval operations.

Today's lunch for 6,000 men at the Naval Training Center includes baked meat loaf and fried filet of perch, plus seconds.

The galley chief, Barkie Mcherron, claims "most of the kids prefer hamburgers, even over steaks." Standing lines to the more expensive selections are always smaller than the speed line to hamburgers, Mcherron said.

But the first two sailors questioned at the 32nd Street Naval Station voiced complaints.

"It seems to me like I'm eating stew all the time, or macaroni and cheese," said Seaman Appren. 2.C. William Hoblitt, 19, of San Luis Obispo, Calif. "I haven't seen too much meat."

Seaman Jerry Murrell, 20, of Indianapolis said he doesn't object to more hamburger — "I don't like steak anyhow, but they've cut back to two sausages instead of three for breakfast."

CWO G. V. Greeson, food service officer for the naval station, said Zumwalt's order means "we're going to cut out the frills," But there will be no cutback in nutrition.

"These guys are still eating better than at home," he said. "I can't afford to feed my own family this way." His galley dinner costs 70 cents.

"I've heard quite a few complaints at each and every meal," said Commissaryman 2.C. Robert Barnes at Miramar Naval Air Station.

"But, then, guys always complain," the 39-year-old cook and apprentice butcher from Los Angeles adds. "You know, they say, 'This isn't like what Mom puts out.'"

Ohio Perspective

Rhodes puts '74 'team' together

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former Gov. James A. Rhodes has put together his own ticket for 1974, hoping he can bring once-united Republicans back together.

But there are already some grumblings from hopeful candidates who didn't make Rhodes' All-Star team.

The Rhodes ticket would have Rhodes running for governor, Lt. Gov. John W. Brown and Secretary of State Ted W. Brown seeking re-election, former State Rep. Roger Tracy Jr. for treasurer, and State Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, for auditor.

The attorney general candidate would be picked by a screening committee.

There was no place on Rhodes' ticket for other hopefuls such as State Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-4 Middletown, or State Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati.

Lukens wants to be a candidate for governor, if he can overcome a 5-year political ban based on the charge he failed to report his campaign expenses on time.

He claims Rhodes and U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Cincinnati, are trying to end their own dispute by "giving the party away."

"It's not theirs to give," he said. "I, for one, am not going to be any part of their agreements."

Aronoff is an unannounced, but serious, contender for attorney general. He has been travelling around the state drumming up support.

Rhodes wants somebody from northeastern Ohio in the attorney general's spot.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown believes a federal court will permit State Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens to run for office despite a state law penalizing candidates who don't file expense statements within 45 days after an election.

"I think they will find the five-years provision too much of a penalty and rule it unconstitutional," Brown said.

Lukens has not yet attempted a court challenge. He contends his statement was prepared and notarized but got lost in the mails.

Youthful members of the Statehouse press corps agreed to take on Lucasville penitentiary inmates in a game of basketball. Warren Wheat of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who is president of the correspondents' association, advised members: "For cryin' out loud, don't argue with the officials, or the players, either." Arguments would have been futile in any case. The inmates won, 141-40.

Airlines industry splits on end to 'special fares'

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The airlines industry views with mixed feelings a government order eliminating such discount fares as the family plan and the youth plan, a step which the government says could lead to reductions in regular fares.

After lengthy hearings on fare structures, the Civil Aeronautics Board issued in December an order canceling family and youth rates on grounds they were discriminatory and unreasonable.

Instead of making the cancellation effective immediately, it said hearings would be conducted on the effects of the cancellation. The board's view was that when a number of discount or promotional fares have been eliminated, many of the special passengers would be paying regular fares, thereby increasing the carriers' revenues, and making possible a reduction in basic rates.

Under the family plan, the head of the family pays the regular fare; there is a discount of 25 per cent for his wife and for their children over 12 years of age, and a discount of 33 1-3 per cent for children under 12.

The "youth standby" rate — requiring a passenger to take a chance on getting a seat on a specific flight — has a discount of 33 1-3 per cent. Some lines also have a "youth reservations" rate with a discount of 20 or 25 per cent.

The family plans have been in use since 1948 and the youth plans since 1960.

These special plans are not a major source of revenue, the airlines say. Trans World Airlines estimates the family plan accounts for about 10 per cent of its revenue passenger-miles, and the youth standby plan for about 5 per cent.

TWA, American Airlines and United Air Lines have filed petitions with the CAB asking for reconsideration of the order, but for differing reasons.

TWA argues that the board was mistaken in its ruling that the costs of carrying passengers at special rates were "substantially the same" as the costs of carrying them at regular rates.

It also asserted that the board "mistakenly assumed that elimination of these discount fares would lead to lower prices for normal tickets." TWA says the CAB "erroneously argues that discount traffic is 'subsidized' by normal fare traffic."

Melvin A. Brenner, vice president of marketing and planning for TWA, says family and youth fares not only help special passengers, but also are of indirect benefit to the regular passengers.

"The cost of flying does not vary much with the number of seats occupied," he says. "Therefore if we can bring additional people aboard, a few more people — say 10 per cent — can make a big difference in economic viability."

In the industry as a whole, scheduled airlines have found the average flight has about 50 per cent of its seats empty.

American Airlines has also petitioned the board to keep family and youth plans, but United Air Lines has proposed that the board's order be placed in effect immediately.

Although United has such services for competitive reasons, a spokesman says, its long-term philosophy has been against them. United always contends that the discounts divert more traffic than they generate and might be discriminatory, as the CAB says. Youth standby age rules have been difficult to enforce, the spokesman adds.

Eastern Air Lines has generally opposed systemwide discount fares, leaning toward promotional fares designed for special markets — such as the multitude of colleges and universities in Eastern's territory.

Eastern is a North-South carrier with relatively short flights and says it faces competition from trains and buses that puts it in a different position than that of the transcontinental lines.

Eye election reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office has prepared a report on election reforms at the request of U.S. Rep. William Keating, R-Ohio calling for cutting the number of issues on ballots and passage of clear and simple election laws.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SATURDAY, FEB. 3

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Planetary influences are somewhat mixed now, so aim at steadiness. Rely upon facts intelligently sought, and upon good advice. Do not depend soley on your own ideas.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Study the factors involved in your day. Is what you planned earlier the right policy now? Maybe a change of tack would advance matters more promisingly.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Your wonderful imagination can lead you to new avenues of attainment now. Mobilize your variety of gifts for tackling a difficult or new type of job.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Some situations are changing. Don't speculate with what you haven't got. Good organization of work matters essential. Direct energies into profitable channels.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You should be highly spirited now, like the highly trained race horse who, while faster than most, is also able to heed the finest hint of direction.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Some matters will prosper, others need extraordinary care. Be a thoughtful judge, and do not mind little aggravations. Keep efficiency, standards high.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Generally you react to a situation brightly. Keep in form now. You should be sparkling with ideas, plans, new and more efficient procedures.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Never mind that you did not attain before, it is how you can accomplish NOW and for the tomorrows that matters. But let old mistakes warn against repetition.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Don't drive so furiously toward your goals that you miss the good "little" things along the way. Some care may be needed to combat antagonism, prevent miscalculations.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Study others' difficulties objectively and you will see his (or her) frustrations more clearly. Your present role is that of inspiring companion.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Exercise extreme caution in financial matters. Due to having insufficient data, there could be danger in signing contracts, especially.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Small things may try your patience, but you have the will power to overcome aggravation. Use it! Keep your mind clear so you can act at properly strategic moments.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with an extraordinarily qick mind. You see situations at a glance and as quickly come up with the right answers. Another of your outstanding characteristics is your ability to carry on, to wade through powerfully in the face of the most roublesome obstacles. In fact, your inner strength seems to gain more momentum under hardship. Aquarius is also a Sign of good fellowship and it expresses itself in your unusually outgoing personality. Yet you plan, observe and often make your wisest decisions in complete solitude. Your talents are many and you could especially excel in the fields of politics, science, music, literature, journalism and art.

Bloodshot eyes help defendant

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Keith H. Lidgerwood's eyes were bloodshot, glazed and watery when he was taken to a police station and charged with drunken driving, Sgt. George Atkins told the court in Lauceston, Tasmania, Wednesday.

"Both eyes?" Lidgerwood's attorney asked the policeman.

"Yes," said Atkins.

"Were they both the same?" the lawyer persisted.

"Yes," Atkins insisted.

Lidgerwood, 64, removed his glass right eye and placed it on the ledge of the dock.

Case dismissed.

Lions at home, MT on road tonight

Bulky schedule looms for SCOL cage teams

A bulky seven-game docket looms for the six South Central Ohio League basketball teams this weekend.

Three pivotal SCOL skirmishes appear on Friday night's worksheet while five of the six SCOL teams will be clashing with non-league teams Saturday night.

The Miami Trace-Circleville struggle will be the SCOL's headliner Friday night, while in other action, Washington C. H. entertains revived Hillsboro and Greenfield McClain visits Wilmington

MIAMI TRACE'S Panthers will be searching for their fourth straight win of the season in the 8 p.m. with the co-leading Tigers. The game will be played at Circleville's old Mill St. gym.

The Panthers, waiting in the wings of the SCOL stage only one game out of first place, will carry a 4-3 league record into the crucial showdown while Circleville will be risking its 5-2 loop chart.

Washington C. H.'s Blue Lions will be trying to preserve their tie atop the SCOL standings when unpredictable Hillsboro comes calling for the important shootout at the WSHS gym.

A Washington C. H. win, coupled with a Miami Trace victory over Circleville, would give the Lions sole ownership of the SCOL's top perch.

GREENFIELD, the defending SCOL king, will be shopping for its first league win of the campaign in tonight's bout with Wilmington, which will risk its 4-3 loop record.

Three of the SCOL teams will be on the road Saturday night as they try to improve a 21-16 record posted against outside competition this season. Only Washington C. H. is idle in Saturday's action.

Miami Trace pays a visit to Columbus Bishop Hartley, Circleville travels to neighboring Hamilton Township, Wilmington goes to Hamilton Taft and Greenfield entertains Chillicothe.

Prep computer goofed!

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A mathematical goof cost Hannibal River High School a berth in the first state football playoffs last fall, the Ohio High School Athletic Association announced Thursday.

Harold Meyer, commissioner for the OHSAA, said Uniontown Lake represented Region 7 in the Class AA semi-finals instead of Hannibal River because of the error.

The commissioner said the error penalized a team that had two or more open dates or games with out of state opponents. River played two West Virginia rivals, beating Magnolia 21-19 and Weirton Madonna 14-12 en route to a 10-0 record.

Lake, 8-2-0, played its entire schedule against Ohio opponents, then lost in the first round to Class AA state champ Akron St. Vincent, 42-6.

The ratings were based on a 10-game schedule and Meyer said, "If a team played nine games or one out of state team, the points were divided by nine and multiplied by 10.

"For schools playing eight games, or two out of state teams — as River did — the divisor of nine was used instead of the divisor of eight. The divisor should have been reduced accordingly," said Meyer.

Stan Bonar, an accountant who has computer training, discovered the error and the president of the River boosters had another computer printout run at the school's expense.

After the error, the computerized ratings showed River first with 398 points and Lake second with 375 points.

Meyer, apologizing to the school, its team and students, said the OHSAA would reimburse River the $200 it cost for the additional print-out and said the school would be presented a plaque showing it as Region 7 champion.

River's record was its best in its 16-year history and also was the last coaching season for Martin Flannery, retiring after 24 years.

BGSU faces key MAC bout

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— "This is the biggest game in the league so far," Bowling Green Coach Pat Haley says of the Falcons' Mid-American basketball date Saturday with Miami of Ohio.

"It's the rest of the league against Miami," said Haley prior to the home rematch with the Redskins. Miami won earlier at Oxford, 67-62.

If the Redskins repeat that triumph, they will be 6-1 in the league and two games up on everybody in the important loss column. However, a Miami loss would create a first-place tie between the Redskins and Bowling Green at 5-2.

"We'd be in real good shape in that case," said Haley, whose sophomore-dominated squad has its only conference road assignments left at Ohio University and Western Michigan.

"Miami has that real fine defense, its trademark," Haley said. "And (Phil) Lumpkin has given them great leadership."

Lumpkin's shooting did the Falcons in the first time. He hit 13 of 22 shots and wound up with 27 points.

Bowling Green may be without the services of Brian Scanlan, a junior forward who was decked by the flu Thursday. If Scanlan does not start, it will be Tom Scott.

"We're certainly puzzling," Haley said of his youngsters, who have lost their last three games at home and won their last three on the road.

Miami faces a bugaboo at Bowling Green. The Redskins have been in first place the last two seasons and lost both times on the Falcons' floor. It was Bowling Green's lone victory in 10 league games a year ago.

In other games, Toledo goes to Ohio University, Western Michigan to Kent State and Buffalo State to Central Michigan, all afternoon matches. The Miami-BG contest is at night.

The Toledo-Ohio game will all but eliminate the loser from the title picture. The Rockets are third at 4-3 and the Bobcats fourth at 3-3.

Elsewhere on the Ohio college scene, assistant mentor Bob Burkholder again will guide Ohio State Saturday when the Buckeyes play a Big Ten game at Wisconsin.

Head Coach Fred Taylor is winding up a week's recuperation in Florida after being hospitalized with a chest disorder two weeks ago. The Buckeyes, 2-2 in the league, need a triumph to remain a title contender.

Cincinnati tries to extend its series record over highly-regarded Houston to 13-0. The host Cougars and Bearcats haven't met since the 1963-64 season, however. Cincinnati is 11-7 this season.

Other WCH teams snap skids

Lion frosh stretch spree to six in row

Washington C. H.'s freshman basketball team stretched its winning streak to six consecutive games while the other two Blue Lion teams snapped losing skids Thursday night.

The Lion frosh hiked their season record to 10-1 with a convincing 62-45 win over Hillsboro at the junior high gym, while in other action, the Washington C. H. eighth graders snapped a two-game spin with a 38-34 win over Hillsboro and the Lion seventh graders cracked a three-game with a 31-28 victory at Hillsboro.

FORWARD CHUCK Byrd spearheaded the win for Coach Don Gibbs' Lions with a 26-point performance and pivotman Doug Phillips provided ample support with 18 counters. The Lions zoomed to a 29-6 first period lead and had stretched that bulge to 51-16 at intermission.

Coach Ken Hays' eighth grade bunch escaped with a 14-12 first period lead and then held Hilisboro scoreless in the second frame to grab a 23-12 lead at halftime.

Double figure scoring efforts from Jim Crabtree (19) and Sam McClendon (10) paced the Lion Cubs to their third win in nine outings this season. The Lions used a 6-2 scoring advantage at the free throw line since both teams had 16 field goals.

Jeff Elliott played a fine floor game in sparking Coach Carl Anders' seventh graders to their fifth win in eight games.

New Holland victor in MT loop shootout

Art Schlichter won his scoring duel with Dan Gifford, but New Holland emerged with a victory to remain atop the standings in the Miami Trace District junior high basketball league.

Schlichter popped in 40 of Madison Mills' 48 points, but New Holland, behind a 26-point spree from Gifford, posted a 52-48 win to stretch its record to 5-1.

In other action at Bloomingburg's gym Thursday night, Bloomingburg nudged Jeffersonville 43-41 in a contest in which Jeff was held scoreless in the second quarter.

In the third game Eber received a balanced scoring effort to squeeze past Wayne in a 42-38 struggle.

MT game directions

Fans planning to attend the Miami Trace - Bishop Hartley game Saturday are advised of the following route by Miami Trace athletic director Delmar Mowery.

Travel I-71 north to the Mound St. exit and follow Mound St. to I-70-E and stay on 70-E until the James Rd. exit. Turn north onto James Rd. and follow to Livingston Ave. Travel east on Livingston one block and turn right on Zettler Ave. The school is located at the intersection of Zettler and Livingston.

Weegie's, MT Faculty register cage wins

Weegie's Town Tavern and Miami Trace's Faculty notched victories Thursday night in Washington C.H. Independent basketball league action at the junior high gym.

The Town Tavern bunch downed Bob Lewis Realty 61-45 in the opener and Miami Trace's Faculty whipped Carter Feed and Grain 87-51 in the nightcap.

FIVE PLAYERS landed double figure scoring totals for Weegie's Town Tavern, which increased its record to 4-5. Mike Wilson's 17-point effort sparked the balancing act and Peanut Smith canned 12.

Ed Summers scored 12 points to pace the scoring attack for Lewis Realty, now 3-5 on the season.

Miami Trace's Faculty received double figure scoring from five players in picking up its seventh win in eight starts. Carl Whitaker popped in 20 to ignite the attack and Steve Yambor scored 16.

Big George Archer takes share of Hawaiian lead

HONOLULU (AP) — Big George Archer says he's at least a month away from playing good.

"Let's just hope better days are ahead," the 6-foot-6 one-time ranch hand sighed.

But his position—a share of the lead—going into today's second round in the $200,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament, doesn't really reflect his pessimism.

"I've changed everything around, the way I'm hitting the ball off the tee," Archer said. "It was just awful. Now I'm doing the right thing. But I don't feel comfortable. It'll take time. I'm at least a month away from playing the way I want to."

He managed a four-under-par 68 in Thursday's first round to tie youthful Tom Watson and old pro Gay Brewer, who has a habit of winning away from the continental United States, for the lead in this rich event that offers a $40,000 first rize.

Tied at 69, just one stroke back and three under par on the 7,154-yard Waialae Country Club course, were Doug Sanders, Lanny Wadkins, Gibby Gilbert and Takaaki Kono, a 120-pound Japanese.

Arnold Palmer, a 43-year-old master trying to shake persistent putting troubles, defending title-holder Grier Jones and a half-dozen others were at 70.

Lee Trevino, who scorched the plush layout by the balmy beaches of the Pacific with a 61 in Wednesday's pro-am, slipped to a par 72. He had to birdie the last hole to do that.

Also in the big group at the figure was Australian veteran Bruce Crampton, already the winner of two tour titles this season.

Winner set as N.Y. Jets head coach

NEW YORK (AP) — Charlie Winner, who has had previous football ties with Weeb Ewbank as an assistant coach and who has off-field ties as Ewbank's son-in-law, will become head coach of the New York Jets in 1974.

"I did my homework and he's the best man for the job," Phil Iselin, president of the National Football League club, said Thursday in announcing that Winner will serve as a Ewbank assistant and then take over as head coach when the 65-year-old Ewbank becomes general manager in 1974.

Winner, who has signed a three-year contract that will make him head coach through 1976, has been an assistant to George Allen, handling the Washington Redskins' defensive secondary, since he was fired as head coach of the St. Louis Cardinals following the 1970 season and a five-year-record of 35-30-5. He was 8-5-1 in 1970.

Winner was an assistant coach at Case Tech in Cleveland, and married to Nancy Ewbank, when he left in 1954 to bcome a Baltimore Colts assistant after Ewbank was named as head coach.

When Ewbank was fired after a 7-7 season in 1962 and was hired by the Jets, then of the American Football League, Winner stayed with the Colts under Don Shula.

MT's frosh suffer loss

Miami Trace's freshmen basketball team dropped its seventh game of the season Thursday night as Circleville posted a 49-39 win at Circleville.

Rick Saunders hooped 19 points to spark the scoring attack for Coach Terry Richard's Panthers and Rodney Garringer provided ample backing with 13 markers.

The Panther frosh, now 4-7 on the season, will host Greenfield at 5 p.m. Monday and entertain Wilmington Thursday.

In-service program for teachers slated

An in-service program for all teachers in both Washington C. H. and the Miami Trace School systems is planned for next Thursday at 3:15 p.m. at Washington Senior High School. Schools in the Miami Trace district only will be dismissed an hour early.

At 3:15 p.m., an introductory reading workshop in all content areas for junior and senior high school teachers will be conducted by Miss Meredith Johnson, chairman of the secondary reading program, in the Columbus public schools. She taught speech and English at Miami Trace in 1966-67, and since then has served as Title I reading consultant in Hamilton Local Schools and as a reading specialist in Columbus schools.

At 4:15 p.m. a workshop on "Reading in the Middle Grades" will be conducted by Miss Eileen Tway, assistant professor at Miami University, Oxford, who will show slides and discuss trends and issues involved in reading in middle grades. Miss Tway, a native of Fayette County, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Tway, near Greenfield. She has taught in elementary schools in Ohio and Indiana and at the University of Chicago. She taught at Ohio State University before becoming assistant professor in the Department of Education at Miami.

AT 5 P.M. James Wheeler, coordinator of primary physical education in the Dayton schools, will discuss body management, as related to reading achievement — being able to use the body in a confident manner. He feels that body management is divided into gross motor skills, form perception, hand-eye coordination and ocular pursuits and, by means of film, he will explain the areas as demonstrated by students in classrooms.

From 5:30 until 6:30 p.m. dinner will be served in the cafeteria at the high school. Mrs. Ruth Domenico will make place cards, and students in Mrs. Dorothy Rueppel's special education class at Wilson School will be in charge of table arrangements.

From 6:30 to 8 p.m. Miss Tway will conduct two workshops to offer suggestions for informal reading tests, individualized reading and other activities to improve a reading program.

At the same time, Wheeler will conduct similar workshops at which teachers will have an opportunity to learn specific body coordination activities to be used in the classroom.

The program has been planned by the Fayette County Right to Read Committee, composed of Mrs. June Slaughter, and Hugh Rea, co-chairmen; Mrs. Evelyn Reser, Mrs. Charlene Mace, Mrs. Mila Schlichter, Mrs. Domenico, Mrs. Norma Wilson and Mrs. Connie Meriweather.

Laos list brings joy to families

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Not knowing, not being sure — that was the most horrible thing during these two years," Rose Gotner said after her husband, missing in action nearly two years, was reported on a list of prisoners of war in Laos.

"But last Saturday, that was the most horrible day of our lives because we were supposed to get a complete accounting then of all the prisoners," she said in Sacramento, Calif., after being notified Thursday that her husband, Maj. Norbert Gotner, was named on a list of seven POWs held by the Communists in Laos.

"We started waiting at 5 a.m. (Saturday), and we waited all day for the telephone," she said.

"We got this champagne then," she said gesturing to a bottle that had been opened a short time before, "Finally at 8 o'clock Saturday night they came to the house and said Norm wasn't on the list.

"I didn't cry then. I cried today after the Air Force called from San Antonio. They said he was on the list of prisoners in Laos. The first thing I did was sit down and cry, I had tears flowing all down my face. I could hardly believe it was over," she said, now excited and smiling.

Mrs. Gotner, a petite, blonde mother of three, said she had heard nothing about her husband since Feb. 3, 1971 — the day his Phantom jet was shot down along the border of Laos and North Vietnam.

"But I never at any time thought he was dead," she added.

In Winlock, Wash. Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Leonard said their son, Air Force Maj. Edward W. Leonard, Jr.,34, was also on the list.

"It's a great feeling of satisfaction and relief," Leonard said. "We knew that he was alive, but we never had any contact with him."

In Centralia, Wash., Dwight Mattix said the State Department told him the name of his son, Samuel, 20, and Lloyd Oppel, of Courtenay, B.C., were on the list of civilians who were captured in Laos.

Mattix said the two were missionaries when they were taken prisoner last October.

Also on the list was Air Force Capt. Stephen Long, who had not been heard from since his plane was shot down over Laos on Feb. 28, 1969. His parents, Dan Long and Mrs. H.E. Barnhart, both of Springfield, Ore., were notified that he was alive on Thursday.

"I just got goose pimples all over," said Mrs. Barnhart. "There just isn't a word for how you feel at a time like this."

E.S. Preston joins power siting panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan announced Thursday the appointment of E.S. Preston of Columbus, former state highway director, as a member of the Power Siting Commission.

Preston, 61, a native of Portsmouth, is president of E.S. Preston Associates. He will serve on the commission at the pleasure of the governor, receiving $5,000 annually.

Most POWs said likely to continue in service

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— State and federal employment experts predict most returning prisoners of war won't need job placement help right away because they'll be staying in the service.

"The average POW has 16 years in the service," said Stan Wyman, spokesman for the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services. "That's only four years to retirement. We assume that most of them will stay in."

But those who decide to leave the military and look for jobs, will find a small army of placement experts and a vast array of special programs to help them.

"If you added up the list of programs and departments that are involved in this, it probably would be more than there are POWs," Wyman said at a news briefing Wednesday.

Returnees will have access to the same programs that have been available to all veterans, but OBES counselor Thomas Edwards said red tape and many requirements will be cut for the POWs.

Victor Smith of the U.S. Department of Labor, who was also at the briefing, said both state and federal agencies will "break our necks" to see that returning prisoners obtain the jobs they want.

Edwards said that if military and civilian government job counselors can't help a returnee, the 30,000-member National Alliance of Businesses has offered placement services.

The Labor Department is also putting up $500,000 to pay for trips by POWs to distant points for job interviews and for relocation expenses up to $1,200.

Smith said the Department of Labor has been less successful than it would like to be in finding jobs for veterans, although he said placement has picked up in the last year.

But Wyman said the returning prisoners, as a group, should be easier to place than veterans in general. He said most are officers, and many have college experience or technical skills.

OBES will be directly concerned with the 26 Ohio POWs who will be returning to Wright Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton.

Edwards said he also would help the estimated 74 other returnees to be processed through Dayton to get in touch with placement resources in Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

6-member ethics panel selected by Ohio assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A six-member legislative subcommittee was named Thursday to draft a code of ethics for members of the Ohio General Assembly.

Sen. Paul Gillmor, chairman of the newly-created Legislative Ethics Committee, announced the appointments. His committee was created by a bill passed by the legislature last Dec. 15.

The port Clinton Republican said the full committee eventually will adopt a legislative code of ethics which will affect the General Assembly without requiring its approval.

Named to the bipartisan drafting group were Reps. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina; James P. Celebrezze, D-4 Cleveland; Joseph P. Tulley, R-59 Mentor; and Sens. Anthony F. Novak, D-23 Cleveland; Robert J. Corts, R-13 Elyria, and Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron.

Old fashioned hardware store to close

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Frank P. Hall Hardware, an old-fashioned jumble just right for noon-time browsing in downtown Columbus, is closing down.

Not for lack of customers, but for lack of clerks.

"All the employes retired," said Harold Hessler, head of sporting goods.

You don't find good hardware clerks easily. It's even worse trying to find good sporting goods clerks.

Hessler, who retired last October, came back to help out in the final "After Christmas Sale" which will mark the unceremonious end of a downtown institution.

"We've all had a lot of crying over closing down," said Mrs. Charles Lewis, 62-year-old bookkeeper who started in 1936, took time out to rear a family and returned 12 years ago. "But, I'm ready to retire myself."

Of the five Hall employes, only Orville McCabe will take another job. He is a youngster with only 20 years of tenure at Hall.

Jim Hustead, 67, started at Hall Hardware in 1922, or a half century past. He has been head of the hardware department. "A lot of customers lose out," he grumbled.

Someone mentioned customers preferring airy, modern hardware stores. "They won't get the service they get here," he snapped.

A newcomer might think Hall Hardware is a jungle of disorder with its creaking floors piled with hardware and sporting goods, its walls lined with everything from hinges to fishing lures, its ceiling festooned with fan belts.

But, in 20 minutes Hessler, Hustead and McCabe found on first try a liner for a thermos bottle (model 120), a nut for a screw that holds a rug-making frame together, and a two-handed fly rod strong enough to catch tarpon.

Hessler didn't recommend the rod. "It's murder," he told the customer. "I recommend a lighter one."

Hustead said in an aside: "They couldn't get anybody to clean rods and reels like he did," he said, nodding toward Hessler.

Charles Lewis, head of the hobby shop for 43 years,had to retire. He has been hospitalized with eye trouble. Mrs. Frank P. Hall, 79, decided to close down.

Court Hall Jr., her grandson, is in charge of the store closing. He didn't want to close. At 67 he wanted to keep the store open. His children talked him out of it.

So, what hasn't been sold at 40 per cent discount by Saturday, will be auctioned off, even to the 67-year-old balance scales, bought by Frank P. Hall at the outset.

"They just don't make things like these scales any more," said Hustead. He shook his head as he looked at the contraption.

"Why, I'll bet you there's been a 100 ton of nails sold over them since 1906."

Dogcatchers in 2 cities help grab bank robbers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dogcatchers in two cities abandoned their regular work to give chase to bank robbers, in each case chasing the men in their radio-equipped trucks.

In Milton, Mass., dog officer John Lank was riding in his truck Thursday when he heard a police radio dispatch reporting a robbery in nearby Canton. He spotted the car and gave chase, radioing his location to police.

Soon the alleged getaway car had a string of police vehicles on its tail, led by Lank in his dogcatcher's truck.

The two men in the car stopped and were hauled out by Lank, who turned them over to arriving police officers. Police said the two were armed with a gun.

In Ann Arbor, Mich., dog warden Steve Hill, 20, also overheard a police report of a bank robbery Thursday. Hill spotted the car pulling out of a parking lot and gave chase, radioing his position along the way.

Police said several shots were fired at Hill, some striking his truck. He was not injured.

Patrol cars soon joined Hill's truck and the suspect car finally came to a halt. It's occupants fled on foot, but were captured by police.

Investigators said one of the captured men complained on the way to the police station:

"Someone should have given that kid in the truck a traffic citation, the way he drove!"

President firm on fund freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Nixon administration officials are telling angry senators the President has full authority to impound any funds appropriated by Congress and that any move to curb that authority will be fought.

Caspar W. Weinberger, former head of the Office of Management and Budget, faces Senate Labor Committee questioning today on impoundments and sharp cuts in domestic programs as he seeks approval of his nomination to head the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

His replacement at OMB, former defense-industry executive Roy Ash, told the Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday that passage of a bill giving Congress veto power over impoundments would lead to financial chaos.

The Senate votes today on a bill requiring approval of the OMB director, with Ash specifically included.

Meanwhile, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz told the Senate Agriculture Committee Thursday that the American farm community must share the President's effort to trim government spending and halt inflation.

Butz' department has experienced heavy cutbacks and the termination of several programs and he had been scheduled to appear also before a judiciary subcommittee probing the constitutional questions involved in impoundment.

He did not appear. But after Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., subcommittee chairman, threatened him with a subpoena, administration spokesmen said Butz would be available next week.

Agriculture Committee Chairman Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., told Butz he will resist what he called the President's effort to secure an "item veto" not allowed by the Constitution.

'Dead man' turns up on street

MIAMI (AP) — Nish Scott's ex-wife burst into tears when told by police that her children's father was killed in an auto wreck.

Then Ruby Scott cried out louder when she came face to face with Scott while on the way to the morgue Thursday to identify what she thought was his body.

Scott, whom she ran into on the street, was nursing a swollen eye and cut lip.

"It was pretty shocking," said Mrs. Scott.

Dade County Sheriff's deputies soon learned that the body removed from Scott's wrecked auto was apparently the body of a robber who had beaten Scott and then stole his vehicle.

The accident victim had been identified as Scott because, although the body had no identification on it, a traffic ticket issued to Nish Scott was in the car.

Scott told police he had picked up two hitchhikers who robbed him and took his money and car.

He was angry over the robbery but Sheriff's Det. Gerald Mingo said Scott took the news of his death "pretty gracefully."

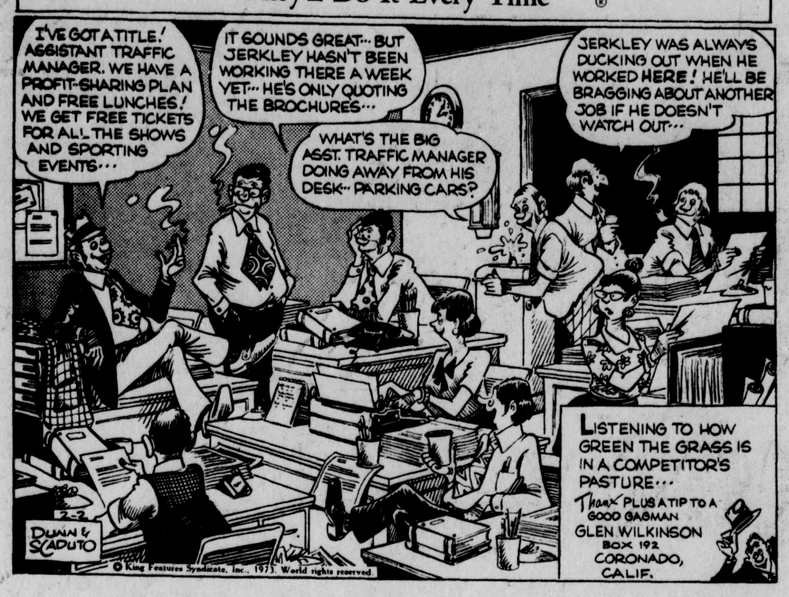
They'll Do It Every Time



Contract Bridge ♠♥♦♣ B. Jay Becker

Test Your Dummy Play

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North leads the six of hearts and you win South's jack with the queen. How would you play the hand?

	♠A 10 3 ♥A Q 10 ♦Q 9 8 2 ♣A 10 5
♠K J 6 ♥8 4 2 ♦K J 10 5 ♣Q J 8	N W E S

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Spades and North leads the queen of hearts. How would you play the hand?

	♠A K J 9 4 ♥7 6 2 ♦J 9 ♣A 10 2
♠Q 10 5 ♥A 8 5 ♦A K 4 2 ♣9 8 3	N W E S

1. Played correctly, the contract is certain to come home. You simply lead a spade to the king, play the queen of clubs and finesse. If the queen loses to the king, North cannot return a spade or a heart without handing you a vital trick, while if he returns a diamond or a club, you simply force out the ace of diamonds to acquire nine tricks.

If the queen of clubs wins at trick three, shift your attention to diamonds, forcing out the ace, and again you are sure of nine tricks.

If you try any other method of play, you may make the contract but cannot be certain of it. Only the suggested method is sure to bring home the bacon.

2. Win the heart and play a low diamond from dummy! If South has the queen he will almost surely play it, and this will give you three diamond tricks instead of the two you started with. The defense will probably cash two hearts and shift to a club.

Take the ace, cash the A-K of trumps and jack of diamonds, cross to dummy with a trump and discard two clubs on the A-K of diamonds. This method of play succeeds if the trumps are divided 3-2.

If South follows low on the low diamond play from dummy at trick two, you should assume he does not have the queen. Accordingly, play the nine, not the jack. If South has the ten, the nine will force the queen and again you will be on firm ground.

The contract is not certain with any method of play, but the one suggested offers by far the best chance for a tenth trick.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A Drug for Thyroid Disease

Can you give me some information about the drug cytomel which is used for thyroid disease?

Mrs. L.T., Pa.

Dear Mrs. T.:

Cytomel is a chemical and a synthetic form of the thyroid hormone. The name used by the manufacturer is the brand name for liothyronine.

Thyroid hormone is given to patients with decreased thyroid gland function. This is known as hypothyroidism.

Sometimes the thyroid hormone is tried in people who have an enlargement of the thyroid or a goiter. In some cases it is said to reduce the size of a non-toxic goiter.

There are very specific reasons for the use of this drug. There are also many reasons why the drug should not be used.

When the function of the thyroid gland is studied, this chemical substitute for the natural thyroid hormone can often be used with great success. When used, doctors carefully follow the patient to be sure that a proper balance is established between the drug and the activity of the thyroid gland.

Three members of my family have Parkinson's disease. Is it possible that this disease is inherited? Would it be important they they all work in anthracite coal mines?

Mr. J.N., W. Va.

Dear Mr. N.:

As far as I know, there is no familial or hereditary factor in the production of Parkinson's disease. Also known as paralysis agitans, or shaking palsy, this condition most commonly occurs after encephalitis or inflammation of the brain.

Sometimes it occurs in the middle-aged and in the elderly without any known reason. Much is known about the disease from the clinical point of view because the appearance of the patient is so characteristic.

Besides a tremor of the fingers, there is often a fixed facial expression. The eyes often do not blink and there is a staring attitude which quickly identifies or suggests Parkinson's disease.

Remarkable benefits have been obtained in many cases with the drug L-dopa.

The fact that those members of your family who are affected with this disease work in coal mines may be of great importance. It is well known that this condition may result from chronic exposure and poisoning with carbon monoxide. The heavy metal manganese and other related metals are known to be toxic and can also produce a condition closely resembling Parkinson's Diseases.

Here may lie the relationship. Certainly the owners of the mine and the doctors associated with it should be told of this familial problem.

Insurance firms eye 'flexibility'

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The bedrock belief on which the life insurance industry is built, the assured-fixed-precise return, has shifted. Soon you may have the option of accepting your proceeds in variable rather than fixed dollars.

The change, cleared this week by a Securities and Exchange Commission decision, introduces into life insurance the chance of actually earning money on your insurance rather than merely obtaining security and some savings.

The low-risk element is essentially still there, because a minimum return is guaranteed. But because your premiums go directly into stocks, where money should grow, you or your heirs might receive a bonus atop benefits.

At least three fundamental reasons are involved in the industry's decision to at least partially foresake its once-zealous advocacy of the fixed-dollar return:

1. Inflation, or the erosion of dollar values, have made the fixed dollar less and less acceptable.

2. The pressure of competition from equities, such as mutual funds, which tend to ride the crest of inflation — or at least not be submerged by it — make it advisable to offer a more flexible product.

3. A more affluent and educated public, to a great extent freed from insecurities by Social Security, private pensions, group health and life policies, unemployment insurance and the like desires innovative techniques for building estates.

The decision made by the SEC was that while variable life is subject to the same federal registration and information disclosure regulations that apply to securities, it is exempt from federal commission restraints.

While this decision might seem almost meaningless to the consumer, it actually is of great importance. Here's why:

If variable life commissions were federally regulated they would be restricted to not more than 8.5 or 9 per cent of the first year's premiums — a rate that would hardly appeal to insurance salesmen.

Salesmen of ordinary life now can earn commissions ranging upward from 50 per cent of the first year's premiums paid by the insured.

Study committee organized to assess MT grade program

A committee has been organized to study the elementary school program in the Miami Trace School District in view of concern by the Fayette County Board of Education and administration in relation to certain areas at the elementary level that need to be upgraded.

Superintendent Guy M. Foster welcomed the group of 35 in attendance and explained to them some of the reasons for the group's organization. First he explained that a board of education is responsible to the citizenry for evaluating the educational program in the school district.

Foster told the group they must consider such questions as:

(1) Is the curriculum offered adequate and comprehensive enough to meet the needs?

(2) Should junior high students be offered an organized physical education, industrial arts, home economics, art, and advanced math course?

(3) If special education and kindergarten programs are expanded, will there be rooms available?

(4) When do old buildings or facilities reach the stage where extensive repair is not financially wise?

(5) Could some change in organizational arrangements pull larger groups of the same grade level of students together so groupings of students and special services from librarians, counselors and others could be provided.

The study group felt a comprehensive study should be made and expressed a willingness to help, Foster said. It was suggested that other people might be invited to serve.

Foster outlined some of the general areas to be studied. They are curriculum, buildings, enrollments and finances and school organization.

Board members and the administrative staff will organize the study and ask members of the group to serve on various committees.

Dog, Kennel Club makes 'obedience school' plans

The Paint Valley Dog and Kennel Club, meeting at Anderson's Restaurant Thursday evening, discussed the obedience school, scheduled to get under way Feb. 12, and made plans for the next dog show.

To make the school worthwhile, a total of 20 owners must be signed up for the 10-week course, and to date eight have made definite commitments. The school is for dogs, pure bred or not, six months old or older, which have had distemper shots.

The course costs $20, and the first meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Feb. 12 in the Fine Arts Building at the Fayette County Fairground. If there are not 20 owners with their dogs present at that time, the school will not be held. The next obedience school will then be in the fall.

Mrs. Elmer Haymaker, who will be instructor, or Mrs. Carl Wilt can give dog-owners further information.

Assessing the club's "Pure Bred Puppy Match," held last Sunday, as a complete success, with no complaints from owners or viewers, the group began immediate plans for an outdoor "Puppy Fun Match" on June 17 at the Fairground. Robert Schneider will be superintendent of the show and Carl Wilt, co-superintendent.

In addition to the usual classes, an obedience class will be added, for subnovice exhibitors, and also, a junior handling class, to encourage young people to display their pets in competition.

Boys' Choir plans concert

The Fayette County Boys' Choir is making plans for a sacred music concert to be presented Sunday, Feb. 25, at 7 p.m. in the First Christian Church, N. North St.

The group, directed by Mrs. Robert E. Willis, its founder, will have complete charge of the service, assisted by the Rev. Don Baker. The boys will appear in black and white robes, and there will be a candlelight processional and recessional.

The public is invited, and the offering will go into a fund to pay for a spring educational trip, tentatively to the historic Charlottesville, Va., area. The choir was unable to make a trip last year because of lack of finances.

"We are preparing some attractive choral numbers for the concert," Mrs. Willis said, adding that "two thirds of the choir is new this year, and there are many excellent voices among the 24 members."

Trucker reports theft

Charles Sutton, Cincinnati truck driver, reported to sheriff's deputies the theft of a suitcase from the cab of his semi-rig, Thursday. Sutton said the suitcase, containing a logbook and personal items valued at $133, was taken from the unlocked cab of the truck parked on the Stop 35 lot.

DP&L layoffs caused by gas shortage

The Dayton Power and Light Co. will lay off 19 employes Saturday. Due to the shortage of gas the company can no longer extend service to new customers, and as a result gas construction has been severely curtailed.

One person locally is among those to be furloughed, George Winkle, Washington C.H. district manager said.

Last October it was determined that there were 95 surplus employes in gas construction work throughout the system. The company, through an intensive job review program, was able to assign many of these employes to other work. Others were transferred within the company, retired, or resigned.

The employes to be laid off all have two years or less seniority. It is hoped that these lay offs will be of short duration. Those laid off will be asked to come back to work when job openings occur for which they are qualified.

County Board plans grade school study

The Fayette County Board of Education will map plans for a comprehensive study to be conducted in the elementary schools in the Miami Trace School District at its meeting scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Superintendent Guy M. Foster said board members will establish committees and set procedures for the study along with several miscellaneous and routine matters.

Houseman returned to soldiers panel

Wayne L. Houseman, Jeffersonville - West Lancaster Road, has been reappointed by Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman to serve an additional term on the Fayette County Soldier's Relief Commission.

Houseman, whose term expired Dec. 5, 1972, will serve a five-year term ending Dec. 5, 1977.

NEW STYLE CRUISERS — Police Sgt. Virgil Harris climbs into one of the city's new police cruisers which just arrived this week. Three new all-white cruisers will replace the blue and white cars presently in use. One of the old cruisers will be traded in and the other (in background) will be painted white and used as the city manager's car. The new cruisers are equipped with two 5-million-candle power strobe flashers in the rear windows in addition to the twin flashers on the roof. Police Chief Rodman Scott said the new flashers will make it easier for motorists approaching from the rear to see the stopped cruiser and avoid possible rear-end collisions.

Another good deed by Jaycees

'Red Ball' project complete

"Operation Red Ball" is another completed project of the Washington C. H. Jaycees, who were assisted by Delta Rho Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha, in covering all of the city on foot, house by house.

The fire rescue program, which is sanctioned by acting Fire Chief Maynard Denen and his department, consists of red vinyl balls, given to residents who have children or invalids in the house. A ball is placed on the door of the residence, and other balls are placed in the upper left corner of windows in rooms where a child or invalid sleeps.

Some homes required several stickers to identify all the rooms, so, that if necessary, firemen can be alerted, speeding rescue operation.

If anyone was missed in the canvass, red balls, which are free, may be obtained by writing the Jaycees, P. O. Box 411, Washington C. H. There will also be supplies in the main branches of the banks, at the Chamber of Commerce office and at the Washington Fire Department after Feb. 5.

Because it was impossible to cover the county in the project, the red balls will be supplied to all county fire departments.
